The Vatican, Far-Seeing. Roosevelt, Young, Smith. Easy on the Brain. Ghost Fleet Warning.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ITALY'S GOVERNMENT uses the radio to broadcast criticism of the Vatican. The broadcast, flatly contradicting the Pope, declares that the organization "Catholic Action" is political and declares that Italy cannot tolerate interference by "a foreign state," referring thus to the papal government.

POPE PIUS, on the anniversary of the ratification of the Lateran treaty establishing the Pope's temporal possessions and government, declares that the church is "fighting a battle for liberty of conscience and the freedom of man to seek salvation in religion."

THE POPE, far-seeing, possesses on his own territory a powerful radio plant, able to reach all countries, and is not deprived of power to make adequate reply. He also has, within the Vatican grounds, a small air field that, in case of need, would make him independent of Italian means of transportation.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, of New York, and Owen D. Young will attend annual exercises of the public school at Van Hornesville, N. Y. The village has only 200 inhabitants. Only eight pupils will graduate. But the day, June 22, is important to Mr. Young, and Gov. Roosevelt goes along to make it more important.

MR. YOUNG once went to school in Van Hornesville and later made his living there, steering a plow. He has since found occupations less uncertain than farming.

The occasion will be interesting, because 90 out of 100 politicians believe that Roosevelt or Young will be nominated by the Democrats next year. Some of the most practical think it will be Young, although Jesse I. Straus, distinctly practical, thinks it will surely be Roosevelt.

Former Gov. Smith could tell you, if he chose, what chance either would have of getting the full Democratic vote, if nominated.

GEN. CHARLES G. DAWES, our ambassador to Great Britain, returns with the statement that "American diplomacy is easy on the brain, but hell on the feet." An ambassador must walk around a good deal, but need not do much thinking.

He need only read messages after they have been "decoded" for him.

The country needs abroad only a careful clerk, and this emphasizes the stupidity of spending millions of the public's money to buy embassies, occupied at public expense by those that get jobs "easy on the brain, hell on the feet."

THE LAST three of Uncle Sam's "ghost fleet" have been towed from Jones Point, in the Hudson River, to another mooring at Staten Island. There they will wait, to be sold or scrapped, peacefully rusting. They had been rusting farther up the river for nine years, and hundreds of other ships, that cost hundreds of millions, have rusted similarly, or been sold for scrap iron.

This shows what happens to a country that drifts into a war unprepared. It spends billions, and gets nothing in return.

WE HAD NO ships, so we built hundreds of them. They never went to sea.

We had no flying machines, and we spent about a billion dollars trying to get some. We got them, but THEY WOULDN'T FLY. Our fliers in Europe had to borrow machines from the French and British.

If another war came, we should again be found unprepared, with only "samples" of an air fleet and a submarine fleet, and we should spend more billions, in a hurry and probably get nothing in return.

THESE ARE painful days for those that believe in the old religions. In China, Japan, India, faith is losing its hold on this generation.

Particularly dramatic was the fate of a muezzin, devout Mohammedan, calling the faithful to prayer. From his high minaret, he sent across the city the old call, proclaiming Allah the one god and Mohammed his prophet.

HE LOOKED down, expecting to see the faithful kneeling in the public square, their faces turned toward the east and the sacred kabba stone of Mecca.

Instead, he saw Mohammedan boys and girls, the latter with faces uncovered, dancing on the sidewalks, ignoring his call. Disgusted and desperate, he threw himself from the great heights, dashing out his brains among them.

THE BRITISH have a theory, dating back to Waterloo, that it is the divine right of Manchester to supply backward peoples with cotton cloth.

Imagine the British emotion when Russia is found supplying Persia with just the sort of goods that Persia wants, cutting Manchester prices, selling in all directions, throughout the empire.

England attacks the folly of selling to Russia the machines with which Russia produces goods more cheaply than nations selling the machines.

However, the industrial horse is stolen, too late now to lock the stable door.

BOLSHEVISM AND the doctrines of Mussolini are far apart theoretically, not so far apart in practice.

SIX INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

Street Car Hits Truck in McKeesport; Passengers Suffer Bruises, Shock

Six persons were taken to the McKeesport Hospital today after a Pittsburgh-McKeesport street car collided with a parked truck in Fifth avenue opposite the Bell Cemetery, two blocks from the Riverton Bridge.

The car, going toward Wilmerding, struck a truck of the Wilmerding Bottling Works, parked while the driver delivered an order.

The injured are:

Mrs. Martha Olah, 37, R. D. No. 1 McKeesport.

E. S. Saul, 46, of Greensburg.

Kenneth Cochenour, 22, of 2219 Sylvan avenue, McKeesport.

P. J. Adams, 36, of 1921 Fifth avenue, McKeesport.

Mrs. Corrine Mooney, 34, 720 Franklin street, McKeesport.

Mrs. Mary Ausin, 48, of 503½ Pirl street, McKeesport.

At the hospital, physicians said that none of the six was injured seriously. All had incurred severe bruises and suffered shock.

NAUTILUS RIDES OUT ROUGH SEA

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, at Sea, June 8.—After two days of rolling and pitching, the Nautilus has settled down and, in a smooth sea with both engines running, is making good headway again.

The broadside of her superstructure is almost under water.

CONTROL ROOM FLOODED

This makes it uncomfortable, to say the least. Wet decks, with no shelter for the watch and with streams of water slopping down the conning tower flooding the control room, is enough to try the temper and patience of most men. But our crew, all of them veterans of the sea, make light of their troubles and carry on in a splendid manner.

Cash Circulation Shows Gain in May

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP.)—The Treasury reported today that per capita circulation of money increased 35 cents in May over April. Money in circulation last month was $4,702,283,712. This was equal to $37.66 per person as against $37.31 the previous month.

Banker on Trial On Fraud Charge

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 8.—L. F. Ruth, of Washington, D. C., 73-year-old banker, went on trial today for alleged misappropriation of $60,000 of the funds of the Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, of Connellsville, now defunct.

Gunmen Attack Dayton City Jail

DAYTON, O., June 8.—(AP.)—Four gunmen pumped shotgun slugs into the Dayton city jail early today, slightly injuring two prisoners, and escaped. There was nothing to indicate a jail delivery.

PROSPERITY LOAN PLAN BACKED

N. Y. Lieutenant Governor And Representative Give Indorsement to Proposal

ALBANY, N. Y., June 8.—William Randolph Hearst's proposal of a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan by the government to afford employment through public works continued today to receive the enthusiastic indorsement of prominent men.

Lieut. Gov. Lehman was among those who discussed the proposal. He said:

"I have read Mr. Hearst's suggestions with a great deal of interest. They certainly merit the most careful thought and consideration.

"I have too little knowledge of federal resources to make any comment at this time with respect to the amount of money that might be available for work relief or the methods that could be employed to enlarge its scope. I believe, however, that in the present emergency, relief by work should be employed so far as practicable to forestall relief by dole."

CORNING APPROVES

Representative Parker Corning, Albany:

"I am heartily in favor with the proposal by Mr. Hearst to appropriate immediately $5,000,000,000 for the relief of unemployment and depression.

"The plan, as I understand it, is almost similar to the one advocated a year ago by Senator Wagner, calling for extra appropriations for the carrying out of public works, of which the Albany Postoffice was a part.

"But the difficulty in such schemes has always been to inaugurate them quickly. The Illness May Keep Amos Off Air Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor.

CHICAGO, June 8.—News that Freeman Gosden, "Amos," of "Amos 'n' Andy," was confined to his bed under doctor's orders, the result of a severe attack of grip, provoked much anxiety among radio convention delegates today as to whether he would be able to go on with tonight's network broadcast.

Gosden was a very sick man Sunday. His condition was aggravated by the anxiety about his 15-month-old daughter, Virginia, whose illness prevented Mrs. Gosden accompanying the famous radio team when they visited Pittsburgh and KDKA two weeks ago. Gosden's telephone has been disconnected and visitors at his pretentious apartment home are stopped by a doorman. If Gosden can make the grade, he will be motored to WMAQ studios 45 minutes before the broadcast tonight by his partner, Charles J. Correll.

Two Strikers Shot in Mine Rioting; Coal Police Blamed for Beatings

Father, Son Describe Brutality Near Montour.

HIT WITH GUN

Dragged From Auto And Thrown in Mine Lockup.

Claiming they were beaten and dragged from an automobile on a public highway, thrown into jail on Pittsburgh Coal Company property and later taken to the county prison; then hailed before a justice of the peace, James Cushey, 61-year-old Hackett miner, and his son, Robert, 27, were held under $100 bond each for a hearing tonight on charges of disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and interfering with an officer.

Their clothes torn, father and son exhibited bruises which they said were made by the coal and iron police riot clubs, as they related their experiences today. Their accusations involved four company guards employed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Library and an Allegheny County deputy sheriff said to be in charge of the company's paid deputies.

BEATEN, BRUISED

The son, his eye almost closed, his arm, head and face bruised, stood quietly with his father, whose clothing was torn, while the elder Cushey detailed the story of the attack. He said:

"We were riding past Montour Mine No. 10 with three others in an automobile Saturday when a car containing uniformed coal police blocked us

TEAR GAS USED

Washington's Sheriff Leads 15 State Constables.

Two striking miners were shot and one state policeman beaten into unconsciousness during rioting early today near the Westland mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

Fifteen of the rioters were arrested, three on charges of felonious assault and battery and inciting to riot and were placed in Washington County Jail.

According to Sheriff J. A. Seaman, of Washington County, the rioting occurred when a column of marchers said to approximate 600 men and women, defied his order against demonstrations. The march leaders, it is said, refused to disperse. Shots were fired from the rear of the strikers' column, authorities said.

TROOPER BEATEN

In the melee, Trooper Earl Limbers, of Troop D, stationed at Butler, was knocked down and pounced upon by several of the miners and beaten unconscious with his own riot stick, state police said. Fellow officers were prevented from reaching his side, one of whom drew his revolver and shot Mike Sklorski, 35, of Gilmore, through the right forearm, it is declared.

William Parsons, 26, of Slovan, another striker, received a slight gunshot wound in his back.

Both Sklorski and Parsons were arrested charged with felonious assault and inciting to riot.

Among the others arrested was George Bollar, 48, of Slovan, whom police say, was armed with a revolver from which several shots had been fired. A charge of felonious assault and battery was also placed against Edward Sherwood, 18, of 33 South Eleventh street, Pittsburgh. The others were charged with inciting to riot.

GAS BOMBS USED

Twelve hundred marchers from Bentleyville were stopped at the Ellsworth Borough line by a dozen state police and coal and iron police at 5 o'clock this morning when they attempted to march on the Ellsworth mine of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Forty-eight tear gas bombs were discharged by the police, while the strikers hurled bricks and other missiles.

Charles Brosh, 30, Ellsworth policeman, was cut on the head by a brick. Adam Getto, National Miners' Union organizer, was also wounded when he fell to the road, according to the state police. Three other miners were reported

LOSSES DUE TO WASTE REVEALED

Kerr's Accountants Charge Extravagance, Disregard For Law to Purchasers

The audit of the City Supplies Bureau's affairs, made by Price, Waterhouse & Co. for City Controller James P. Kerr, was sent to Council today by Controller Kerr.

It showed a vast number of irregularities and much inefficiency in the bureau.

During 1930, it revealed, $69,177 was spent for supplies without authorization of any kind, and $92,012 was required from the 1931 budget to meet 1930 bills, which totaled $1,913,919.

Contracts totalling $130,664 were let when only one bid was received, an illegal practice, another section of the audit stated. Still another disclosed that $10,211 in such contracts were awarded to one concern, the L. H. Parke Company, a wholesale grocery firm, and that library supplies, costing $5,304, were purchased without the approval of the Council Committee on Parks and Libraries.

The report was read to Council and immediately referred to that body's Finance Committee.

Highlights of the report were revealed exclusively in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph.

Excerpts, dealing upon the inefficiency and irregularities of the bureau, follow:

"The department was not administered in an efficient and businesslike manner.

"Many transactions were not in conformity with their legal requirements owing to the absence of written explanations in the records."

Controller Kerr's own office came in for criticism when a section of the audit was discovered, reading:

"The present records kept in the controller's department of bids received are not adequate."

MAYOR LINKED

"The law states 'all contracts shall be let by the Mayor and head of the proper department.' The only evidence of the Mayor complying with this provision was his signature where a formal contract is executed."

"Numerous instances of purchases in excess of $500, but not covered by formal contracts were found, but no evidence of the Mayor having reviewed or approved these awards." (Contracts of less than $500 made be awarded without calling for competitive bidding).

"There was an absence of written explanation in the records."

WICKERSHAM BOARD STUDIES PLAN TO ALLOW BEER SALES

DAVIS REVEALS NEW PHASE OF DRY INQUIRY

Quiz Sent Brewers Asks Data On Grain to Be Used and Number of Jobs Available

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission, which urged a further trial of the Eighteenth Amendment, although a majority of its members favored an immediate repeal of prohibition, is studying the probable economic effects of permitting the sale and manufacture of 4 per cent beer.

This phase of the commission's inquiry into prohibition conditions was revealed today when Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, asked the dry body to make public the results of its study. He also asked the commission whether it had reached any conclusion on the question of recommending a return of 4 per cent beer.

The commission apparently has sent questionnaires to former brewers in all sections of the country, asking a report on their requirements in event 4 per cent beer were made lawful. The brewers were asked to state how much grain they would use, how much machinery they would require to rehabilitate their breweries and how many employes would be put at work.

Meanwhile the Wickersham commission submitted a report today which held that what this country needs is not more laws but better prosecution of the laws already on the statute books. This conclusion followed months of investigation into the prosecution records of the country, and the manner in which prosecutors' office are administered.

Without getting specific, the commission found in some places "a close connection between corrupt local political organizations and criminal organizations."

HOOVER MEETS STIMSON ON DEBTS

President Understood to Stand by Hughes Policy In Reparations Crisis

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The critical situation arising from Germany's world notice that she can no longer carry her reparations burden, constituting as it does an indirect threat to the Allied debt payments to the United States, was the subject of an hour's conference between President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson today.

Neither the White House nor the State Department would comment on the situation. But there was no indication of any change in the American policy, established by Charles E. Hughes, of considering reparations and the war debts as distinctly separate.

LINK MELLON TO PARLEY

LONDON, June 8.—(AP.)—Possibility of a world conference to reopen completely the problem of war reparations loomed today in the wake of the week-end discussions between the heads of the British and German governments.

London newspapers today linked forthcoming visits to Europe of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury, with a promise made at the conference to collaborate with other governments.

The probability that a meeting similar to that at Chequers might be held on German soil in the near future also was foreseen in a statement by Dr. Curtius at the German embassy.

Chancellor Bruening was understood to have asked the British statesmen's assistance in feeling out Germany's creditor nations, particularly the United States, on the possibility of deferring reparations payments regulated by the "postponable" clauses of the Young plan.

CAPONE FACING U. S. SEIZURE OF PROPERTY

New Income Tax Action Follows Criminal Cases; Could Auction Holdings

International News Service

CHICAGO, June 8.—Al Capone, biggest of big shot gangsters, today had met an implacable foe in the United States government.

Under sentence for contempt of Federal Court and under bond for income tax evasion, Capone was assailed further by proposed civil action which would confiscate his property wherever found and sell it at public auction.

Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, said civil liens would be filed soon against the gang chieftain's property to secure the $215,083 that Capone is said to owe the government on his net profits for the years 1924-1929.

SEARCH TO START

The liens, to be filed today or tomorrow, will start a search for Al's property, real or personal, in safe deposit boxes, contents of vaults or wherever it is hinted he has hidden his gains.

Information uncovered by A. P. Madden, head of the special intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was the basis of the liens. His facts, found through three years of prying into secret affairs of Capone, also formed the basis of the criminal action.

SEIZURES HALTED

MIAMI, Fla., June 8.—(AP.)—A temporary restraining order prohibiting deputy sheriffs from further removal of household furnishings from Al Capone's Palm Island residence here, was issued today by Circuit Judge W. L. Freeland.

DAVIS ASSAILS WAGE CUTS

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 8.—(AP.)—Economic indigestion was put forth as one of the "main contributing causes of the business ailments" affecting the United States in the "world-wide epidemic of trade depression" today by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania.

The former Secretary of Labor said, in addressing the graduating class at Gettysburg College here, that "the eyes of industry have been bigger than its stomach."

The pay envelope of the workman and the purse of the farmer, Davis said, were the "main foundation stones of national prosperity," and he declared that "reckless price slashing and drastic wage reduction policies are clear evidence of ecomonic insanity."

Body of Man Killed In Fall Identified

The body of a man killed Wednesday in a fall from a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train at Riverton Station, McKeesport, was identified at the county morgue as John Hetzel, 50, of Second street, Connellsville, last night. VATICAN PEACE HOPE SEEN

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, June 8.—The longdrawn controversy between church and state appeared today to be nearing a crisis, with several evidences of an amicable settlement in the offing.

Although the government climaxed three or four days of an apparent "truce" by a radio broadcast in which it reviewed the dispute and reiterated its reasons for suppressing the Azione Cattolica, the continued silence of the Vatican was seen as indicative of its increasing desire for peace.

Negotiations between the emissaries of the two parties were believed to have reached a partial agreement for reopening of the church societies, one of the main causes for the rupture.

ALL HATCHES DOWN

All hatches except the conning tower have been battened down for many hours and the air in-board is probably worse than it will ever need to be when we are running submerged under the Arctic ice. We will have smooth seas at least in the Arctic and we expect to be able to come up and renew the air every 16 hours.

We are passing through the warm gulf stream. Blobs of seaweed float past, flying fish leap from the bow and skim before us over the waves. The porpoise play a merry game and seven times this afternoon our namesake's gay colored nautiluses, with their pink and pale blue sails full set, went by.

Our escort keeps in the offing and we exchange messages frequently by wireless.

Last night our position was about 575 miles due East of Boston.

Electric Pad Causes Death Of Woman

Mrs. Nora Beatty, 81, of Frankstown road, Penn Township, died at her home last night after being confined to her bed since March 12 by burns which she incurred from an electric heating pad.

Mrs. Beatty, members of her family said, arose in the night and placed the pad on her shoulder. She was found the next morning unconscious with her side and back severely burned, they said.

Dr. H. W. Morrow, her physician, said a heart ailment, aggravated by the burns, caused her death.

REST PLANNED BY COOLIDGE

NEW YORK, June 8.—Former President Calvin Coolidge will take a vacation this summer and thus follow the course suggested to the nation's leaders in one of his recent dispatches. Mr. Coolidge said on that occasion:

"The brains of the country need relaxation and refreshment more than ever this season. They owe a duty to themselves, their business and their associates to get more than the usual period of rest. The country will be further advanced in October if July and August find many visitors at the shore and in the hills."

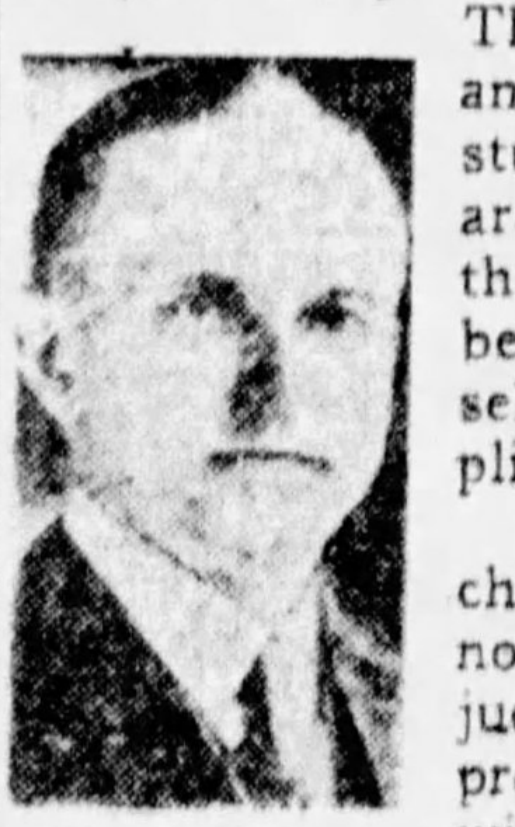
The vacation will begin July 1, at the end of his first year of writing daily dispatches. It will run until some time in September. Complete privacy for his plans is Coolidge's idea of the basis for any vacation, and it is improbable that any announcement regarding his movements will be made.

Colleges Teach Values Of Life, Says Coolidge

NEW YORK, June 8.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

This month will turn out into the world many thousands of young men and young women with college diplomas. On the whole they are probably better equipped to meet the problems of life than were their predecessors. They have been required to do a large amount of intellectual work. The courses of study pursued in order to secure a degree are a little more difficult and exacting than those of former years. They could not have been graduated without subjecting themselves to a great deal of severe mental discipline.



Mr. Coolidge

While they will have a little better chance in the world than others they will not have the only chance. They will not be judged by their diplomas but by what they produce. As the years pass some of them will discover that they put too much emphasis in their student days on how to get a living and not enough on how to live. Even if they do not appear so successful in the competition for gain, those who have a background of liberal culture have a satisfaction that wealth cannot buy. One great benefit of a college education is a better appreciation of the real values of life.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

COAL POLICE ARE ACCUSED

off. I was in the front seat with my son, William, who was driving. James was in the rumble seat.

"The men ordered Robert to 'get out' and, as he stood up, one of the officers grabbed his arms and pulled him out into the road, while another, wearing shield No. 14, began beating him with a club.

STRUCK WITH GUN

"I yelled to the policeman who was using the club to let my son alone, and a man in civilian clothes started to drag me out. He pulled a gun from his pocket and struck at me, but I ducked and got only a scratch on the side of my head and face."

Cushey and his son said they were dragged off the highway into the basement of a frame house in the Library "patch," where they were locked up in a company jail for more than an hour, following which they were removed to the county jail by a constable. Sometime later they were taken before Justice of the Peace J. M. O'Rourke, of Broughton, where they were released on $100 bonds.

O'Rourke said last night the informations against Cushey and his son were sworn to by a deputy sheriff named Kehoe, who it was learned at the sheriff's office, is in charge of the special guard detail assigned to the mine property.

TWO STRIKERS SHOT IN RIOT

beaten. J. B. McCune, superintendent of the mine, said 516 men were at work today.

Five hundred strikers marched upon the Lincoln Hill mine of the Lincoln Gas Coal Company on the outskirts of Washington, to induce 300 miners still at work there to leave the mine. The miners refused and the strikers dispersed without trouble.

POLICE AGGRESSORS

According to strike leaders, the state troopers charged into their ranks without warning as they neared the Westland mine in their march from Washington and Houston, flaying right and left with their riot sticks and hurling tear gas bombs.

Several score of women were in the line, the leaders said, two of whom headed the march bearing an American flag. They were bowled over by the troopers, miners charge.

The Washington-Houston march was one of three arranged by officials of the National Miner's Union in an effort to urge Westland miners to join the strike. The Westland mine is one of the largest of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in this district. The other columns, 300 from McDonald and 500 from Avella, converged south of the mine and were dispersed without disorder.

Sklorski, Parsons and Sherwood were arraigned before Alderman Morgan McClelland in Washington and held for court without bail. The injured state trooper was removed to the Butler barracks.

NO COAL POLICE

According to state police, no coal and iron police took part in the disturbance, although a number are now engaged in patrolling the roads in the region, fearing further disorders.

The state troopers, who number 15, were in charge of Sheriff Seaman, who had a number of deputies on duty when reports of the planned march reached him early today.

Meanwhile the two-phase coal strike continued to spread through the tristate bituminous field, with leaders of the United Mine Workers of America and its left-wing opponent, the National Miners' Union, each claiming credit.

Several meetings were held throughout the strike area during the week-end by United Mine Workers in districts already claimed by the National Union. The gatherings were reported peaceful and United Mine Workers reported substantial gains.

P. T. Fagan, district president of the U. M. W. A., announced a reorganization of the local unions at Broughton, Coverdale and Castle Shannon, while National Mine leaders announced gains and a spread of the strike to Eastern Ohio. William Z. Foster, active in the 1919 steel strike here, continued in the field, addressing several meetings.

STRIKE AT SPRINGDALE

Miners employed in the Barking mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, opposite Springdale, today voted to strike, officials of the National Miners' Union said after a meeting which about 75 miners attended.

The action taken, union officials said, will affect 450 men. The miners were formerly members of the United Mine Workers of America. No demonstrations are planned.

CIVIC CLUB WINS PLAYGROUND CIVIL SERVICE BATTLE

25 APPLICANTS MUST TAKE JOB EXAMS

Candidates for Instructor Will Be Given Test for First Time Since 1917

The first civil service examination for city playground workers to be held since 1917 is scheduled for Wednesday, the Civic Club of Allegheny County announced today.

Applicants for 25 positions as instructors will be given examinations at that time.

The Civic Club since early in April has been waging a vigorous campaign to necessitate such examination of all appointees.

STRONG PROTEST

It made a particularly strong protest when 42 swimming pool guards and instructors were reappointed recently without examination.

The Civil Service Commission ruled that these were provisional appointments and did not require the usual commission examination.

Thomas F. Hansberry, secretary of the commission, wrote the club on June 3 denying that the men were appointed without an examination of any kind. The letter did not explain the scope of their interrogation.

SIMILAR QUIZ SOUGHT

Warren I. Bickford, chairman of the club's recreation committee, has notified Hansberry that after the 25 appointments have been made through the coming examination, the club will demand similar examinations be held for all guards, instructors and other workers now employed on a "provisional" basis.

Other members of the club said that 60 persons are now employed in this manner.

Among other suggestions from the club was that the examination be conducted by physical education and social science experts of schools and institutions in the Pittsburgh district. This, Hansberry said, could not be done legally.

Norma Shearer Kin Kills Self on Pier

VENICE, Cal., June 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Douglas Shearer, sister-in-law of Norma Shearer, motion picture actress, ended her life with a rented target pistol as she stood in front of a shooting gallery on the amusement pier here.

Douglas Shearer, her husband, and prominent sound engineer, said Mrs. Shearer had been suffering ill health for several years.

Amelia Earhart Adds Autogiro Record

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—(INS.)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam had added another new record to her list today—the first woman to pilot an autogiro across the continent.

She arrived yesterday after causing a little uneasiness by being two hours overdue in a fog which caused a commercial line to cancel its flights.

Slayer of Dancer To Die in July

NEW YORK, June 8.—(INS.)—Rudolph Duringer today was sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing during the week of July 13, for the murder of Virginia Brannen, his dime-a-dance sweetheart.

Duringer was captured in a police siege along with Francis (Two Gun) Crowley, awaiting execution for the murder of a policeman.

WAILING WALL GIVEN ARABS BY BRITISH

Arbitration Board Awards Jews Access to Shrine For Religious Purposes

International News Service.

LONDON, June 8.—The famous Wailing Wall of Jerusalem, religious shrine of both Jew and Moslem and the scene of many bloody riots between devotees of the two faiths, is the property of the Arabs, but the Jews may have access to it for the purpose of religion, according to a decision handed down today.

The decision was given by the British Arbitration Commission appointed with the approval of the League of Nations, under whose mandate the British rule Palestine.

Although a source for contention between Jew and Arab for centuries, the Wailing Wall became the cause of international complications more than a year ago when fanatical Arabs attacked Jewish supplicants there. As a result riots broke out in many parts of the city and for a time it appeared that the small number of British troops in Palestine would be unable to maintain order there.

The Grand Mufti, chief Arab religious authority in Palestine, at the time protested to the world that the country for centuries had been one of the homelands of the Arab and that unless steps were taken to halt the execution of the plan to make the country the national home of the Jews, the whole native population would rise against the Zionists.

After the World War, the Zionist organization planned the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine. Jews from all over the world contributed to the project, a capital was built at Tel Aviv, near Jaffa, and a stream of Jewish immigrants began a trek back to the land of their fathers.

BYRD ASSISTS NEW AIR LINE OPENING HERE

Pittsburgh and Washington Service Starts; 2 Planes Arrive From Capital

The new Pittsburgh-Washington air route was opened today when two huge tri-motored planes, the Golden Triangle and the Congressional, zoomed down out of the sky at Bettis Field and were greeted by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and representatives of Pittsburgh's Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

The planes brought postoffice and governmental dignitaries from Washington. They were greeted 15 minutes from the field, by a third plane bearing Byrd, A. L. Humphrey, President T. A. Dunn, of the Chamber of Commerce; James Francis Burke, and several other Pittsburghers.

PLANES CHRISTENED

The planes were christened at the field by Mrs. William L. Standish and Mrs. H. C. Bughman, who broke bottles of liquid air over the propellors.

A luncheon followed at the Chamber of Commerce. The planes were officially presented to business and municipal interests of Pittsburgh by President Humphrey, of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, a director of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, operators of the new service under government contract.

ACCEPTANCE BY DUNN

President Dunn accepted for the business interests of the city, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong for the county and President of Council John S. Herron for the city.

Among the 18 passengers brought to Pittsburgh by the two planes were Postmaster General W. F. Brown, Congressmen Guy E. Cambell, Clyde Kelly and Samuel Kendall.

COLLEGES BEGIN EXERCISES

Baccalaureate services yesterday marked the formal opening of commencement activities for Pittsburgh's four leading colleges and universities which will this week confer degrees and certificates upon more than 2,000 seniors.

At the University of Pittsburgh's service in Carnegie Music Hall the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, of the Central Presbyterian Church, New York, spoke.

The Pennsylvania College for Women. Services in the Calvary Episcopal Church, Shady avenue, were addressed by the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten.

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle conducted services in the afternoon in St. Paul's Cathedral for the graduating class of Duquesne University.

The Rev. Dr. William H. Boddy, of the First Presbyterian Church of Chicago, spoke last night to the seniors of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Carnegie Music Hall.

EXTEND EXHIBIT OF KANE'S ART

Because of the interest aroused by Artist Milan Petrovit's revelation last Thursday that some of the paintings of John Kane, former housepainter, were colored photographs, the Junior League's exhibit of his work, which was to close Saturday, will continue through this week, officers of the league said today.

Petrovits said that Kane had painted over enlarged photographs on some of his pictures. Kane explained that he used this method as a time saver on hurry-up jobs.

ROBBERS LOCK MAN IN ICEBOX

After striking him on the shoulder with a revolver, two bandits at 8:30 o'clock this morning took $37 from Harry Finkelstein, grocer, 1414 Lincoln avenue, and locked him in a refrigerator. He was liberated later by John Brennan, mail carrier, of 307 North Winebiddle avenue.

Finkelstein fought the men patrons until they drew revolvers. They took all his paper money, but left about $5 in silver, saying:

"I guess you will need some money to pay for bread and milk."

The police arrived 15 minutes later. The men, according to Finkelstein, were about 27 years old.

Gibbs, Author, Will Be U. S. Citizen

LAKEVILLE, Mass., June 8.—(AP.)—Arthur Hamilton Gibbs, English author and a brother of Sir Philip Gibbs, war correspondent, will become a citizen of the United States June 29 at a naturalization session of the Superior Court of Plymouth. Preliminary papers and examinations have been passed.

Gibbs was born in Whiteleaf, England. He is the author of several novels. During much of the past 12 years he has resided here.

Boys Upset Boat, 3 Drown in Ohio

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 8.—(AP.)—Three boys were drowned in the Ohio River here yesterday when they swamped a rowboat by rocking. Four other youthful companions swam ashore.

The body of Chester Lee Suthers, 10, was recovered and a search was still in progress for the bodies of the two other victims, John Hite, 17, and Leonard Bonds, 12.

4 BIG CHICAGO BANKS MERGE

CHICAGO, June 8.—(AP.)—The second largest bank in Chicago, the First National, today absorbed the third in size, the Foreman State National, while another merger of big banks created a new third place financial institution with the formation of the Central Trust Company.

Prime movers in the combinations were Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National; Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to the Court of St. James and honorary chairman of the Central Trust, and George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and of the Chicago Clearing House Association.

Business went forward as usual at all four banks while arrangements for transfer of business were completed. But six outlying small banks, allied with Foreman, closed voluntarily pending adjustment of their status resulting from the merger.

Rockefeller Scion Wins School Prize

WINDSOR, Conn., June 8.—(AP.)—Winthrop Rockefeller, New York, grandson of John D. Rockefeller, was one of three graduates at Loomis Institute here to win the Gwendolyn Sedgwick Batchelder prizes, most coveted award among the graduation honors. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., were among the guests at the exercises when the prizes were awarded.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that produced the rainfall over this section during the last 36 hours is now centered over Ontario and extends southeastward over the Middle Atlantic Coast states. It produced heavy rainfalls over the Upper Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast. Pressure is also low over the Far West and Northwest, but, as yet, there is little rainfall as a result. Over the central valleys and the plains states the pressure is relatively high and the weather is mostly clear and cool. Over the Dakotas and the Canadian Northwest the temperatures are rising.

ORTIZ RUBIO KIN, CHUM SLAIN

ATCHISON, Kan., June 8.—(AP.)—Emilio Cortes Rubio, 20, cousin of President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, and another Mexican student, Manuel Gomez, 22, were killed at Ardmore, Okla., early today by a deputy sheriff they believed to be a bandit attempting a holdup.

They had started driving home to Mexico from St. Benedict's College here, where they were students.

Fernando Ortiz Rubio and Guillermo Ortiz Rubio, sons of the President, left in a second car at the same time, but were believed to have outdistanced the other students because they drove a more powerful machine.

Salvador Cortez Rubio, 24, another cousin of the President, who was a companion of the two boys slain, telephoned authorities of St. Benedict's College here that they had mistaken the officers for bandits.

Auto Kills Labor Federation Editor

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(INS.)—James P. Egan, editor of the weekly bulletin of the American Federation of Labor, was dead today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile. He stepped from behind a parked car into the path of a machine driven by Clarence Worthy, 18, who is held for investigation.

Democrats May Ask N. Y. Federal Probe

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP.)—The Times said today that an investigation of New York City's federal departments, manned almost entirely by Republicans, might be sought by New York's Democratic delegation in Congress.

The action, said the Times, would be in answer to the inquiry into the Democrat-controlled city administration by the Republican-controlled State Legislature.

Quiz Coast Guards In Murder of Nurse

NEW YORK, June 8.—(INS.)—Coast guardsmen at Stapleton, Staten Island, were to be questioned today in the death of an 18-year-old nurse, whose body was found near Tottensville, after she had been missing from home for 10 weeks.

Mrs. Mary Prehn, who identified the body as that of her daughter, Lillian, said the girl had been murdered.

Police Aid Family in Want, Give Food, Train Fare

Kind-hearted policemen once more came to the aid of the needy, this time giving food and transportation to a family on their way from Pittsburgh to Norfolk, Va., where a home and means of a livelihood awaits them.

When Claude C. Nickerson, 26, of the United States Navy, and his wife, Gladys, 26, and their two children appealed for help at Central Police Station last night, they were given a warm welcome. Lodging was provided, as well as a warm meal. While the couple and their children, Harry, 18 months, and Bernice, 6 months, slept police took up a collection, $30 in all, to provide transportation to the Virginia city where Nickerson says he has a job and a home waiting for him.

The family left Gary, Ind., Saturday in the machine of a motorist who offered them a lift here. He left them last night. Nickerson, a former cab driver, said he was unable to make a living in Gary and accepted the offer of a friend to come and work in Norfolk.

CITY AUDITORS LINK KLINE IN LAXITY

Kerr's Accountants Find Extravagance and Waste: Report Given to Council

incomplete and accounting and other functions inadequate."

CHANGES SUGGESTED

The report advocated corrective measures and listed many changes which it held necessary. They included:

"A more representative class of vendors should be included in the list to whom inquiries for bids are made."

"Awarding or purchases for material, supplies and equipment by selection should be restricted as far as possible."

"Where bids are identical, awards should be alternated each year."

"Efforts should be made to obtain more competitive bids."

"Adequate records should be kept representing an up-to-date reference of responsible vendors."

"Tabulation of bids should be prepared more accurately."

PRACTICES CRITICISED

"Successful bidders should be clearly indicated on all tabulations of purchases in excess of $500."

"The practice of splitting purchases into two or more orders so as not to exceed $500 should be discontinued, as apart from the legal aspect, this practice is uneconomical in the amount of clerical work required."

The auditors also found discrepancies in the salaries paid for various positions. Of this the report said:

"In reviewing the salary roll it appeared there were some positions, which, if filled by the right type of employes, should warrant higher salaries.

"On the other hand, there were one or two positions with larger salaries than the circumstances warranted. They were out of proportion to the salaries paid for more responsible positions."

PATRONAGE LINK

Political patronage was seen by the auditors as interfering with the efficiency of the department, even to the extent of overriding Civil Service requirements. An excerpt from the report read:

"We understand the director is not a free agent in the matter of employment or discharge of some members of his staff, even after giving proper consideration to the civil service classification as it relates to them.

"To place full responsibility on the director, he should be relieved of this handicap in building up a capable staff.

"We would stress the desirability of minimizing appointments influenced by political patronage, and would favor those based upon civil service requirements.

INSPECTORS CENSURED

After condemning the practice of the bureau inspectors having contact with firms from whom supplies were purchased relative to adjustments for rejected goods, the report took up "split orders," the practice of dividing a purchase into two or more parts, each below $500, so bids would not be required. It read:

"In the matter of validation of orders, care should be taken to ascertain whether or not two or more orders are being issued representing split purchases for amounts not to exceed $500.

"No order should be validated unless supported by competitive bids or satisfactory explanation from the department."

Records kept by the bureau relative to supplies used at the City Home at Mayview, the municipal garage and the City Hospital at Leech Farm are inadequate, the report stated.

At the end of the report was the following note:

"We have in no instance received voluntary information from vendors except the L. H. Parke Company.

"Our findings are based on information obtained from available records and books of the Department of Supplies and certain other departments and from verbal explanation given us by responsible city employes."

LEHMAN BACKS HEARST PLAN

federal government will find it difficult to say 'Here is $5,000,000,000. Let us spend it tomorrow.' Plans for public works have to be drawn, and it is not an easy task to invest $5,000,000,000 in a short time.

OVERCAPITALIZATION

"There is no doubt that to a certain extent the depression has been caused by overcapitalization, as Mr. Hearst says, of a large percentage of our industries, and the failure of industries to compensate the workers acording to the increase in earnings.

"But I would go a step further and adopt the policy, 'In times of peace prepare for war.' We should adopt such plans to relieve depression while we are in periods of prosperity. We should have the money on hand and the plans for its disposal ready for instant execution in the event of panic and unemployment."

INDORSED IN DETROIT

DETROIT, June 8.—Belief that the next Congress will approve the William Randolph Hearst plan for a prosperity loan of $5,000,000,000 for public works was expressed today by Congressman Robert H. Clancy, Detroit. Clancy described the prosperity loan plan as "the most sane, sensible and American" yet advanced.

He said:

"Unless there are very definite signs of improvement by the time Congress convenes, I cannot see how we can fail to approve the prosperity loan plan. Congress would be remiss in its plain duty if it did not take advantage of the present situation to provide jobs for the millions who want work, not charity.

"My thought throughout the present depression period has been that the government should not heed the timorous counsel of those who seem to believe that normal times never will return. Every sane and sensible person knows prosperity will return. It is our duty to hasten its return, and I know of no better method than that advocated by Mr. Hearst.

TAX BURDEN

"As Mr. Hearst says, this is no time to increase taxation by reducing the war debt. The present generation is bearing a tax burden sufficiently staggering. A prosperity loan would relieve the present generation of part of the tax burden and at the same time help to bring back normal business conditions.

"I agree most emphatically, by the way, with Mr. Heart's views on temperance through abolition of prohibition which does not prohibit. A revenue of a billion dollars is a conservative estimate of sums which would be saved."

Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, of Detroit, commented:

"The prosperity loan plan should be of great help. The answer to the depression, obviously, is employment at the same wage scale which played so large a part in making this country prosperous."

Church Celebrates 65th Anniversary

The sixty-fifth anniversary services of the Mt. Washington Methodist Episcopal Church were launched with a communion service conducted by the Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, pastor, yesterday. Dr. E. S. White, pastor of the church in 1888, preached last night. The services will continue throughout the week.

The Rev. Dr. E. P. Harper will speak at the anniversary service of the Sabbath School to be held Wednesday night. Homecoming will be held Thursday night, and a musical service by the choir, with the Rev. O. J. Rishel, presiding, will be held Friday night.

JACK MULHALL popular screen star

"Youth is a delightful, fascinating thing," says Jack Mulhall. "It is certainly a woman's most endearing charm.

"And nowadays birthdays don't seem to matter at all! A woman keeps that glowing, youthful charm at almost any age!

"Every day here in Hollywood I meet actresses famous for their charm—more alluring now than they were ten or even fifteen years ago!

"I should think every woman would learn their complexion secret. Youthful skin should be guarded for the alluring thing it is."

CLARA BOW :-: Rollicking Star Will Come Back

Love of Fans Inspires 'It' Girl

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service Inc. Reproduction in part or in whole prohibited.)

CHAPTER XVIII.—(Final.)

I saw Clara just yesterday. She is leaving immediately for the ranch, where she will ride horseback, play tennis and try to restore her shattered nerves.

She doesn't want to set any certain time for her return to the films, but once her mind is at rest you can expect to see her entirely well. When she comes back to the screen she will get a welcome such as no actress has ever received.

What about Clara Bow's future? I asked Clara if she intended to marry Rex Bell, the young actor who has stood back of her, a staunch friend through all her troubles.

"I don't want to announce my engagement to any one," she said. "Until I get well. Rex has been so sweet, so understanding and so helpful. I appreciate what he has done and I know that I have never had a finer, truer friend. But marrying is such a serious thing. I have had so much sadness, so much sorrow in my life that I don't know that I ought to expect any one else to share it with me."

Loves Clara

If Clara doesn't say "yes" Rex Bell will be the most disappointed boy in California.

"I love Clara," he told me, "and I have asked her to be my wife. I don't think we ought to marry, however, until I make a few more pictures. I want to be in a position to support her and to earn enough money to do it right. She has had too many people taking from her. I want to be the one to give her all the things she likes. We want to go to Europe together. We want to see the Orient and I want to try and help Clara forget all her past troubles."

I am not going to end this life story of Clara Bow by positively announcing her engagement to Rex Bell. But I am going to say that these two young people have an understanding. If when Clara is well again she is still of the same mind, and if she does care for Rex the way she does now, they will marry. Rex has several irons in the fire. He is negotiating with a New York concern to make a series of westerns, and if that materializes it wouldn't surprise me to see Clara and Rex slip quietly away and get married some day this coming fall.

Not Blameless

I am concluding the life story of the red-haired Brooklyn girl, who at the age of 25 has had more troubles than the average man and woman experiences in a lifetime.

Some of it may be Clara's fault, but not all of it. Had she been less impulsive, less prone to take the world into her confidence, and less trusting, she might not have had so much undesirable publicity.

Clara has learned through these bitter lessons, and when she returns to the screen it will be as a much chastened young lady. She will not make friends of people unless she knows them to be trustworthy. She will not admit her infatuations for any publicity seeking men.

Clara has lived and learned. The least we can do is to give her a hand to help her over the rough places. We can let her know we appreciate her good qualities. She will start with a new contract probably in a new company, and under the impetus of different surroundings, good stories and helpful direction, you may look to see a new Clara Bow.

I appreciate the thousands of letters that have come to both Clara and myself. If I had any doubt of how she stands with her fans throughout the country, I know that they are eagerly waiting her return. I know that few girls in the world have ever had as many friends. All over the world there are fine men and women ready to help Clara. She is deeply appreciative and she has asked me to conclude this life series with a personal letter from her. The letter follows:

Farewell Lettetr

"Dear Miss Parsons:

"Before I even thank you for your unfailing friendship I want to ask you to express my sincere appreciation to all those who have sent me messages and who have written me letters.

"I have always realized that I owe whatever success I may have made on the screen to my fans, but I never before knew how much their loyalty meant to me.

"During the days of my illness it has been comforting to know that many people were sending me kind thoughts. I want to get well. I want to make more pictures, and when I do I shall feel I have been able to overcome all my past unhappiness because of the sympathy and understanding of these unknown friends.

"Curious, isn't it, that I, who have so often suffered at the hands of so-called friends, should find some of my staunchest, truest friendship among strangers!

Not Quitting

"Will you please, Dear Miss Parsons, say that I have no intention of leaving the screen permanently. I only want to terminate my contract with Paramount until I am well and strong again. It is wrong for me to hold Paramount to a contract which I cannot fulfill.

"I am glad, therefore, to have my release. It has worried me to know that I have held up production and that my sickness has made it impossible for me to report at the studio.

"It is better for me to be free of my contracts until I am better both physically and mentally. I am getting stronger each day, and I hope to come back to the screen in a few months.

"Meanwhile, I want you to know I appreciate all you have done for me and I am grateful to you and to the many people who have shown such a kind interest in me.

"Sincerely your friend,

"CLARA BOW."

MRS. NIXON :-: Compares Fate With Beauties

Former 'Miss St. Louis' Met Tragedy But Other Girls Won Happiness

This is the twelfth installment of her own life by Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger who, after a sensationally brief trial in Nice, France, was recently acquitted of the murder of her husband, wealthy Philadelphia theater manager.

In previous chapters she told of her marriage to Mr. Nixon Nirdlinger, their subsequent divorce and remarriage, the jealous quarrels that led to his disappearance, the automobile accident that changed his nature and the renewal of quarrels upon their last tragic trip together in Europe.

Today Charlotte is prompted by the memory of her husband's accusations to defend her own career and to compare it with those of other famous beauty winners.

By CHARLOTTE NIXON-NIRDLINGER

NICE.

Another strange mood in which I often found my husband was during his sudden outbursts of denunciation of beauty shows and beauty winners. Earlier in this story I mentioned how I should have been warned away from the Atlantic City beauty pageant by the knowledge of what had happened to a few contestants in previous years.

Yet Fred certainly had no objection to beauty winners or beauty contests when he first met me. As I said before, he went out of his way to be a judge and tried in every way to make me "Miss America." That he failed was, of course, a blow to his own pride—certainly not to mine, for I was so young at the time that I was just happy to be in the midst of such excitement. Even when I was named "Miss St. Louis" I hardly understood, for I had been thrust into the city beauty contest without my own knowledge.

As I say, everything was all right with Fred at the beginning. But when people in France began to notice me, to comment on the fact that I had been a beauty winner, Fred became irritated. He thought, I suppose, it was something to be ashamed of. He did not realize that the French people admire beauty and pay it even greater homage than do Americans. Americans exploit it, ballyhoo it. The French worship beauty and for that reason they admired me greatly and I was asked to many parties.

Again Jealous

Of course, I had to turn most of them down. My husband's jealous nature asserted itself. He said that the only reason my "friends" wanted me for was to show me off. Had I been in the United States perhaps that might have been true. But I knew that over here they were sincere.

But Fred was insistent. He said that I ought to get out of my head the fact that I ever had been a beauty winner. He would point to other cases. He seemed to have plenty of statistics in the matter.

He told me, of course, about the death of Julia Bruns, who was "Miss North St. Louis;" the romances of other beauty queens which ended in divorce courts.

But what Fred refused to acknowledge was that many, many other prize beauties are now living happy lives. I want to cite a few instances if only to prove that my own experiences were not the result of a beauty contest. Some people have asked me if I did not think that bad luck followed all such beauty contestants. They were not superstitious. They simply thought that the publicity, the attentions showered on one, the people one met all turned the head and changed one's view of life.

But here in France they have an excellent contradiction of this in Miss Genevieve Dorlanne, who was "Miss Paris" in 1923. She was kissed by Alexander Millerand when he was President of the Republic, presided at innumerable charity balls and banquets, was showered with watches and brooches and pretty clothes by jewelers and dressmakers.

Met Right Man

But Genevieve did not meet the wrong man. She kept her head, even though she found it difficult—as I did—to get used to applause and toasts wherever she went. For 18 months she enjoyed this homage.

"Was your life changed when it was over?" a friend asked her not long ago. "I don't think so," she said. "I took the prize money with the winning of the contest and opened a little dressmaking shop. It is still going well. I married the boy who was my childhood friend and whom I always knew I would marry. And he is still my husband. The only change it made in my life that I can think of is that Mlle. Bonfils, one of my maids of honor, has been my best friend ever since—eight years. I would not have known her had it not been for the contest."

And that was also my experience in Atlantic City. I met many friends, as I think I said before, who are still my friends and who have stood by me loyally during this recent crisis in my life. That is something to think about.

There are also American beauty winners who have gone on, without meeting unhappiness in spite of disillusionment. Take, for instance, Fay Lamphier, acclaimed a few years ago as the most beautiful girl in America and glorified as an "American Venus." Fay was an intelligent girl. Of course, she thought her beauty ought to win her laurels in the movies. She went to Hollywood, as have thousands of other less-favored girls.

She didn't get the "break" she was seeking, but she was not discouraged. She got a job as a stenographer in the office of a motion picture producing company and no matter what she is doing now I have a suspicion that even if she has been disillusioned she is happy.

Happy Pair

Another beauty prize winner I like to think of is Corliss Palmer. She married Eugene V. Brewster, once a millionaire magazine publisher. Mr. Brewster's millions suddenly vanished and he lost his fortune and was forced to sell his rare paintings, his precious rugs and all his household goods—indeed, even his own home. But Corliss stuck to him through thick and thin.

There was something of a thrill, in fact, to see in the newspapers the other day a photograph of Mr. Brewster and Corliss, standing side by side before their art objects that were to be auctioned off. In Corliss Palmer's hand was the auctioneer's gavel and on her face—a smile!

Then there was beautiful Hazel Forbes, who is happily married to Paul O. Richmond, millionaire. Or I might cite lovely Ruth Malcomson, who in 1924, won the title of "Miss America." Within a few weeks she received 4,000 proposals. But along came handsome Lieut. Carl A. Schaubel, polo ace and instructor at the Pennsylvania Military College. They fell in love and were married—now they're happy.

I think of them and wonder why I was not happy.

Realistic Shooting May Cost Actor Eye

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP.)—An audience of 3,000 persons watching a dramatic playlet in which Leo Searl, an actor, and his wife were acting last night, saw him discharge a pistol close to his face, saw him fall—and thought it was very good acting.

The pistol, loaded with blank cartridges, had been held too close to his face. He was taken to a hospital, injured so severely he may lose the sight of the eye.

8 Die as Servants Battle Landlords

ALLAHABAD, India, June 8.—(AP.)—Eight persons were reported to have been killed and several others wounded in a clash between landlords and tenants in the village of Bhatwaria last night over the collection of rents.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

ACCORDING TO AN ITEM in last week's newspapers, a well known society girl returned to New York after her honeymoon. She was accompanied by her husband, eight trunks and a young Trinidad panther. And, what is most important, she successfully dodged the reporters and nobody succeeded in getting an interview.

Continuing its policy of scooping nobody, this column assigned a reporter to obtain an interview regardless of the expense. The reporter was unable to see the bride, but he did succeed in interviewing the panther. You will find this interview in no other paper, which certainly proves nothing.

Reporter—I'd like to ask you a few questions.

Panther—Nothing doing. I'm a society panther and I speak to no one unless I've been properly introduced.

Reporter—Aw, be yourself. I've got to ask you a few questions—just like all ship news men. What do you think of the New York skyline?

Panther—Must I think of it?

Reporter—Certainly. The only people who don't think of the New York skyline are the New Yorkers themselves. Come on, now. Stop stalling. What do you think of our skyline?

Panther—I think it's terrible.

Reporter—That's the idea. Now for another question. How do you think the American girl compares with the Trinidad girl? Or would you rather keep mum on that question?

Panther—I do not choose to mum.

Reporter—All right, then. Which country has the prettier girls?

Panther—Yes.

Reporter—I'm glad to hear you say that. Now tell me what kind of cigarets your owner smokes?

Panther—Ask Trinidad—he knows.

Reporter—Haha. Say, you're pretty clever, aren't you?

Panther—I should say so. You must be clever to get into society the way I've done. What am I going to do tomorrow?

Reporter—You're going to get the keys to the city.

Panther—Who will present them—Grover Whalen?

Reporter—No. Whalen's the fellow who has them made. Mayor Walker will give them to you.

Panther (excitedly)—Not Jimmie Walker?

Reporter—That's right. Do you know him?

Panther—Know him? I hate that guy.

Reporter—Why?

Panther—Well, he was down in my country some time ago hunting big game. He had a date to go shooting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and I hung around so that I might get a bite out of a mayor.

Reporter—What happened?

Panther—What happened? Walker was 17 hours late and I almost starved to death waiting for him.

Reporter—That certainly was pretty tough.

Panther—You said it. Say, do you mind if I ask you a question?

Reporter—Certainly not. That's what we reporters are for.

Panther—Well, as a society panther, what would I have to do?

Reporter—Oh, that's a cinch. They'll probably dress you up in pretty ribbons, give you a couple of millions and send you over to Europe.

Panther—What will I do over there?

Reporter—You'll be expected to marry a penniless French count.

Panther—What good would that do?

Reporter—You'd make the front pages, you dope.

Panther—I see. Well, I'm getting a little tired of this interview. Let's go some place.

Reporter—That's all arranged for. We're going to have a real treat.

Panther—What kind of a treat?

Reporter—We're going to hear Senator Heflin make a speech.

The panther leaps from his cage, jumps over the rail of the boat into the water and starts to swim madly away. The reporter follows him to the rail.

Reporter (shouting)—Hey, where are you going?

Panther (still swimming)—Did you say we were going to hear Heflin make a speech?

Reporter—Yes. Where are you going?

Panther—I'm going back to Trinidad.

Paris Awaits Word Of Biddle Wedding

PARIS, June 8.—(Universal.)—Early announcement of the expected marriage of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., New York and Philadelphia sportsman, and Mrs. Margaret Thompson Schulze, daughter of the late Col. William Boyce Thompson, is awaited here.

With the expiration of the three months' period following the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs Mary Duke Biddle, tobacco heiress, at Newburgh, N. Y., on March 7, friends of Mrs. Schulze and "Tony" believe news of the engagement is due.

Find Bodies of 5 Killed by Cave-in PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—(AP.)—Bodies of five Negro workmen buried beneath tons of earth and rock while working on an excavation, Saturday morning, have all been recovered after steam shovels and men worked for almost 48 hours.

Opportunity for College Men

In his last annual report, Dr. Elliott, of Harvard, strongly advised young men to get into practical life as soon as possible and not expect a college degree to insure success.

William Maxwell, Vice President, Thomas A. Edison, Inc., says: "If I were twenty-one again I would not seek a salaried position of any sort until I was twenty-five. Instead I would become a salesman or a canvasser on a commission basis, and I would do so before I left college. I can conceive of no better way to develop business backbone and stamina in a young man than to give him something to sell on a commission."

The first paragraph of the Yale Alumni Weekly, May 29, 1931, presents a "Student S. O. S." appeal to Yale Alumni to help find employment for students this summer.

During the last thirty years thousands of men have paid their way through college in part or in whole by selling "Wear-Ever" Aluminum Specialties. Bruce Barton is one and N. Dean Jay, representative of J. P. Morgan's Bank of Paris, is another. Of course, many men associated with the Aluminum industry secured their "connections" by first "taking a job" selling "Wear-Ever" Specialties—made by the same Company which makes the "Wear-Ever" utensils sold by stores and the "Wear-Ever" Equipments used by the leading hospitals and hotels of the country.

Nowadays, the work of selling anything is hard. However, if a college man does even SOMETHING at the job of selling goods, he acquires confidence and knowledge which will help him in any work he ever will do. Moreover, it is better to earn something than to earn nothing, and it is better to acquire experience now which will be of value later than it is to acquire nothing this summer.

If you are interested in knowing what "Wear-Ever" Specialty Salesmen are actually doing today—if you are really willing to work—we suggest you write a letter to Dept. P.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Can Single Girl Have True Mother Love for Child?

Should she give up her baby to marry him?

Eddie thinks she should. In fact, he's quite incensed because she won't—and suspects it's a sign she doesn't love him enough.

"Why should she want to hang on to the kid?" says our gallant swain. "She can't feel real mother love for it . . . for she never married its father."

But little Lila, facing the agony of that old shame, still clasps her baby to her heart, and refuses to part with it, even though she must say good-bye to the man she loves.

WON'T GIVE CHILD UP

It's a queer, tangled story of love and jealousy, strength and weakness. If you don't respect women more when you've read it, then there's a warp in you somewhere, stranger.

Dear Miss Martin:

I am coming to you because I know that you can help me with my problem. It's a very peculiar case . . . About six months ago I began going with a girl. I will call her Lila. She is 21. We are both in love with each other. During all the time we've gone together, we never had a quarrel . . . recently we began to talk about the future . . . and then the sad news was broken to me . . . she had a child when she was 17 . . . her sister in another city is keeping it, although Lila helps support it.

I know this girl would marry me immediately if I took her child. I asked her why she wanted me to, since I think her sister is willing to adopt it. I even accused her of not believing in me as she should, and of not caring enough for me. Then she cried, but made up right away, and told me it was her Mother Love that made her want it, and that we'd better try and forget each other. However, we still do see each other.

TRUE MOTHER LOVE

Now the big point is: Can a girl who had a child without even being married have a mother's love for it? And shouldn't she be willing to give this child up for me, providing she really cares for me?

What do you think? Shall we forget each other? It will be a hard thing to do, but I don't know what to think.

EDDIE.

Can the Girl Friend have a true mother's love for her baby? Why not? She would be unnatural if she didn't have. It is her own flesh and blood, even if it was born out of wedlock—and she probably has more than an ordinary mother's love for it because she has had to be both father and mother to it.

Should she give it up for you? Certainly not! And if you were a wise young man, you wouldn't want her to. For the girl who would desert her baby would make a mighty poor wife.

As a matter of fact, there's no reason on earth why you shouldn't take this baby into your life and help her love and serve it. Would you expect her to part with her child if she were a widow or a divorcee? Of course, you wouldn't. But, because this is a "nameless child," you're giving your jealousy and intolerance full sway. And feeling very self-righteous while you do so!

VICIOUS ATTITUDE

Get over it! This poor girl may have done wrong in her ignorant, impulsive youth. But you, in your heartless selfishness, are a thousand times more vicious than she ever dreamed of being.

Shall you marry her?

Not unless you can change your entire attitude.

If you can see yourself for the cheap skate that you are—

If you can see this girl for the brave, loyal, sweet spirit that she is—

If you can sense that little child's helplessness and need—

If you can take both the girl and the baby into your heart and give them all your tenderness and loyalty—

Then, and then only, should you marry her.

And if you can't do that—get out! Go away and let her forget you . . . Give her a chance to find a man who's worthy of her!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Let the Heart Dictate the Action

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother has been dead for two months and we would like to know the proper mourning clothes which we could wear? We are three sisters, one 17, one 19 and one 21. R.

It practically isn't possible to tell what are "proper mourning clothes" these days, for all rules and regulations for mourning have passed away. The only rule that is left, therefore, is the very vague and indefinite one—that everyone wears, for mourning, whatever she wishes to wear. No mourning, or the deepest kind of mourning. Whatever she or he wishes.

But true it is that mourning clothes in the sense which we used to think of them have almost passed out of the sartorial picture. Very seldom now do we see the mourning veil. Very seldom, even, do we see the heavy mourning veil even at the funeral. And very seldom do we see the heavy-hearted crepe, either as a veil, as a material for hat or dress, or as a trimming.

The modern world considers that a material of a lighter heart, chiffon, georgette, nun's veiling, takes away from the unnecessary gloom and shadow. But the modern agrees, too, naturally, that, if heavy evidences of mourning at all eases the feelings of the wearer, then of course it should be worn.

So now, usually, we see young ladies of the age you name dressed quietly in black and white, or in dark colors. No jewelry. A staying away from shiny materials. Nothing striking in the attire. But all-black isn't at all necessary, unless your feelings tell you it is.

Salt and Pepper Stay Together

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the correct way to pass salt and pepper shakers? Should they be passed together or separately? Does one set them down or hold them in midair for the other person to take?

2. Is it not correct for the woman to give her order to her host when dining at a restaurant, or does she give it direct to the waiter?

3. When getting in an automobile is there a particular side the woman should sit on, or is it immaterial? Does the same rule apply to a taxicab?

4. When dining at a restaurant does the woman sit down with her coat on and then remove it, letting it hang over the back of her chair, or just what is proper in this instance?

J. H.

1. We should pass both the salt and the pepper, separately. It is usually easier if we place them on the table conveniently near the person.

2. The woman guest gives her order to the man with whom she is dining, her host. He gives both orders to the waiter, the woman's order first, if the orders differ.

3. "The woman on the right of the gentleman" is a good rule here, as in most instances.

4. Before the man takes his seat, he steps beside or behind the woman's chair, and assists her as she takes off her coat. It is enough to allow the coat to "rest" on the back of her chair.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A California girl of 21, whose mother died when she was 12, is lying awake nights worrying and weeping over a scoundrel who SAID he loved her, and then behaved as no man who loved a woman could possibly behave. He told her, after going with her for months, about his unsavory past. But he loved her, he SAID. He even had a wife from whom he wasn't divorced. Later she heard he has children, too. He got mixed up "recently" with another girl case in town. The girl died and he is being questioned by the authorities.

YET—she thinks if he loves her she ought to "stand by" and not desert him.

Lady, you run in the other direction, just as fast as you can run. Don't stop to brood over your mistake. You are young and your whole happy life is ahead of you. Remember that everyone has something he wishes he hadn't done, and there is one rule in life that is safe. Forget mistakes and start over. It can be done, it has been done, it IS being done, every minute. Why should you, young and pretty, lie down and let this first mistake break you and ruin your life?

As I've said so many times, it isn't what happens to you that makes the big difference in your life; it's the way you behave when it happens. If you think too much of your mistakes, you become one of these sad eyed martyrs, from whom your best friends will turn in a short time, and then you sink yourself into a dull unhappy life. Some women enjoy grieving, and they feel a strange importance because of having made a BIG mistake, so they want to dwell upon it. It will never get you where you want to go, to behave like that, so drop this bad egg and if you can leave the community do so. If you can't, then fight it out right on the ground where you stand. Tell him you don't want to see him again. You know he isn't right. You say so. Your letter shows it all the way through.

And remember that first loves often turn out to be the wrong ones—sad as that may seem. And when later, you find the right man and great happiness, you will look back and laugh at this silly mistake, and charge it up to lack of experience. You aren't born with great experience, my dear. You have to acquire that. Profit by yours, no matter how bad it was.

You say you are paying in "tears, worry and fear." Dry your tears and stop worrying. You KNOW what he is, no matter what he says to you. You won't fear any more if you step out NOW. If you keep up this foolish alliance, you will go down with him, to his low level.

Good luck to you and let me know if you are grateful to me for this a little later.

(If I'm wrong, write me, care Universal Service, 63 Park Row, New York City).

Minding Her Own Business, Best Way Wife Can Help Husband—Fay King

DEVOTION TO HER HOME AND CHILDREN IS BEST FAY KING

By FAY KING

A husband sometimes underestimates his plain, unassuming wife, who prefers to remain in the background and devote herself to their home and children.

Such a wife is the finest recommendation and credential a husband can have when he applies for a position of trust, or wishes to negotiate a loan at a reliable bank.

Naturally, all wives wish to help their husbands, but some are unfortunately mistaken in their method.

They assume poses which are misunderstood and do more harm than help.

In wishing to appear "good mixers," they often undermine confidence in their own and their husband's character.

In making extravagant social gestures, they often only irritate those they wished to impress.

Minding her own business is the best way a wife can help.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky and Harry Caught Playing With Toys

We found "Goofs Nos. One and Two" as Lillian had dubbed her husband and mine so absorbed in manipulating the electric railroad trains, which they had rigged up for Junior and Ronald in the basement, that they do not see or hear us as we came down the stairs to the playroom, which we had fitted up with such painstaking care for our small son and his cousins.

We stopped midway down the stairs, and shamelessly watched and eavesdropped, controlling our laughter muscles by main strength, for anything more mirth-provoking than the spectacle before us, we could not imagine.

With the gravity of Buddhist priests tending a shrine, the two men were squatting by the tracks they had spent hours in arranging.

"On your mark!" Mr. Underwood intoned, and, after a few seconds, "Get set! Go!"

We guessed that a race was on, and, as one of the trains sped into the station, we knew it.

"Ah-h, yah-h!" Dick jeered in boyish fashion. "I guess this is bad, huh? Fork over the two bits, boy. I can see now why you were such a piker and wouldn't make it a buck. You knew how it would come out."

Mr. Underwood imperturbably drew a coin from his pocket and tossed it over to his grimacing friend.

"I'll make it a buck now," he said briefly. "I've found out what's the matter with this thing."

"Henree Truxton Underwood," Lillian intoned in her best burlesque tones, "hand me me that dollar bill, and come upstairs this minute. Gambling your hard-earned money away. You get that two bits back, too, or I'll know the reason why."

Our men grinned at us, the sheepish, foolish smile of grown men caught in situations which they consider beneath their dignity. Then Mr. Underwood stooped and pushed Roderick's train along until it was lined up beside Junior's.

"We're licked, boy," he said, turning to Dicky. "We might as well quit and go upstairs. But there's no use in letting the little fellows know one train is faster than the other. Maybe they won't think of racing 'em."

"If they do," Dicky said stolidly, "we'll be able to figure out something so that first one will beat, then the other."

Lillian turned an expressively drooped left eyelid toward me.

"What say, Madge?" she queried, in a carefully detached tone. "If they promise to let Junior and Roderick have the trains five minutes out of every hour tomorrow, can't we let them stay down here until we get a pot of coffee made?"

"I think so," I returned judicially, "provided they promise to come up within two minutes after we call down for them."

"The Perfect Wives!" Dicky apostrophized, with a low bow. "Make it one minute after the coffee call, and we'll be with you."

He kept his word to the second, and when we had finished the coffee, which would have made most people wakeful during the rest of the night—or morning, but which appears to have no effect at all upon our quartet, Harry and Lillian bade us good-night, and I watched Dicky furtively as he drew a big armchair close to the fire. Always, after everyone else has gone to bed on Christmas Eve, or, rather, Christmas morning, Dicky draws me into this big armchair for what he calls our "special Christmas half-hour," when we give each other the gifts we have chosen, talk happily over the day past and the day to come, or sit in the blissful understanding silence of married lovers. But there had been so many disturbing elements in these few days just before Christmas that I felt vaguely fearful of a possible discord in our holiday harmony.

I let no hint of my feeling appear in my face, however, and by the time Dicky had our chair arranged to his liking, I was by his side, in my arms a large parcel, gay with holiday trimmings. But when he had torn open the wrappings, instead of the pleased smile and warm kiss with which he always greets my Christmas gifts, his face registered unmistakable dismay, and he exclaimed:

"Well, I'll be—What do you know about this?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Find Time to Get Rest If You Want Good Health.

"I have no time to rest," is a common excuse for overwork. If people would only realize that time must be found, there would be less suffering and eventual loss of time from illness.

In this country, at any given time, there are at least two and a quarter million persons requiring medical attention of one kind or another. The actual expenditure of money for this care amounts to over two billions of dollars a year. This does not take into consideration the actual loss of time from work and destruction of the earning ability.

Many of these illnesses could be avoided. Unfortunately, most persons do not realize that rest is essential to good health. They subject their bodies to mental and physical excesses that can result in but one thing—illness.

The body is a mechanism that requires just so much fuel and care. Fuel in the form of food is an important item. However, it is of no value when the care of the body is neglected.

The body requires at least six hours of rest every day. Personally, I must have more. This rest is best acquired by sound and uninterrupted sleep. Restless or interrupted sleep is of no benefit.

Many persons complain of insomnia, loss of sleep, but they rarely attempt to determine its cause. Regular hours of work and rest are imperative for the general welfare of the body. Going to bed at irregular hours soon takes its effect upon the overworked mechanism.

Poor food or food hastily and improperly chewed, is fuel that the body does not tolerate. Lack of fresh air, improper bathing and need of relaxation are factors that must be considered by all. Midnight meals and consumption of indigestible foods prior to bedtime are among the sure means of producing restless sleep.

Many persons can continue on such a schedule for a long time. Sooner or later, however, there will be a danger signal. If this warning is unheeded, grave and often very serious disorders result.

It should be the aim of all to preserve strength and health. If you do not respect your body, you will be deprived of the joys of right living. Many things can be purchased, but never health. It is your gift and should be cherished and guarded carefully.

Answers to Health Queries

H. S. J. Q.—What can be done for a numb, sleeping feeling in the hands? The left hand is worse than the right, the numbness extending to the elbow. It also affects my left foot when I stand or walk. I am a woman of 41 and very active otherwise.

A.—This is probably due to a circulatory disturbance. Application of heat and general massage should give relief.

* * *

K. R. Q.—I am not underweight. I eat plenty of food and have proper rest, yet I am always tired and listless and nervous most of the time. What would you advise?

A.—This may be due to auto-intoxication or abnormal blood pressure. Have the latter tested, so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined. If there is tendency to sluggish elimination this should have first attention.

* * *

F. A. B. Q.—Is an operation necessary to correct a rupture?

A.—Yes, in most instances.

* * *

Q.—What causes head noises?

A.—This is often due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear.

-:- -:- The Beauty Box -:- -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

If one feels that one must use a dry shampoo, ordinary cornmeal will be found more satisfactory than orris root. It brushes out more easily, absorbs the oil as quickly. It is less likely to cling to the scalp. Place cotton over the bristles of the brush for the final grooming.

Every woman who would retain her youthful appearance should have quiet hours now and then to compensate for the rush and hurry of life. One of the advantages of wealth is that money can take one into peaceful places where one can commune with one's own soul and pound one's royal ear away from the roar of traffic.

One hundred deep, full breaths, taken twice a day, will add to vitality and will grow cutaneous roses upon colorless cheeks. Many a pair of lungs is starving for air-food. Shallow breathers suffer from headaches, because the lower lobes of the lungs are not washed free of stale air. The blood streams suffer in consequence.

A simple exercise for flattening the tummy that has taken on too much flesh is to stand against the wall with the shoulder blades flattened, to lift the chest high, pull in the muscles of the abdomen; taking a deep breath at the same time. Don't fail to lift the chest and to pull the body tall. Rolling on the floor knocks fat cells from hips.

Shoulder length hair has unnumbered possibilities in the way of chic arrangement. There is the middle parting that continues down to the nape of the neck, with soft ringlets baretted behind each ear. Or the ends are arranged in two narrow pigtails and bunned over the ears. Curly ends are turned upward in a sausage roll extending along the rear hair line.

Use an atomizer when applying perfume. The scent will be more subtle and the precious flower oils will go farther. Talcum powder applied to the body surface will give out a perceptible fragrance because of the heat of the flesh. Sachet powders are good investments. Less expensive than essences, and their perfumes are of the same general character.

Watch out for the hair-trigger face, you spoiled little gals who do tantrums now and then during family misunderstandings. As the years go on, unpleasant emotions stamp themselves upon the countenance. Faces are ever in the making. The mouth takes on a firm, belligerant look, sort of a bear-trap appearance, when thoughts inside the head go bolshevik. To have nice manners, to preserve the happy mien of youth, one's mind must be trained to behave prettily, not to fly off the handle. Facial expression, even more than regularity of features, makes for beauty.

Household Hints

Clean your radiators before the heat is in them, as they will be much easier to handle. A radiator brush, for the many crevices, is a necessity to absolute cleanliness.

A roll of inch-wide gummed paper is convenient for the woman who packs a lunch every day. Packages can be wrapped in a hurry, when one does not have to be concerned about hunting up and tying string.

A polish fine for all metals may be made from one cup of cigar ashes mixed with two tablespoons of bicarbonate of soda, brought to a smooth paste by adding water. Use with a soft cloth, rubbing vigorously.

It is rather fun to make little gauze bags for individual cups of tea. Fill with tea and tie with white string. Then they are ready for your hurried brew of tea when next you have visitors. Keep wrapped in oiled paper, packed in a box, so they will keep perfectly clean.

Does your maid have time to take care of her own room properly? This should be a matter of concern to the mistress of the house, for while the room may be in a remote part of the house where an ill-kept room will never meet the eye of guests, think of the effect upon the temper of the maid. Everyone feels better and is happier in neat, pleasant surroundings and a mistress who encourages her maid to keep her own little domain in order does much to insure herself against discontented servants.

A Few New Laws

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Our next Congress will be the old one shaved, shined and shampooed.

While President Hoover is resting lightly on the Rapidan we understand the boys are figuring out their new legislation and its counter-irritants.

Here are some laws we trust the new Congress will consider with the dignity due a presidential veto:

That the North and South Poles have been discovered enough.

That Communistic activities can be fought successfully by compelling school children to blow their little noses in yellow hankies with purple polka dots.

That two straws in one glass of soda water may be unfair competition but not a restraint of trade.

That when a dog bites a man it is not news unless it is a hot dog and a tin-can tourist.

That no girl should marry a handsome life guard until she finds out if he can make a living in the winter time.

That the lady on the 18-day diet can't sue her host if she gets her nose caught in the door of the ice-box after midnight.

That it is all wrong to jam 11 people into a flivver and go out into the country to escape the crowds.

That our national liquor bill wouldn't be three billion if it were not against the law for the bartender to treat like the old days.

And that as we have too many silly laws now nobody will notice a few more like these.

Real Estate

A modern brick home on a 10-acre site in Perry Highway, Fairview, has been sold to Scott Minner by Mrs. Marie Amaden through the offices of the Rodgers Realty Company.

The same realtors have sold for H. P. Everett to George Bobarick a 60-acre farm in Findley Township, Mercer County. The farm was sold with stock, crops and machinery.

FARM SOLD

A 162-acre farm in Irwin Township, Venango County, has been conveyed by Frank Porter to T. A. Rowand, II. Rowand gave in part payment a modern six-room house in Wilkinsburg, according to the Rodgers Realty Company.

Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will speak tomorrow at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board in the William Penn Hotel. Dunn's subject will be "Foundation of Real Estate."

In his talk Dunn will compare the stability of real estate with that of other commodities in an attempt to explain why real property remains firm in business slumps while other commodities prove erratic.

J. Roland Brady, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, reports an addition of 25 new members to the board's roster.

This addition, Brady says, is the direct result of a membership drive now being promoted and which will continue to September 1. Every authorized real estate broker in Allegheny County, who is not already a member of the board will be invited to join. It is the aim of the board to acquire 100 or more new members before the closing of the campaign.

UNVEIL TABLET TO CLERGYMAN

The memory of the Rev. Franklin Beiswwenger, who for 37 years was pastoor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Excelsior street, South Side, was honored with the dedication of a memorial tablet in the church yesterday. The tablet was unveiled by the minister's three grandchildren, Esther Fabry, Paul Franklin Beiswenger, Jr., and Miriam Ruth Beiswenger.

The Rev. Dr. H. J. Schuh, pastor, conducted the services. Music was rendered by the church choir with a solo by Harry Beiswenger.

TEXAS GUARDS 'GANG' ON SHIP

S. S. PARIS, June 8.—(By Radio)—(AP.)—Texas Guinan was continuing today to cloister the members of her "gang" on their return journey from France, where they failed to get permission to enter the country.

Just after lunch some of the men on board the steamer prevailed upon a steward to try to bring at least a couple of Texas' "kids" up to the promenade deck. The watchful eye of Texas stopped them, however, and they never got as far as "B" deck.

Disappointed passengers moaned:

"We might as well be bringing back a crowd of diplomats."

4 Boys Puncture Tires to Hear Air Rush Out

Because they liked to hear the air rush out from exploding automobile tires, four West Homestead boys, all under 15 years old, who armed themselves with an ice pick, police say, and "took turns" puncturing tires on machines parked in West Seventh avenue, West Homestead, were to be turned over today to Juvenile Court on charges of malicious mischief.

TRAFFIC CLUB TO DINE, ELECT

The annual election of the Traffic Club, of Pittsburgh, will be held a meeting of the club in William Penn Hotel tonight. The meeting will follow the club dinner.

A special train has been chartered on the Pennsylvania Railroad to carry 2,000 members of the American Institute of Banking from Legionville station to Kennywood Park, Wednesday. The bankers are in Pittsburgh for the annual convention being held here this week.

HONOR 30-YEAR PASTORATE

The thirtieth anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Woods, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Mt. Vernon street and North Lang avenue, was celebrated at services yesterday.

A feature of the ceremony was the calling of the original charter membership roll of 43 members which Dr. Woods himself organized in 1901. Twenty-two of the original members remain in the congregation.

Mrs. Helen Broucci, representing the Young Ladies' and Women's Missionary Society, paid tribute to Dr. Woods, and Robert M. Clarke brought greetings from the Homewood-Brushton Council of Churches. Dr. Woods, president of the council for 10 years, was re-elected Saturday.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

CHICAGO, June 8.—Out here for the annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers' Association—and seeing some of the real sights of the radio world, including the latest in television and the studios from which Amos and Andy send out their laugh waves.

Darrell V. Martin

As to the studio—the one at WMAQ where Amos and Andy broadcast each night but Sunday—it is colored blue and is about the size of the announcer's berth at KDKA, or 10 by 15 feet. Amos has the wall nicked from leaning back on his chair when gesticulating to suit the moods of his several characters.

Amos talks straight into the microphone and usually smokes a cigaret. Andy talks laterally across the same microphone.

Bill Hay does his announcing from a studio immediately adjoining, and is hidden from view by drawn curtains. The orchestra for "The Perfect Song" is a sextet.

DWELL IN GRANDEUR

Amos and Andy live in fashion in an attractive section of the city. Their apartments are imposing and the procedure of getting past the doorman and his score of assistants is problematical. One never knows how he will make out until he is actually on the fourth floor and a maid says "How do you do?"

"Business Without Ballyhoo" is the slogan of the radio manufacturers' convention, which gets under way officially Tuesday morning with a welcome by Mayor Anton Cermak and a speech by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

Giving the exhibition a once-over we discovered a new model radio called the widget. Smaller than a midget, it is almost the size of a mantel clock.

TELEVISION EXHIBIT

Actual demonstrations of television are to be conducted at WIBO and WMAQ for members of the Radio Editors' Association. Tomorrow the radio editors hold their annual meeting, at which time it is expected some action will be taken to limit commercial announcement in radio to 5 per cent of the time a program is on the air or three minutes an hour.

James A. Simpson, Bill Hetznecker, Fred Straged and an army of Pittsburghers have arrived.

Simpson will take a party of friends into the new NBC studio at Merchandise Mart tonight to witness the broadcast of Ferde Grofe's Orchestra, which will be heard on WCAE at 8:30.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you, if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's, and all Mayflower Drug Stores, or your own druggist. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, June 8.—June invariably means a radio revival of the old De Koven song, "O Promise Me." Before jazz crept up from the levees and sophistication stamped its high heel its sentimental melody echoed over every—well, almost every—wedding of the land. Radio has brought it back as it has brought back so much that is old-fashioned.

When broadcasters don't know what use to put over their vocal choruses they fall back on Gilbert and Sullivan. The gesture always brings heavy mail of appreciation.

Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" has now been attempted on every instrument save the jewsharp. Its completest mastery falls today as it did six years ago to Paul Whiteman. There is no one this side of a saxophonist's heaven who can give it the same vigor and color.

If the promoters of the Chicago World's Fair are actively on the job, they are hunting down a tune that will put its stamp upon their show as indelibly as the "Hoochie-Koochie" did upon the World's Fair of 1893.

Vermont is now advertising its summer vacation glories. What Vermont needs most of all for effective ballyhoo is a good tune. The same moon shines over Vermont as over Carolina, but no laureate of Tin Pan Alley has ever paid it tribute.

* * *

American broadcasters—those of Columbia to be exact—are now pinning medals on Sir John Reith, grand duke of British radio. He is the first to be so honored. "For distinguished contribution to the radio art." Well, there are others in line. Amos 'n' Andy, for making radio a household ritual. Atwater Kent for corraling hesitant operatic and concert stars. Rudy Vallee for the megaphonic soothing of the lonely and restless women of the land.

Ben Bernie is still the best example of a jaz maestro who can be popular and still not be devoid of a sense of humor. By kidding himself persistently he manages to disarm most of whatever criticism is aimed at him.

While beer, ale and whisky have been lyrically immortalized there has never been a tribute in song, not even during the prohibition era, if our ears are reliable, to gin.

So active is Damrosch as a conductor that it takes the voice of Werrenrath to make us remember that Damrosch composed one of the best ballads ever set to Kipling.

The ability of the public to absorb with equal relish the classic and the popular makes the broadcasters' job comparatively easy. It makes it easy for them when they decide to exhibit their stars in the theater to compile a program, beat the drums of ballyhoo and wait for the crowd.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

From the state capital comes interesting news of a wedding of a Harrisburg girl and a Blairsville boy, who are known to Pittsburgh.

On Saturday in Harrisburg, Christine Brandt, daughter of the J. Austin Brandts, became the bride of Graff Miller, son of the Samuel W. Millers, of Blairsville. The ceremony took place at high noon in the Pine Street Presbyterian Church, with only the families present.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of ivory satin and old lace, and carried gardenias and lilies of the valley. She was unattended. Charles Henry Graff, of Harrisburg and Kittanning, was the best man.

* * *

On Tour Of Canada

A reception and wedding breakfast was given in the Civic Club. Mr. Miller and his bride left for a motor trip to Quebec and Nova Scotia. After July 15 they will live in North Front street, Harrisburg.

The bride is a member of the Junior League, and a graduate of Miss Sipley's School and of the Sorbonne. The bridegroom is a graduate of Princeton and of the University of Pittsburgh Law School. He also attended Jesus College, Cambridge, and at present is law examiner for the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania.

Saturday At Show

Now I want to mention a few of the many, many people whom I saw at the Sewickley horse show Saturday afternoon, and then I shall talk no more about it until next year.

The Roberdeau Green Annans arrived for the Saturday afternoon show. Mrs. Annan looked smart as usual. She wore a white boucle suite and a white hat.

Others I saw were Mrs. Gordon King, Mrs. W. Edgar Reed in a green knitted suit; Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller in white boucle; Mrs. T. A. McGinley, her sister, in a white knitted dress and a white felt hat; Miss Ethel Christy in a green crepe suit; Mrs. John W. Lawrence in a green knitted suit having a belted jacket, and Mrs. William H. Duff in a white flannel suit.

Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson wore a smart white flannel dress and a navy blue flannel jacket and a white hat. Sitting in a box with her was her young sister-in-law, Mary Franklin Robinson, who chose a yellow dress and a green suede jacket and a green string beret.

* * *

Pastels Popular

The James Francis Burkes had a box, as usual. Mrs. Burke chose a white crepe dress, and a white and brown straw hat; Mrs. Mortimer Miller wore black and white, and Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, yellow boucle. Mrs. G. Faber Downey chose a distinctive frock of pink linen with which she wore a blue straw hat.

Among the members of the younger set there were Lydia Irish in a white mesh knit frock and an orange crepe jacket with a beret of matching color; Nancy Hamilton in blue crepe with a blue knitted turban; Josephine Stieren, Marguerite Borntraeger in a white suit; Katherine Collin in a blue and green and white striped dress, and Emily Frew in a white crepe dress with a narrow band of navy blue at the neckline.

Arriving with Mrs. W. L. Mellon, Jr., who wore a paddy green crocheted suit with a beret to match, was La Salle Dorrance in orange.

Susan O'Neil chose white crepe with yellow coin dots and a large white straw hat with a band of white, dotted with yellow. Betty McCance was there too.

* * *

Many Chic Costumes

Martha Edmondson chose a yellow flannel suit and a yellow hat, Lois Tack, a white and powder blue suit, and Virginia Drake a green and beige printed frock.

Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., chose a blue and gray printed dress, and a white coat. Mrs. Franklin C. Irish a green and white costume, and Mrs. J. B. Kelly, white and yellow. Neil Stewart Zang was there, too, and Helen McCance in green and white, and Madelaine Alexander in a blue and yellow costume.

Mrs. Robert Milligan wore a blue crepe dress and an eggshell straw hat with a blue band, and Mrs. J. O. Burgwin wore a pink crepe dress with a jacket of a deeper shade. Mrs. R. Kent Hanson wore yellow, and Dorothy Slack chose a blue crepe dress. Mrs. B. F. Jones, III, was in white; Mrs. E. J. McCague in green and white print; Mrs. James Verner Scaife, in green crepe with an eggshell straw hat; Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, in white, and Mrs. George S. Ebbert in pink crepe. Mrs. William S. Moorhead chose pale pink, and Marie Louise Bickford, pink crepe.

Chatting with friends was Peggy Milligan in white crepe with a rose sweater and beret. Mrs. T. J. Hilliard wore a striking costume of yellow and white.

Others I saw were Margret Brill, Betty McKay, Mary Childs, Rosamound Fitch, Elizabeth Childs, Margaret Holdship, the Alan Magee Scaifes, Frances Reed, Clodagh McCune, Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., and Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon, who wore a brown costume.

Plans for Wedding

Mary Elizabeth Shaner, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Philip Kuhns Shaner, of North Maple avenue, Greensburg, has chosen Saturday, June 27, as the date for her marriage to William Mullon Tierney, son of Mrs. Louise Tierney, of New York.

The wedding will take place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the First Presbyterian Church. There will be a reception in the Greensburg Country Club after the ceremony.

* * *

Eastern Wedding

Saturday afternoon Louise Bailey, who's the daughter of the James B. Baileys, of Bryn Mawr, married Thomas Irwin Laughlin, of New York, son of Mrs. Henry F. Lippitt, of Providence, R. I., and the late Thomas K. Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, in the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. Officiating was the Rev. Andrew Mutch, pastor.

Louise wore a gown of heavy white satin fashioned with a flowing skirt extending into a court train, over which cascaded her veil of tulle, finished with a bandeau of tiny leaves done in seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Caleb F. Gates, Jr., of Istanbul, Turkey, formerly Elizabeth W. Farnum, of Philadelphia, and the maid of honor was Beatrice Willing Patterson, of Philadelphia. Both wore gowns of shell pink chiffon with matching picture hats of horsehair and carried spring garden flowers.

* * *

League To Meet

The annual meeting of the Junior League will be at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. The members will have luncheon at the club.

* * *

Bridal Party

The bridesmaids included Mrs. Samuel H. Gilbert, Ruth Dwight McVitty and Mrs. Thomas S. Gates, Jr., of Philadelphia; Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Helen Potter and Mrs. Henry Potter, of New York; Sophie McLane, of Baltimore; Dorothy Norton, of Louisville, Ky.; Helen Pillsbury, of Minneapolis, and Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Jr., of Sewickley, who all wore similar gowns of turquoise blue chiffon with matching hats of openwork straw. They carried garden flowers. Small Caroline Seelye and Mary Emily Knowles, nieces of the bride, were flower girls, wearing frocks of fresh tone chiffon and carrying spring flowers.

Serving as best man was William Laughlin, and the ushers were Nicholas S. Ludington and Richard Claytor, of Philadelphia; Clyde Brown, Joseph Sheffield, Theodore Ryan, Henry Mosle, Guy Richards, Henry Bull, Donald Lee Norris, L. S. Scott and Hannibal Hamlin, of New York; George Reily, cousin of the bride, of Harrisburg; Malcolm Chase, of Providence, R. I., and John Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, cousin of the bridegroom.

There was a reception in the Bailey home after which the Laughlins left for a European honeymoon. They will reside in Paris for a year.

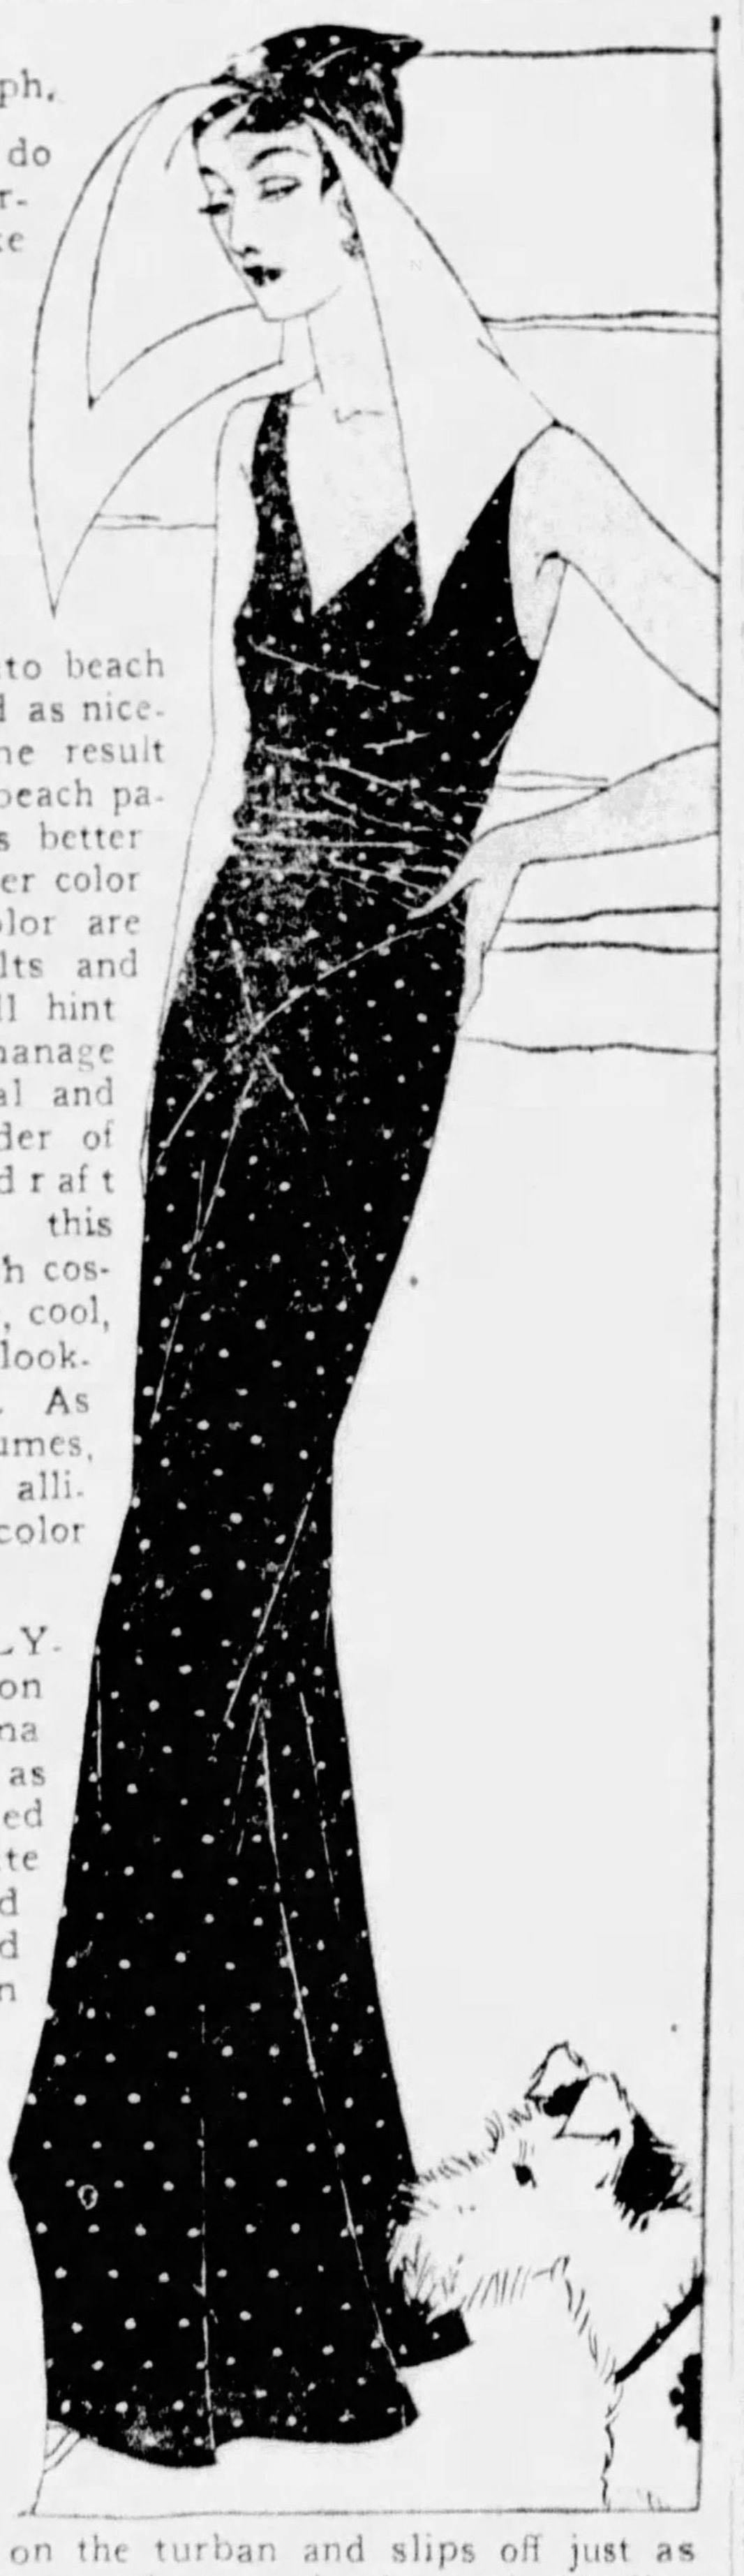
NEWEST VOGUE IN BEACH COSTUMES

—Sketched in Paris—



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 8.—We do not need naval conferences and pacts to make us beach-pajama conscious. All we need is a dash of warm weather and the wherewithal for a seashore vacation to send us headlong into the sea of waterside and nautical fashions. All the houses are in the conspiracy to put us into beach costumes as quickly and as nicely as possible, with the result that this year's crop of beach pajamas and ensembles is better looking than ever. Clever color contrasts and vivid color are used with happy results and most models eschew all hint of the bizarre and yet manage to be strikingly original and unique. The noble order of beachcombers should draft several new members this season, for the new beach costumes are most wearable, cool, comfortable and good looking, a fine combination. As with other types of costumes, blue and white in clever alliance is one of the best color bets.

* * *

FROM CAPT. MOLYNEUX'S smart collection comes the beach pajama with a very clever hat as an added attraction. Red foulard dotted in white makes both pajamas and turban, the latter corded to form a pointed crown with a scarf edge tied closely round the head and knotted over one eyebrow. Over this is slipped a stiffly starched and wired brim of white linen, extremely wide at the front and sides, but cut away to within a few inches of the head band at the nape. The brim is easily adjusted on the turban and slips off just as easily. The pajamas are in two pieces, a simple crushed bodice and very flaring trousers set onto a close hip yoke.

June 24 Selected By Leah Eves For Wedding

Miss Leah Eves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Eves, of Oakmont, has named June 24 as the date for her marriage to H. Donald Paxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William X. Paxton, of Latrobe.

The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Oakmont. Leone Templeton, of Clymer, Pa., will be matron of honor, and Mrs. Alfred C. Martin, Margaret Marshall, Mary Virginia Kerr, and Harriet Ruth Martin, all of Oakmont, will be bridesmaids.

Ambrose Eves, Jr., will be best man, and Paul Franklin Eves, John C. Huffman, of Cleveland; Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, Jr., and Saxman Rise, of Latrobe, will be ushers.

A small reception in the Eves home will follow the ceremony, with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends attending.

Announce Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Jones, of Sheridan avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Jones, to Dr. William W. Wightman, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Catherine Weyandt Weds in New Kensington

Last Monday evening Mrs. Catherine Weyandt, of New Kensington, formerly of North Braddock, became the bride of Charles F. Klages, of Turtle Creek, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of New Kensington, with the Rev. H. A. Baum officiating.

The bride wore a gown of shell pink lace with a matching hat and carried a sheaf of pink roses. A reception was held later in the bride's home for the families and a few friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Klages left Tuesday for Niagara Falls and Canada. After June 5 they will be at home in Turtle Creek.

We have just been talking with a man who gave us a lot of stuff for the paper. He said, first of all, he was sick and tired of ball players complaining that the fans boo them when they play a poor game and only cheer them when they play a good game. He says Hack Wilson, who is in a slump, deserves to be criticized because when he's going good he's cheered, isn't he? Why should somebody be cheered for a bad job? Then he said that the papers were filled these days with pieces about the college graduates going out into the hard world, not realizing they had a tough row to hoe. He said the graduates do so realize it, that most of them, especially the dentists, doctors and lawyers, know darned well that their first two or three years out of college are the most difficult of all. He wound up by saying that out at West View Park there's a machine which weighs the tickets used on the rides. This eliminates the necessity of Mr. Danahey, of West View, and his men counting them. Imagine, he gasped, a weighing machine delicate enough to weigh a ticket good for one ride on a ferris wheel.

"She," we overheard a woman say, "is one of the reasons they call 'em dizzy blondes."

* * *

Lieut. Ed Arthur, the policeman, is pushing his chest out another six inches these days. Some months ago, during what is known as a crime wave, Arthur advised all wives, but especially Mrs. Arthur, how to cope with burglars. The lieutenant, who is on night duty, advised his wife that if ever she heard a burglar in the house, to throw a shoe through a window. The strange, crashing noise will scare away the burglar, Arthur contended.

And now Arthur points to a report which came to his police station the other day. Mrs. S. J. Pentin heard burglars in her home in Lincoln avenue. But she didn't throw a shoe through her bedroom window. Instead, she opened a window and tossed the shoe through a friendly neighbor's window. The neighbors immediately called the police. The burglars got away.

* * *

It occurs to us just now that this incident emphasizes the usefulness of the shoe, and we are surprised that a manufacturer has not exploited the idea. Suggested testimonial from Mrs. Elim Bump: "I wish to say that Blank's shoes are not only the most comfortable shoes on the feet but that in the past three months I have easily frightened off two burglars. The shoe fits the hand as neatly as it does the foot."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 8.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

About all that was in the papers yesterday was about "debts." Every nation, and every individual, their principal worry is "debt." What would be the matter with this, for relieving practically everybodys' depression by just calling all debts off. There can't be over a dozen men in the world that are owed more than they owe so you wouldn't be hurting very many and besides if you do give them some worry, that's what they had everybody else doing for years. It's not supply and demand, it's old man interest that's got the world by the ears. This would give great temporary relief to 99 per cent and wouldn't hurt the others long for they would soon have it back again. I make it a motion, do I hear a second?

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

BANKERS OPEN MEET WITH CITY TOUR

'Get Acquainted' Program Features First Session Of American Institute

Opening meetings of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking were being held here today. Most of the day was to be spent in "get-acquainted" programs, with a tour of the city this afternoon and a smoker and show at Syria Mosque tonight.

The first business session of the convention will be held tomorrow morning in the Davis Theater, with Ben Aley, of Denver, president of the institute, presiding. The Rev. Clarence Edward Macartney, of the First Presbyterian Church, will make the invocation, followed by greetings from James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, and vice president of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association. President Aley will deliver the president's annual address, and Dr. Edward Mimm, head of the English department of Vanderbilt University, will speak on "Leisure and Education." The morning session will adjourn following nominating speeches.

A feature of the conference will be the institute's annual debate and public speaking contest to be held tomorrow night in William Penn Hotel. The winner in the public speaking contest will leave immediately afterward for New York, where he will broadcast at 10:15 a. m. Wednesday.

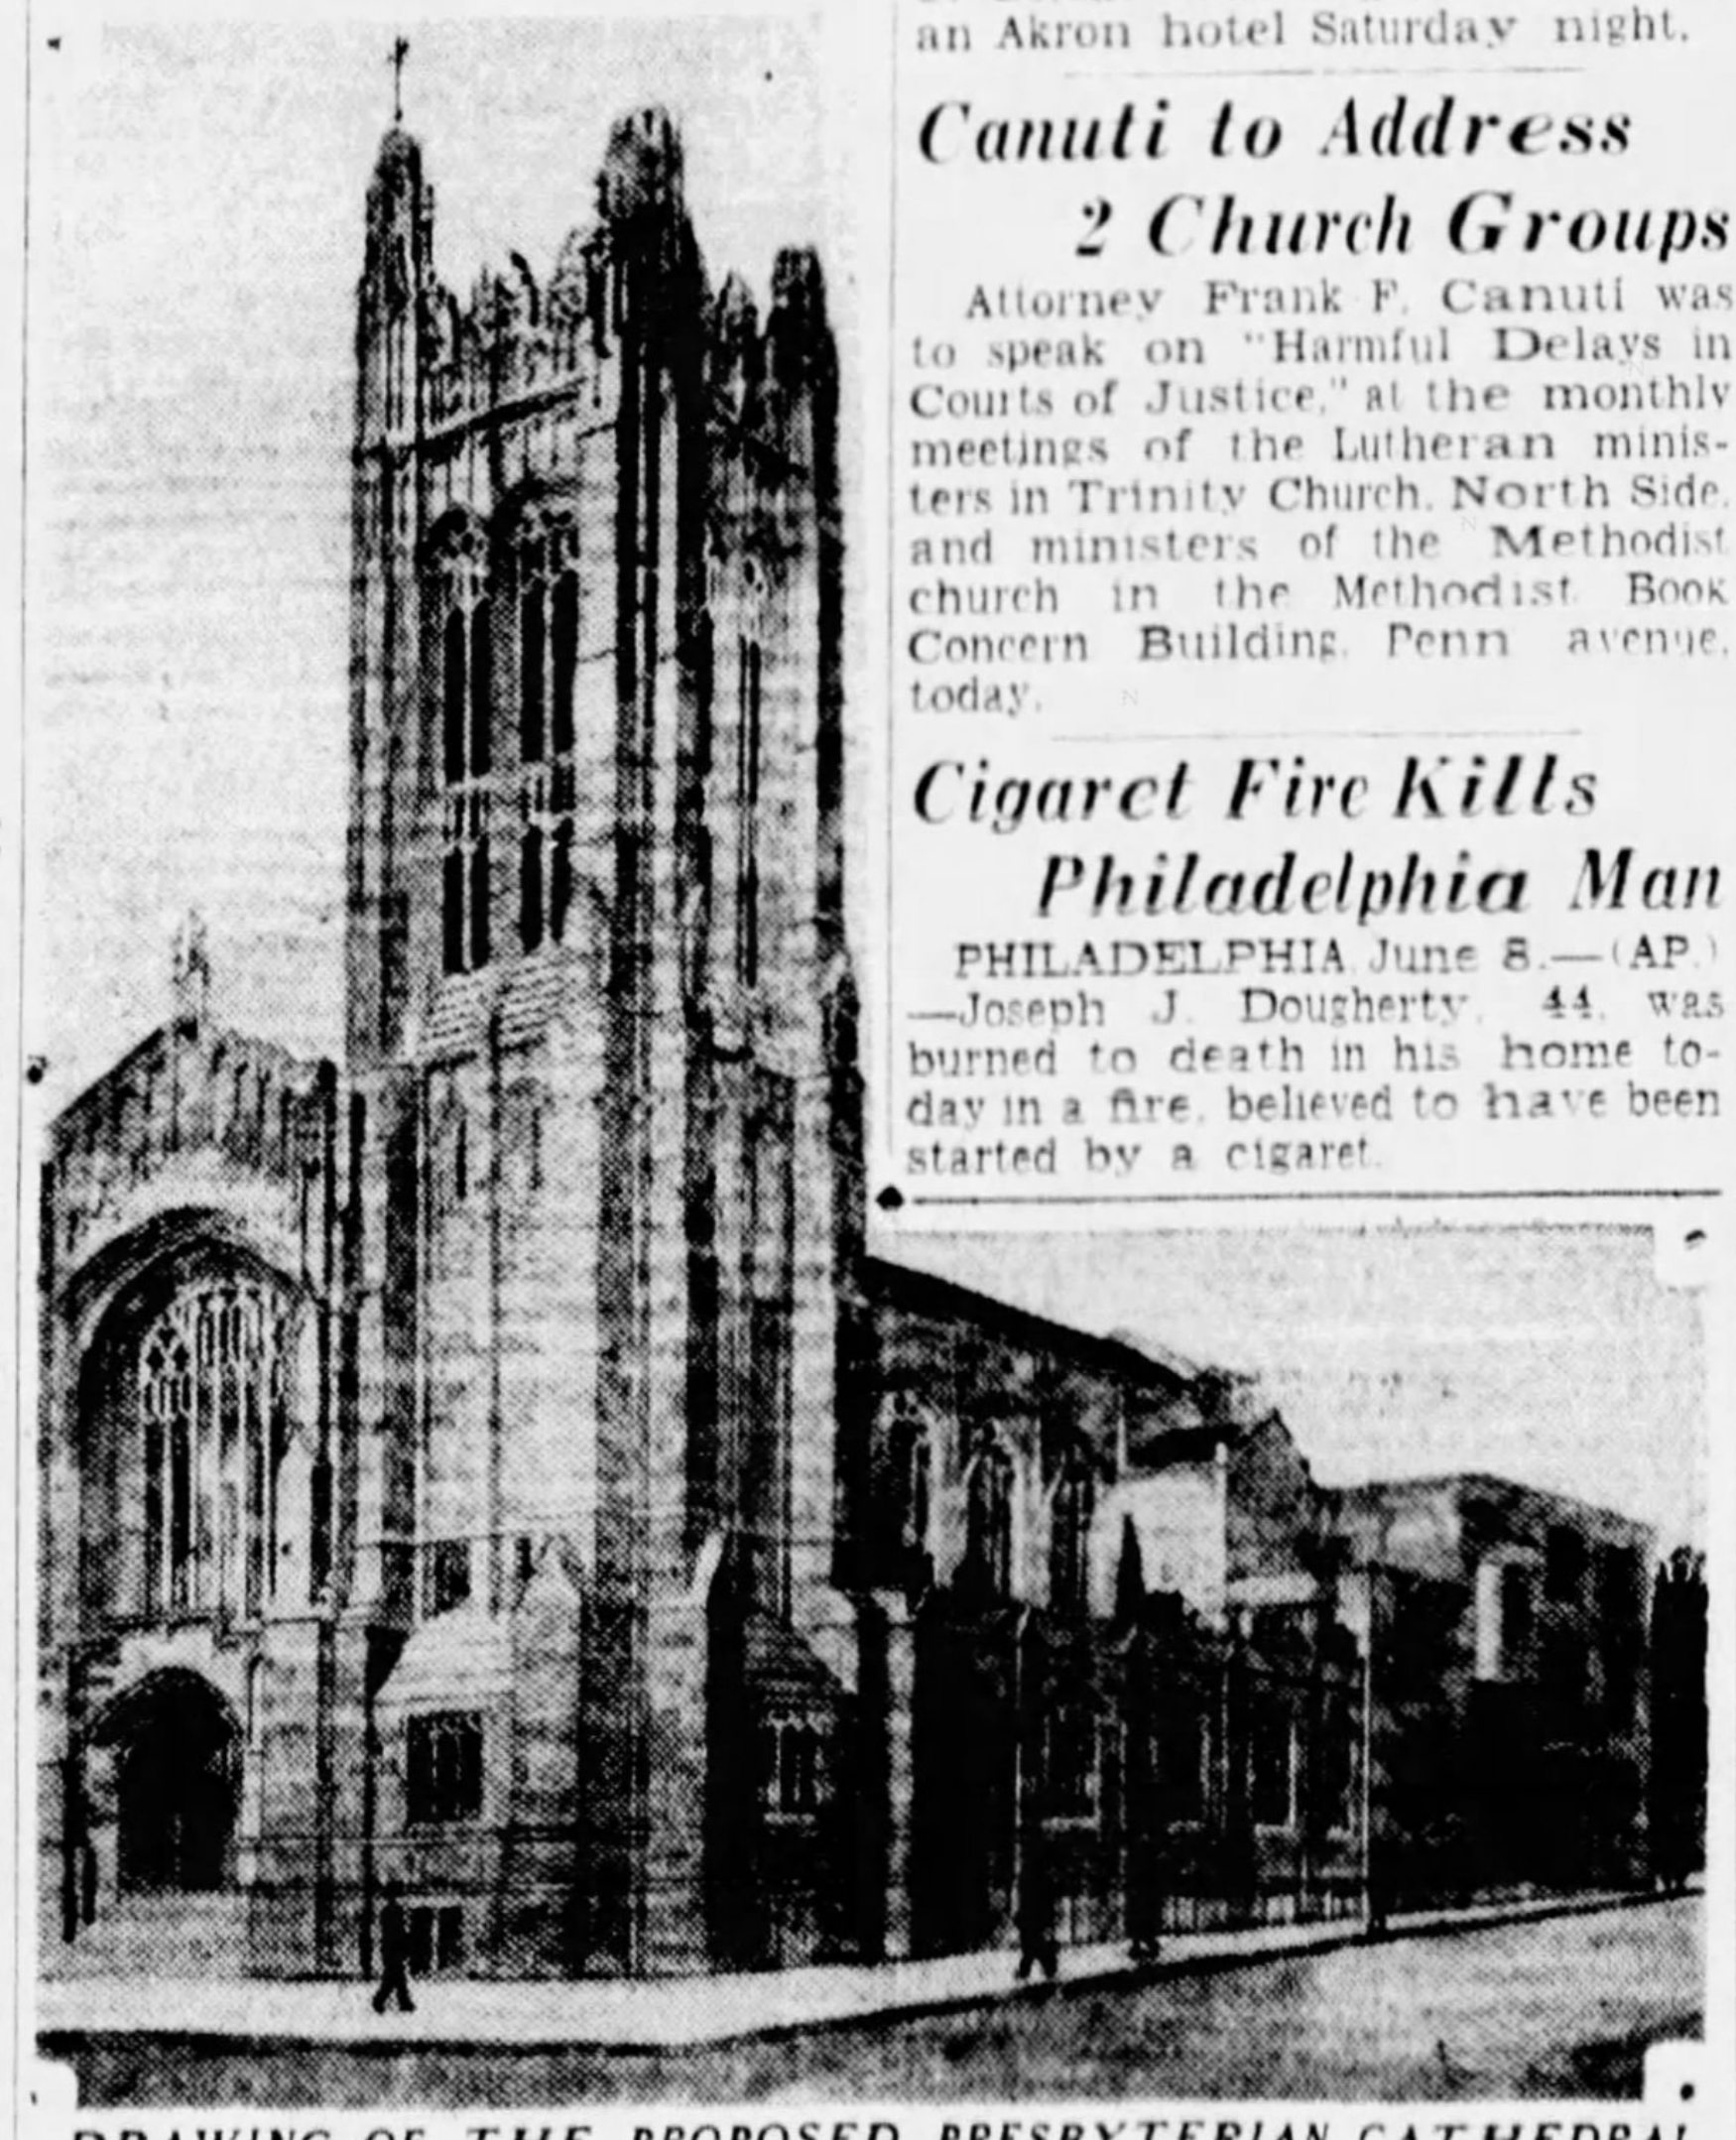
SHELTON GIVES CHURCH PLANS

The Rev. George W. Shelton in a sermon in the Second Presbyterian Church yesterday described for the first time, publicly, the proposed new building to be erected in North avenue, in cooperation with the First and Central churches of Allegheny. It is to be of cathedral type, 90x180 feet, and will seat 1,000.

An assembly hall is also planned and a chapel seating 250. The Sunday School and recreational building will be four stories with provision for children on the first floor; offices for associate minister and religious education director.

The second floor will be for intermediate and junior departments of the Sunday School, and the third will have girls' clubs, classrooms and dining room seating 160. Under the chapel will be a men's lounge, bowling alleys and a gymnasium with balconies.

Projected Church on North Side



DRAWING OF THE PROPOSED PRESBYTERIAN CATHEDRAL

The $1,000,000 Presbyterian Cathedral proposed for erection in North avenue upon the amalgamation of Second Presbyterian Church, First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny and the Central Church. It would have a congregation of 2,000, second in Pittsburgh.

Pitt Sorority Girls Brave Rain, Get Peonies at Show

More than 300 varieties of peonies are on display at the second annual peony flower exhibit which opened at the Schenley Park conservatory yesterday. The flowers represent a cash value of approximately $20,000. This year's collection was donated to the park by Frederick McLain, of Gibsonia. In spite of the showers which kept away many visitors, varieties of the peonies were selected from the display and presented to members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at the University of Pittsburgh who braved the rain.

MURDER TRIALS UNDER WAY

Two murder trials began today in Criminal Court. Three visiting judges are helping the local jurists to handle the week's calendar.

William Flowers, a Negro, of Wylie avenue, who surrendered to police three days ago and asked for a quick trial, was arraigned for the murder of Lemuel Kelley, 38, a Negro, of 2125 Wylie avenue. It is alleged that the two men fought over a drink of moonshine last August and that during the battle Kelley was fatally injured.

Louis Zemler, who recently escaped from the Westmoreland County Jail, only to be captured 24 hours later, went on trial for the killing of William Weddell during the holdup of a barbecue stand in Versailles Township February, 1930. Frank Baskay and Louis Scoratow, indicted with Zemler for the murder, have never been captured.

J. A. COFFEY, WAR AIR VET, DEAD

James Addison Coffey, 40, well-known newspaper circulation man and a World War aviator, died yesterday in the home of his sister, Miss Julia Coffey, 1470 Crafton boulevard, Crafton. At the time of his death Coffey was operator of the Greensburg News Company. During the war he served with the 502nd Aerial Squadron as a first-class sergeant.

For more than 21 years Mr. Coffey was engaged in newspaper circulation work and was associated with several Pittsburgh papers, including the circulation department of the old Pittsburgh Post. For many years he conducted a news agency on the North Side. He was a member of Greensburg Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, and of St. Philip's Catholic Church, Crafton. He leaves four brothers, B. V. Coffey, chief deputy sheriff of Allegheny County; Maurice, John and Daniel Coffey; two sisters, Miss Coffey with whom he made his home, and Mrs. J. C. Manion, all of Pittsburgh.

Doctor Arrested On Check Charge

Charged with having passed worthless checks amounting to $100 on the Fort Pitt Hotel, Dr. Philip Bianchi, 43, of Miami, Fla., was awaiting a hearing in Central Police Court today. He was returned here by City Detective S. J. Gorski following his arrest in an Akron hotel Saturday night.

Cigaret Fire Kills Philadelphia Man

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—(AP.)—Joseph J. Dougherty, 44, was burned to death in his home today in a fire, believed to have been started by a cigaret.

ARRANGE RITES FOR EX-POLICE OFFICIAL

Joseph H. Dye, Former Assistant Superintendent, Dies Following Operation

Arrangements were being made today for the funeral of Joseph H. Dye, court crier and former assistant superintendent of city police. He died yesterday in West Penn Hospital, where he underwent an operation two weeks ago. He retired recently from the police force and became crier in Criminal Court.

He was born in Elizabeth, W. Va., and came to Pittsburgh 32 years ago. He served more than 20 years on the police force, as patrolman, lieutenant, commissioner or inspector and as assistant superintendent. He also was a city detective and a county detective. His home was at 3605 Beechwood boulevard.

He was a member of the Squirrel Hill Methodist Protestant Church, Lodge No. 45, F. & A. M.; Homewood Royal Arch Chapter, No. 297; Duquesne Commandery No. 27, Knights Templar; Pennsylvania Consistory, Syria Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.; No. 11 Lodge B. P. O. Elks and the Odd Fellows.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. May E. Dye; a daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Fitzsimmons; his father, John H. Dye, of Parkersburg, W. Va.; two brothers, John O. Dye and Charles L. Dye, of Pittsburgh, and five sisters, Mrs. Clara E. Roberts, of Parkersburg; Mrs. Nora M. Pearsons, of Elizabeth, W. Va.; Mrs. A. J. Bumgarner, of Uniontown; Mrs. Ora E. Gilmore, of Elizabeth and Mrs. J. S. Haverty, of Washington.

SIX IN PARKED AUTO ROBBED BY GUNMEN

Money and Jewelry Taken From Girls and Escorts Near St. Clair Golf Club.

Highwaymen, who pick parked motorists as victims, brought sawed-off shotguns into play early today as they robbed three young women and their escorts.

The automobile, containing three couples, was parked at the entrance to the St. Clair Country Club. While the two pointed the guns at the party, their companion searched the victims.

The men said they were Elmer Lanning, 4214 Stanley street; F. A. Kallfell, 430 Atlas street, and E. T. Andes, of 430 Atwood street. They said they lost their watches and a small amount of money. The girls refused to give their names.

Police of Allegheny Valley towns were searching for five masked highwaymen who this morning robbed Albert Young, 25, of Tarentum, in the Bakerstown road, near Bull Creek Church. He was ordered from his car and robbed at revolvers' points.

Jeannette Women Distribute Plants

Residents of Jeannette yesterday received thousands of petunia plants, distributed free by committees working under the supervision of the Jeannette Woman's Club. The plants were given to residents who promised to plant and care for them with a view of beautifying the town. Another distribution will be made within 10 days.

THE TASK OF THOUSANDS: REMOVING DEBRIS AT 2700 McCORD STREET, SOAKED HOME

Early Blossoms Of Candidate Crop Soon Fade

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Three prominent men boomed for President last week. And they are still prominent.

The life of a summer presidential bubble is about from here to there. But Senator Ham Lewis, of Illinois, accepted the nomination, took a bow and came up with seaweed in his hair.

Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, is another strong contender for the early June peas. He is a wet and hopes to do as well as Al Smith. He can do that and still lose.

Gov. Roosevelt leads all the boys in the premature explosions. It's all for the good of the party and the party is doing bad.

The Republicans, who have nothing at all to do with it, seem to think that Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, will cop the light summer verdict.

TONS OF EARTH, ROCK CRASH IN SLIDE

Boulders Wreck Parked Car, Injure Boys: Roofs Ripped, Inch and Half Rain Falls

Street car traffic was paralyzed in parts of the city, hillsides were washed into several streets, an automobile was wrecked and two children were injured as a result of the heavy rain storms which struck the Pittsburgh district yesterday and Saturday. From 10 o'clock Saturday night until 10 o'clock last night the precipitation was 1.52 inches, extremely heavy for the period.

Tons of rock and earth, dislodged by the heavy downpour yesterday afternoon, fell from the hillside in the 3200 block of Arlington avenue, the boulders wrecking an automobile parked across the street.

2 CHILDREN HURT

Howard Williams, 4, of 3213 Arlington avenue, and Anthony Carlins, 5, of 3146 Arlington avenue, were slightly injured as the debris swept across the street.

The automobile was owned by Jack Carlins, father of one of the injured boys, and who had just returned from taking the children for a ride. As the cliff broke and the rocks rolled down, the boys ran toward the car and were caught, thrown down and partly covered by the earth and stones.

The children were picked up and taken to South Side Hospital for treatment.

Traffic was blocked on Arlington avenue for several hours.

TRAFFIC DELAYS

Street car traffic was delayed on Second avenue, Hazelwood, when dirt washed from connecting streets, covered the tracks.

Traffic was halted at Forbes and Brady streets during the afternoon when water backed up from a sewer. Another flood occurred in the 3300 block of Shady avenue, where deep water collected in the street.

Water flooded into the kitchen of the home of Frank Zaminski, at 2700 McCord street. A clogged sewer was blamed for the flood.

The elevators of the new East Liberty Police Station, at Broad street and Euclid avenue, were stopped when water flowed into the elevator pits. The outlets were said to be too small to take care of the heavy flow of water.

ROOFS RIPPED BY WIND

Damage estimated at $5,000 resulted when a strong wind, during a downpour of rain, blew the roof from the lumber shed at the United States Sanitary Manufacturing Company plant at Monaca. Several houses near the plant were damaged and telephone and electric wires were broken by flying timber, police reported.

Saturday night the wind ripped off the roof of a porch on a building in the rear of 408 Eighth avenue, West Homestead, hurling the timbers through the roof of the one-story real estate office of J. M. Bean, in front.

Sewers were flooded and traffic halted at Lacock and Anderson street on the North Side, in several streets in Beltzhoover and in Spring Hill. Traffic also was halted on Braddock avenue and Lemmington avenue, East End, and in Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh.

LIGHTNING FELLS TREE

Little damage was done in the district by the lightning Saturday night. A tree was struck at Center and Herron avenues, and fell across light wires. No one was injured. For a short time the lightning was almost continuous, accompanied by claps of thunder.

Lightning which struck a transformer at Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, plunged the city in darkness for nearly an hour last night, according to police.

INDIFFERENCE BLAMED FOR CRIME REIGN

Pleasure-Seeking Citizens Held Responsible for Conditions by Pennington

A money-making, pleasure-seeking public was charged with responsibility for the present reign of lawlessness by Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, who spoke last night in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. He said:

"Wherever the underworld exists and dominates, it is because too large a part of the upper world is indifferent. In a word, these indifferent citizens are responsible for the present reign of lawlessness. They are too immersed in money-making, pleasure-seeking or party worship to suppress this serious menace to orderly government."

THE REAL TEST

The real test of prohibition enforcement lies in the capacity and willingness of citizens to demand and secure enforcement from local authorities, according to Commander Pennington. He said:

"Too much prohibition agitation has been focused on Washington and federal power; too little directed to educating and creating a sentiment to be centered on local and state authorities."

COURTS CROWDED

Crowded court calendars in almost every eastern court offers the criminal an easy avenue of escape, said Commander Pennington, who continued:

"The probability of acquittal or nol prossing increases with delayed action in courts and no one can recognize this broad thoroughfare to freedom with more clearness and rapidity than the criminal and his attorney. To delay or defeat this orderly procedure of the courts is a 'racket' remarkably well organized."

The federal government and the governments of the states and communities have a joint obligation to enforce the law, Commander Pennington said. He declared:

"The only hope of successful and adequate enforcement lies in the recognition of this division of responsibility and power."

CITY HALL 'INN' GUESTS STAY

While county officials seek ways and means of ousting her from the Old City Hall, Mrs. Helen Uptegraff, 60, and her "family" of unemployed girls continue to hold forth at the "Working Girls' Inn." Taking time from serving her girls breakfast of coffee and bread this morning, Mrs. Uptegraff said:

"I am still here. We will be taken care of."

Besides Mrs. Uptegraff and a helper, there were only three guests at the "Inn." Four others had left to hunt work, Mrs. Uptegraff said.

The three girls chatted about lack of work and the "fine view of the city from the top of Old City Hall." Margaret, 23, who recently arrived from Greenbay, Wis., said of her job hunt:

"If walking will make you beautiful, I'll be able to take Gloria Swanson's place in another day."

2 KILLED, MANY HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

Hitch-Hiker Among Victims As Traffic Mishaps Over Week-End Take Big Toll

A Pittsburgh man was killed at Johnstown and another man was killed at Freedom in automobile accidents over the weekend. Francis D. Mort, 24, of 206 Marlow street, Elliott, was killed late Saturday when a truck he was driving for a Pittsburgh concern ran wild, hit a barbecue stand and plunged down a hillside. His assistant, Kenneth Bracker, 20, of 202 Marlow street, and two hitch-hikers, Frank Hagan, 22, and James Page, 21, of New York, were injured.

Lewis Buttes, 23, Negro, of Fifteenth street, Ambridge, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was riding struck a pole near Freedom. James Garfield, Jr., 21, of Ambridge, driver of the machine, was arrested.

Annabelle Brickner, 17, of 126 Knox avenue, was removed to the South Side Hospital this morning after she had been injured when an automobile in which she was riding overturned in the Becks Run road near Walters avenue. She suffered concussion of the brain.

When an automobile in which they were riding skidded and crashed against a parked machine in Library road, Overbrook, two women and a girl were injured. Mrs. Agnes Stein, 35, of 525 Lincoln avenue, driver of the car, suffered bruises. Mrs. H. Maier, 39, of 421 North Beatty street, and her daughter, Patricia, 14, sustained lacerations and bruises. Mrs. Maier is in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Suffering a probable fracture of the skull when an automobile in which she was riding collided with another car at Frew street and Schenley Park drive yesterday, Mary Lake, 16, of 302 West North avenue, is in Homeopathic Hospital today.

Knife Fray Victim Found in Road, Held

Jimmy Murphy, Springdale, was held by police for questioning in connection with an alleged cutting affray at Acmetonia early today.

Slashed about the chest and arms, the man was found wandering along the highway. Police say he engaged in a fight with two others at the intersectio Freeport and Russelton road.

On Knowing Your Victuals

ALTHOUGH we've been in the food business for nearly three-quarters of a century, we've never seen so many people worked up over victuals as they are right now.

Truly, it seems as if every newspaper, magazine, and radio station in the country is being conducted for the sole purpose of teaching the American woman how to buy wisely, cook wisely, and eat wisely. Bureaus and Committees by the hundred vie with one another to show housewives how to get their money's worth from the grocer and the butcher.

All of which is highly satisfactory, so far as we are concerned. The more women know about food, and the shrewder buyers they are, the more customers A & P will have.

For A & P is run for women who are keen judges of food, who know food values when they see them. A & P stores are for women who make a business of running their households well at low expense—and are proud of it.

WESTERNS AGAIN -:- Old Actor With New Name Signed for Hero Role -:- AMUSEMENTS -:- Films Dominate Current Theater Attractions

George Duryea Gets Another Chance at Performing Before Cameras

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright 1931 by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.

After a long uphill battle for recognition, George Duryea seems to be getting started on a substantial film career.

He has been signed to a long term contract at Pathe to appear in a series of westerns. Strangely enough, this is the lot that introduced him into pictures when Cecil B. De Mille cast him opposite Lina Basquette in "The Godless Girl."

Although none of the vehicles have been selected Pathe promises they are to be the old-fashioned action melodramas. These the studio maintains always find a place with the small-town exhibitor enough to make them a profitable investment even if the key cities scorn them.

Cecil B. De Mille

Like Rex Bell, who is really George Belden Duryea is to have another name to comply with his new contract and type of pictures. This is in the same status as the stories and has not been decided upon as yet.

A SUGGESTION

Eddie Quillan, who seems to know everything that goes on around Pathe, heard about the proposed change of name for Duryea.

After some thought the comedian phoned an executive and said:

"Why don't you call him 'Buck Board?'"

LATEST GOSSIP

If Richard Dix's contract difficulties at Radio are not settled soon the star plans to go to Europe until an agreement is reached. In the meantime Fox and United Artists are said to have made attractive offers . . . Nancy Carroll and Jack Kirkland's contemplated divorce came as a surprise to many in Hollywood. It was only a few months ago that Nancy, with a seven-day vacation, journeyed from New York here in order to ride back with her husband . . . Maybe Jeanette MacDonald and Robert Richie were joking when they announced June 9 as their wedding date. At any rate Richie has gone East and the nuptials are now in that indefinite date class . . . For the second time in as many pictures Will Rogers is back in a tuxedo for scenes in "The Plutocrat." The funny part about it is that Will seems to enjoy wearing the dress clothes which are supposed to have always been so distasteful to him . . . Anna May Wong is one who cannot become intrigued about the new pajama fad. She has been wearing various brocaded varieties since she was 12 . . . If Phillips Holmes craves recognition from the local public he will have to dispense with his sealyham terrier. Recently he walked into a cat and dog hospital with the dog on leash and found a waiting room filled with people holding ailing pets. They immediately circled around his dog and didn't even ask for an autograph . . . Everything points to Mary Brian becoming a Universal player as soon as Junior Laemmle returns from New York and prepares the papers. She is now at U playing a lead in "The Homicide Squad," which features Leo Carrillo. Her contract with Paramount will lapse during the making of this picture and Universal will be ethically free to talk business with her.

Nancy Carroll

APPROPRIATELY ENOUGH

Glancing through a "Who's Who" of filmdom one discovers that Jay Joiner is a cutter; Jack Yellen writes dialogue; Upton Close juggles many close-ups as a film editor; and Arthur Lenz is a cameraman.

There's also Edward Sloman and John Stahl but in each case they are fast working directors.

GLORIFYING HOLLYWOOD

About once a year some studio produces a picture pertaining to it's own craft and to the general points of interest in the film colony.

Such is the story that Radio plans to release as "The Miracle City" on their new program. Originally it was to be known as "Hollywood Passional," but objections overruled the title.

Howard Estabrook has written the original story and Mary Astor is to be the star. Roscoe Ates is the only other member of the cast chosen so far.

No doubt before the picture is finished it will contain a long list of celebrities as this type of film usually ends up with most of the notables appearing at some restaurant or function.

Pittsburgh District Women Sail Abroad

NEW YORK, June 8.—Miss Agnes Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, of 9 Mawhinney street, Oakland, Pittsburgh, has sailed for Europe in the Transylvania, bound for Londonderry and Glasgow.

Another passenger was Mrs. Elizabeth Buist, 467 Fourth avenue, New Kensington, who is going to Scotland to visit her mother.

Waynesburg College Exercises Begin

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 8.—The eighty-first annual commencement at Waynesburg College opened last night with baccalaureate services in Waynesburg Presbyterian Church. Dr. William Robertson Farmer, of the faculty of Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh, delivered the sermon.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 8.—Formal opening of the new Waynesburg postoffice here Saturday was attended by hundreds of persons. Congressman Henry Temple, Washington, posted the first piece of mail at the new structure.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

According to the publicity department concerned with the exploitation of Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld's "Follies," Ruth Etting, who is featured in the new show, didn't raise her ambition to be an actress. She let it run in the direction of stage costume designing. Then look at what contact did! She up and asked a manager if she could have a position in the chorus, and he didn't want any argument, so he said "yes." So she jumped right into the leading man's shoes and made good. No, smarty, not leading woman—leading MAN. He got sick without giving notice of his intention and they had to have somebody. And who do you suppose had been hanging around learning his songs? Ruth Etting, of course! Now you tell one.

"Follies" has its premiere in the Nixon today week, June 15, by your calendar.

* * *

Small Timer, who is funniest when he tries not to be, says the movie scream has the advantage of living actors because it doesn't get annoyed or flustered by persons in the audience talking.

* * *

Leneta Lane, who was one of Mr. George Sharp's hired hands in the season that just took a walk, has been signed for the movies, and she will have her first talker opportunity in "Murder by the Clock," a Paramount crime. Her Pittsburgh friends will hope she makes goods as a time-killer. Hugh Banks, by the way, is a Buffalo stocker now.

* * *

Small Timer says that if travel broadens a person he knows a woman who has been around the world three times.

* * *

"Melody of the Heart," a German musical photoplay romance, featuring Dita Parlo, now in Hollywood, opens in the Pitt today. There will be two shows daily.

Small Timer says his idea of a real efficiency expert is not one who has his suit pressed while he takes a bath, but one who would invent a machine to brush his teeth and shoes at the same time.

Fisherman Drowns, Companion Escapes

HINTON, W. Va., June 8.—(AP.)—Handicapped by heavy hip boots, Warwick Matthews, 32, of Sprague, Raleigh County, was drowned in the New River at Junta, near here, yesterday and G. B. Griffiths, also of Sprague, narrowly escaped a similar fate when they were swept off their feet by the current of the river while wading out to some trout lines.

Pittsburgh Knights To Aid Wilkinsburg

Several commanderies of Knights Templar from the Pittsburgh district will help members of Lincoln Commandery No. 91, of Wilkinsburg, celebrate their tenth anniversary with services in Calvary Lutheran Church, Wilkinsburg, Sunday night. A parade will precede the church services at which the Rev. Luther A. Krouse, pastor, will preach.

Don't run chances of dangerous, painful troubles from acidity. Get ACIDINE today and note quick relief from sourness, pain and belching. You can eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

ACIDINE

Of course I've switched to CAMELS

You don't have to look beyond your own intimate circle to realize what has happened.

Everywhere you see evidence of a great country-wide switch to Camels.

That is because the new Humidor Pack performs a real new service for the smoker.

Throughout the nation, literally millions of people have found by actual test that the new air-sealed, sanitary package of moisture-proof Cellophane not only keeps out dust and germs, but also keeps in the rich, mild flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

To show their real appreciation of the Humidor Pack Camel smokers from all parts of the country write letters telling the advantages of this scientific new wrapping.

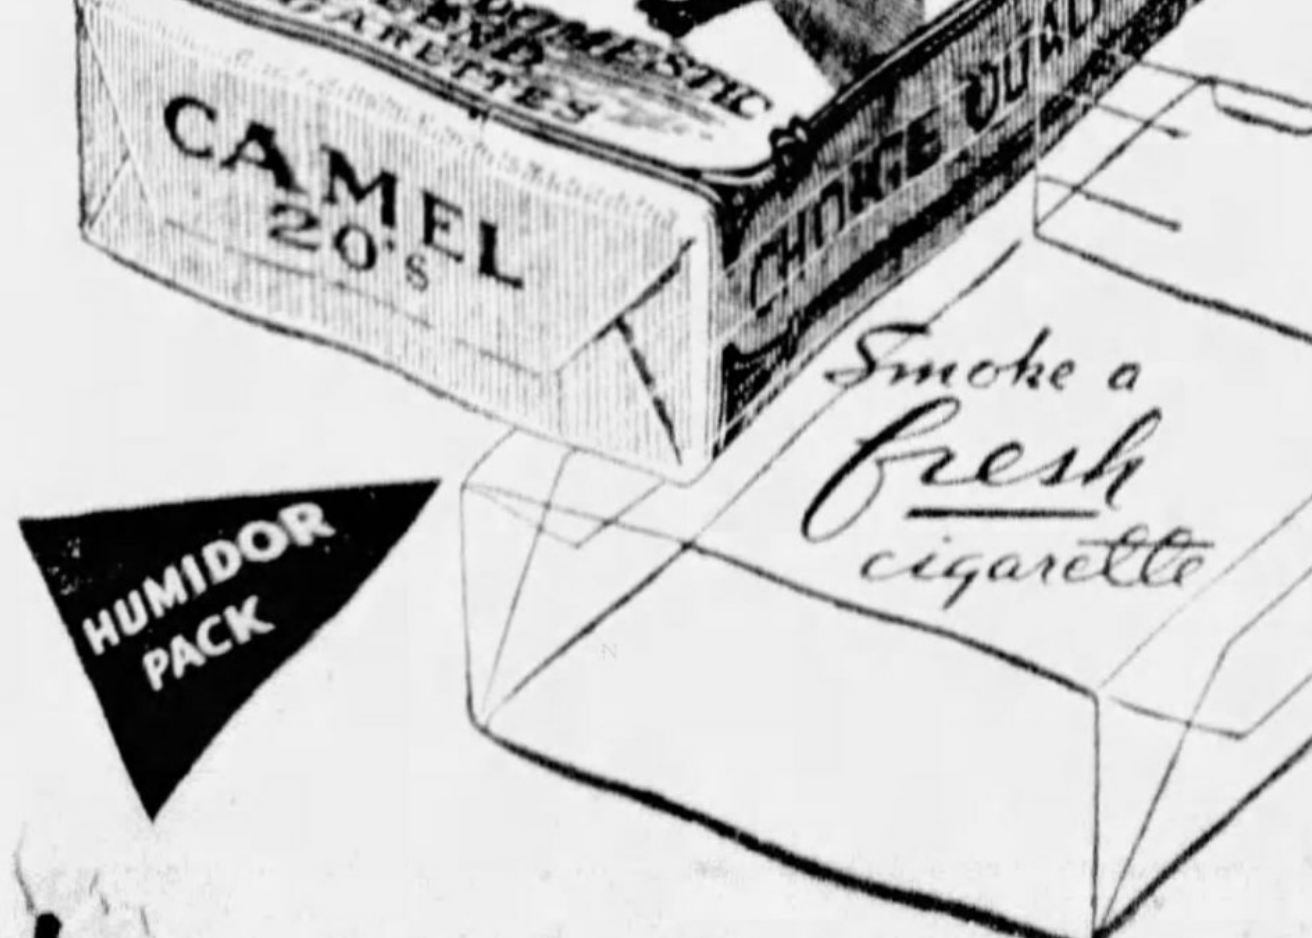
Women tell us they carry Camels in the Humidor Pack in their handbags without having them absorb powder and perfume odors. Workingmen say this moisture-proof wrapping protects their cigarettes from perspiration and pocket dust. Sailors are enthusiastic because the damp salt air does not reach Humidor-packed Camels.

All real benefits of course, but the chief fact that is causing this great nation-wide swing to Camels is the protection which this air-sealed wrapping gives to the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

No peppery dust to irritate the membrane; no dried-out tobacco to burn the tongue or sear the throat. Just the fresh, cool mildness of perfectly conditioned tobacco.

Switch to Camels for one day, then quit them—if you can.

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons Columbia Broadcasting System—every night except Sunday



CAMELS

NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE

● Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one

On Broadway

Things I Never Knew Until Now

(And you probably didn't either!)

That 86% of the money received by the movies comes from the small towns. (Business of thumbing the nose at New Yorkers, etc.)

That Wallace Beery, the he-est man of the commotion pictures, started his chin-ema career as a femme impersonator. Swish!

That if you do not think that these are the Good Old Days, howja like to know that at one time lazy people were put to death?

That the expression "cool as a cucumber" is said to come from the fact that a cucumber is 1% cooler in temperature than its surrounding atmosphere. (Isn't it amazing how he gets away with such stuff?)

That Amos 'n' Andy (who were once known as Sam 'n' Henry) used to sing harmonious duets before they gave themselves up.

That the gayest blade on Broadway with endless pep (he Charlestons in cafes without warning) is Alexander Mott, 76.

That the $ you pay in cabarets for ginger ale costs them 6c.

That strenuous labor in hot weather is fine for some people. The facial perspiration cures oily skins and blackheads.

That P. T. Barnum's biggest attraction, Tom Thumb, got $50 per.

That returning tourists nabbed with a flask on the hip are excused. But two flasks and you'd better call your attorney.

That iron and steel are not solids. (Oh, you wanna bet, eh?)

That Jean Bernadotte, founder of the Swedish royal family, started his career as an obscure soldier in the French army.

That the gold on your book-edge is 23 karat real gold.

That the Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal are where native Indians are penalized. At one time the islands held 14,000 murderers.

That the tiger will not eat an animal not killed by himself.

That among other ironies is that the French hate Germany, yet the name France is from the Franks, an early German tribe.

That automatic pistols neither smoke nor flame when fired.

That Funk & Wagnalls' dictionary still defines "sucker" as a greenhorn, a dolt, a foolish fellow. A sucker must be smart enough to have coin!

That in Germany every radio owner is taxed 50c per annum.

That in 1884 Allan Pinkerton, in "Thirty Years a Detective," used "racket" this way: "The green goods swindle is the boss racket of the confidence game." But "racket" is usually considered modern slang.

That Eugene Walter, who hasn't peddled a play for 10 years, now offers lessons on how to write 'em and sell 'em.

That the first Colonial blood in the Revolution was shed at approximately where 122 William St. now stands.

That after a careful survey, prominent "sweets" firms learned that men predominate as candy buyers. Fency thet!

That if you believe all you hear, then all those jewels worn by Adele Astaire at the "Band Wagon" premiere were lent by friends.

That stone dust is what makes most mineral waters fizz.

That a Baltimore prohibitionist is tagged James Drinks.

That among the legends is that a newspaper owner offered a tabloid 5 Gs for the photo of Ruth Snyder (in the chair) so it wouldn't be published.

That on 41st St., between 3d and Lexington Aves., N. Y. C., a lonely blacksmith shop is surrounded by seven garages.

That a nut has started a rumor that Jackie Cooper is a dwarf and that he is "30 years old." S'lie! Incidentally, the report that he is an adopted son of Jack Coogan, Sr., is also silleh.

That the Pathfinder has just discovered that nobody will take your last cigaret but everybody will take your last dollar.

That the same fingers with which Dame Fortune used to pat your head are later used for slapping your face.

That the name of Portland, Ore., was decided by the flipping of a coin. It was almost christened Boston. (What, two of 'em?)

That Brazil uses alcohol as a substitute for gasoline.

That the stone above the grave of Lieut. William A. Stuart in Arlington Cemetery bears a caricature of Satan thumbing his nose downward.

That they are saying one of three show-partners of a new production sold apples on a corner here six months ago!

That we have just discovered a new way to start a stalled Austin. Only self-addressed and stamped envelopes will rate the reply. (Tee, hee.)

And that that Elinson feller says the reason the French barred Texas Guinan was that they feared the competition of Tex and her gals would have given their naughty postcard business.

RABBIT SEES OLD GAME COMING BACK

STRANGELY ENOUGH, THE highest praise yet given to the new baseball comes from one of the players whom it has hurt most. As one of the smallest men, physically, in the major leagues, Rabbit Maranville might be expected to favor the lively ball formerly in use, inasmuch as it tended to make the little fellows look like real hitters and helped their batting averages more than it helped those of the established sluggers. There are some pastimers who don't like the changed sphere because it means a reduction in their hitting marks. They don't relish the prospect of losing the ranking of .300 clouters, even though that ranking was in many instances a false one.

Rabbit Maranville

But Maranville is not constructed along selfish lines, apparently, and is able to see beyond his own batting record. He does not hesitate to pronounce the new ball a huge success, and says it has done a world of good for the game by bringing back scientific baseball to replace the burlesque slugging of recent seasons.

BEFORE LEAVING PITTSBURGH at the conclusion of the Braves' series at Forbes Field last week the Rabbit called attention to the fact that every one of the four games had been hard fought, exciting and featured by smart and scientific play, and he attributed this to the less lively ball. He thinks it is making baseball again what it was 15 years ago.

"Those games recalled the good old days," the little star declared. "It has been a long time since the fans saw so much scientific stuff in a series. The clubs are working the squeeze play again, they have revived base stealing and sacrifice hitting, they're playing for one run, and the main idea no longer is to try to knock every pitch out of the lot and to play for runs in big clusters. The new ball has done away with that business, and it's a great thing for the game. Real baseball has come back."

THE HIGH QUALITY of the Pirate pitching these days is shown by the fact that though the Buccaneers scored only 12 runs during all of last week, the lowest total in the majors, they were able to get an even break in the six games played.

Pittsburgh's club batting average is the lowest in either of the big circuits, and it isn't hard to figure where there has got to be a big brace if the Rovers are to improve their position. The pitchers can't be expected to do it all.

LEADERS IN THE National League pennant chase only nine days ago, the Giants have dropped to third place and are only five games ahead of the Pirates in the sixth hole. The McGrawmen, who have now lost four games in a row, have won only one contest out of six since starting on their western trip, and of their last 11 games they have lost nine. The A's and Cards have been the only consistent clubs of the year. The Mackmen have been defeated only four times in their last 29 games.

Rube Marquard

ANOTHER FORMER MAJOR league star to turn umpire is Rube Marquard, once famous southpaw, who won 19 straight games for the Giants in 1912 and who gained a place in Pittsburgh baseball history by defeating Babe Adams 3 to 1 in 21 innings at Forbes Field on July 17, 1914, the longest game ever played in this city.

Marquard, out of work after losing his post as manager of the Jacksonville club, has been appointed a member of the umpiring staff of the Eastern League, and hopes to land a similar berth in the big show. The Eastern League appointment was obtained for him by Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, who developed him as a pitcher.

ONE THING THAT must always be said for McGraw is that he is ever willing to lend a helping hand to old ball players in need of assistance. He employed Amos Rusie at the Polo Grounds for a long time, and now has two other stars of the old days working there.

These two are Dan Brouthers, one of the greatest hitters of his time, and Mickey Welch, who pitched for the Giants when they won the world championship in 1888 and 1889. Both have passed the 70-year mark but are in splendid health.

BROUTHERS SIGHS WHEN he sees pop flies going into close stands for home runs. "I made many a home run on the Polo Grounds and had to run around the bases to beat the ball from the outfield," he recalled. "I was with Detroit, Boston and Brooklyn, and then Brooklyn traded Willie Keeler and myself to Baltimore. When Ed Hanlon talked contract with me he asked about Keeler. I told him that Willie had been playing third base, though he was a lefthanded thrower, but that he ought to be sent to the outfield. That's where Hanlon placed him and Willie became the most scientific hitter in baseball. John McGraw was the Baltimore lead-off man, with Keeler following him, and they invented the hit-and-run game which later was copied by the Bostons. None of us ever knew the signs that McGraw and Keeler used. Whenever McGraw reached first, Keeler almost invariably put him on third with a hit to right field, a trick that puzzled the other teams for a long time."

DID YOU EVER hear of a boxer paying to see himself fight? Well, it actually happened in Detroit the other night. The man to do the Ripley was Clayton Stenger, former amateur lightweight champion of Michigan, who bought a 50-cent ticket to witness a small-time show at Carpathia Hall.

Before the evening was over, Stenger was asked to give up his seat and enter the ring for one of the bouts as a substitute for Jackie Lantz, of St. Louis, who was unable to go on. Stenger beat Joe Sully in every one of the eight rounds. He received $15 for his services, a net profit of $14.50 for the night, but the fact remains that he paid to see his own fight.

OUT ON THE Pacific Coast they're looking for another "race of the century" if a proposed three-cornered 100-yard dash materializes at a night track meet to be held in Los Angeles this month. The starting sprinters are to be Frank Wykoff, Eddie Tolan and Percy Williams.

Percy Williams

Tolan's mark of 9.5 seconds still is recognized as the world record. Wykoff has done the distance twice in 9 2-5, which will come up for acceptance when the International Amateur Federation holds its next meeting in 1932. Williams was a hero of the last Olympic games, winning both the century and the 220 for Canada.

COMPETITION AMONG THE three has fairly sizzled. Both Tolan and Williams hold decisions over Wykoff. Williams defeated the Californian in the 100 at Amsterdam, and Tolan beat Wykoff to the tape over the same distance in the A. A. U. championships at Denver in 1929. Later in the same year, Williams trimmed both of the others in Vancouver. Wykoff turned the tables on Tolan in the national collegiates at Chicago last year, defeated him again in the recent I. C. 4-A meet at Philadelphia and once more in the national collegiates at Chicago last Saturday. Tolan defeated Williams at 100 meters at Vancouver by doing 10 1-5, world record time, but Wykoff has yet to score a victory over the Canadian. With the three in top form and bent on settling the argument, the Los Angeles race, if it comes off, ought to be a history-maker.

Total Yardage—6965 Par 72

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The one man who should be more familiar with each blade of grass, every bunker and the touch of the greens at the difficult championship links at the Oakmont Country Club, Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, veteran green keeper and professional at the Hulton course, today set a fast pace through a heavy rain to take the lead in the first round of the 36-hole sectional qualifying round for the national open championship, which is to be played at Inverness, in Toledo, July 2-4.

KNOX YOUNK, JR., SECOND

Loeffler scored brilliantly to go one more than par for a splendid 73. With more than half of the field finished in the first round of the test, which will decide which eight out of a field of 91 will travel to Toledo, he was ahead of his nearest competitor, Knox M. Young, Jr., 21-year-old Highland amateur, by four strokes. These were the only two to break 80.

In making his 77, Young pulled a real score out of his bag on the inward nine, negotiating that difficult test in 37, only two more than par. Had it not been for a buzzard 7 on the par 4 third, where he took two to get out of a sand trap and then, on the green, barely got down with his third stroke, Knox would have been close to par figures going out. He dropped a nice putt for a birdie 2 on the thirteenth.

ZIMMERMAN RALLIES

Nelson Zimmerman, Wildwood's popular pro, accomplished one of those things that happens only once in a lifetime at Oakmont. He was out in 42, and prospects were anything but bright for him because he was hitting the ball poorly at the turn. With a 6 on the ninth, he went over par twice for a pair of 5s on the tenth and eleventh holes, and blew up entirely for a big 8 on the twelfth, where he bunkered his tee shot, missed a niblick out-shot, and then topped a spoon, not to say anything nice about a perfectly easy putt that refused to go down.

With everything against him at this point, Nelson tightened up and got three birdies as he finished with a spectacular 4-3-4-2-3-4 on the last six holes for his 38, and an even 80 score. The bardies were on Nos. 14, 16 and 17.

SEVERAL TIED AT 80

Nelson Zimmerman, of Wildwood; Dave McKay, of the Field Club; George Underwood, of Alcoma, and J. Monro Hunter, of Silver Spring, Md., one of the longest drivers in all golf, registered 80s.

Little Perry Del Vecchio, a threat in any golf competition, suffered a real blow on the homeward nine after he went out in 35, two under par. The Greensburg pro took all of 46 on the return trip for an 81.

The scores:

Ernest G. Jacob, Castle Shannon 43-43—86
William F. Pierce, Indiana 46-45—91
Paul E. Erath, Edgewood 45-42—87
T. J. Jamison, Jr., Greensburg 43-41—84
Ken Rutherford, Indiana 39-47—86
E. N. Thompson, Ellwood City 47-43—90
Dave McKay, Field Club 42-38—80
Perry DelVecchio, Greensburg 35-46—81
Emil F. Loeffler, Oakmont 37-36—73

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: A PITCHER CAN PITCH AN ENTIRE GAME WITHOUT THROWING A BALL—An umpire, in accordance with Section 2 of Rule 30, can call a ball for every 20 seconds in which the pitcher does not deliver the ball. This goes on until four balls are called on the batsman and he takes his base. With the runner on first the pitcher pretends to throw to first and the runner takes second, in accordance with Section 6 of Rule 31. The pitcher balks in the same way to second and third, a run being scored. The second batsman up is declared out for changing boxes when in batting position, in accordance with Section 10 of Rule 44. The third man up is declared out for failure to step up one minute after being called—Rule 44, Section 2—and the fourth man up is out for not taking his proper turn in batting order, per Rule 44, Section 1. This procedure is followed for the entire nine innings, the opposition failing to score in four innings and in five of the innings the pitcher allowing runs to be made. Such a game, of course, is purely hypothetical and never really would happen in a game, but is correct according to the rules of baseball. THE GIANT SKULL—From the measurements of the giant skull at the Museum of Keswick, Cumberland County, England, the stature of the giant must have been in excess of 10 feet, or about the height of the Philistine Goliath.

GOLFERS SEEK OPEN PLACES

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP.)—More than 1,000 golfers from one seaboard to the other today will play 36 holes of medal play golf in 20 widely scattered districts in the hope of gaining one of the 97 vacant places in the national open championship. The open will be played at the Inverness Club, Toledo, O., starting July 2.

The open is limited to a starting field of 150 players. This year exemptions from qualifying round play have been granted to 53 players, leaving 97 to be competed for in the nation-wide qualifying round tomorrow.

The exemptions were granted to the 31 players who finished in the first 30 and ties in the open at Interlachen last year; to various foreign players, and to several American professionals who competed in the British open at Carnoustie.

Here's the way the 1,097 entrants are split up:

Bill Tilden Again Defeats Kozeluh

RYE, N. Y., June 8.—(AP.)—In their first meeting on turf courts, Big Bill Tilden defeated Karel Kozeluh, Czecho-Slovakian professional ace, 6-3, 7-5, in a charity exhibition at the Westchester Country Club yesterday.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Good turnover boxers are about as rare as good turnover hitters in baseball, and every bit as greatly feared . . . Which leads up to a tale of a clever trick one Benny Ray, of Detroit, veteran manager of boxers and matchmaker, planned to execute at the expense of Young Corbett, California's famous southpaw welterweight ace, whose offside stance has prevented him from getting a chance at the title in his class . . . Corbett, it will be remembered, spent his early boyhood in Pittsburgh and is managed by an uncle who formerly boxed around here under the name of Young Manfredo.

Ray is here with Jackie Brady, the Syracuse welterweight, who meets Baby Joe Gans in the windup at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight. . . . In singing the praises of his stocky battler, Benny related how it had been necessary for Jackie, a natural southpaw, to become an orthodox battler in order to get work in his profession. . . . Few mittmen want to take on lefthanders when there is other cannon fodder in sight. . . . Well, the upshot has been that Brady now is strictly a righthanded fighter, and a good, tough one, but he still can turn around and fight southpaw when he has to, in a pinch, and he has lost none of his effectiveness in that manner of battling.

Some time ago, Ray received an offer for three fights in California for Brady . . . The first was to be with Andy DiVodi, of New York who has been going well out there, and the second with Battling Dozier . . . If he got past this pair in good shape, Corbett was to be opponent No. 3 . . . Now, what Ray planned to do was to have his Jackie fight righthanded against the first two and lead on Corbett and then go to Los Angeles to train for the bout with the latter . . . In the secrecy of the gymnasium, Brady was to brush up on his southpawing with a view to shifting to that stance after the first round or two against Corbett . . . If there is anything one southpaw boxer hates it is another southpaw . . . Pittsburgh fans had a demonstration of how badly another one of their kind upsets them in the notorious Marcus Nole-Tony La-Rose melee at Motor Square Garden during the past winter season . . . At the eleventh hour, a couple of lucrative matches loomed up for Brady in the East, and the coast trip was canceled, which may or may not have been a break for Corbett, in the light of the dastardly plot hatched in the mind of Benny Ray to give him what in the parlance of the sport is generally known as the "woiks."

The ring in which Max Schmeling will defend his world heavyweight title against Young Stribling in Cleveland on the night of July 3 belongs to the Detroit Olympia arena and has seen much meritorious service . . . In it, Tom Heeney knocked Johnny Risko out of a chance to meet Gene Tunney in the latter's last fight . . . Jackie Fields lost his world welterweight title to Young Jack Thompson within its ropes, and Jimmy McLarnin was knocked out in the enclosure by Ray Miller . . . King Tut also plastered Billy Petrolle within its confines . . . Tom Kearney, well-

GOODYEARS COP SOCCER TITLE

AKRON, O., June 8.—(AP.)—Goodyear Wingfoot soccer team, of Akron, won the National amateur championship here yesterday by defeating the New Bedford, Mass., Black Cats, 2-0, in a rain-soaked gridiron before a crowd of 5,000 persons.

The heavier Goodyear team, champions of the western division, had the advantage on the slippery grid. The eastern champions found their teamwork foiled by unfortunate skids at crucial moments.

Goodyear scored after six minutes of play when Charley Walker, outside right, headed the ball past Mullin, Black Cat goalie. The second goal came after 24 minutes of the second half when Jimmy Craig, inside left, shot a free kick past Mullin. The lineup:

Black Cats.	Position.	Goodyear.
Mullin	G	Pearson
Laycock	R.B.	Stevenson
Traznadel	L.B.	Chatterfield
Greenwood	R.H.	Sellars
Zych	C.H.	Fisher
Kogut	L.H.	Oakes
Winn	O.R.	Walker
Perry	I.R.	Blackburn
Mojtunik	C.	Robertson
Kamoinek	I.L.	Craig
Barlow	O.L.	Bingham

Substitutions—Crosby for Sellars, Wilson for Chatterfield, McDonald for Greenwood, Heywood for Kogut. Score at half time—Goodyear 1, Black Cats 0. Goal scorers—Walker, Craig.

Referee—George Lunsden, Pittsburgh. Linesmen—Pete Taylor, Akron; William Fisher, Youngstown.

Ludolph Pitches No-Hit Game

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—(AP.)—Wee Willie Ludolph last night pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the Pacific Coast League for Oakland, to defeat the San Francisco Missions, 4 to 0. Incidentally, he broke a 15-game losing streak for the East Bay club.

SOGGY GROUNDS KEEP TEAMS IDLE HERE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The second game of the Pirate-Philly series at Forbes Field, scheduled for this afternoon, was called off at noon on account of wet grounds and threatening weather. The postponed contest probably will help to make up a doubleheader between the two clubs when the Phillies return next month. This matter will be decided later.

The present series will be completed tomorrow afternoon. On the following day John J. McGraw will lead his famed Giants into the city for a four-day invasion. At the conclusion of Saturday's contest, the Pirates will move to Brooklyn for a Sunday game. At the same time, the Robins will hurry from Cincinnati to the home grounds to greet the Buccaneers.

The game finished, the two teams will then carry their fight to Forbes Field, where games will be played on the three succeeding days. This series will wind up the visits of the eastern clubs to Pittsburgh, the Pirates to leave Wednesday for New York, where the second eastern tour will begin the next day.

Manager Ens today stated he might return Gus Suhr to the lineup at any time, and he will use George Grantham in his batting front when righthanders oppose the Pirates. Comorosky is to remain in his leftfield role, he said.

The Pirates and Phils enjoyed an off day yesterday. The Bucs were scheduled for an exhibition game in Cadiz, O., but the game was called off early because of wet grounds.

BUCCO, PHILLY TRADE LOOMS

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, and L. C. Ruch, new president of the Phillies, are reported to have held a conference yesterday at which time a trade involving the two clubs is said to have been discussed. Ruch is with his team at Webster Hall.

Only one more week remains in which deals can be made by major league teams. After June 15 the transactions among the big leaguers are limited to waiver exchanges and free agent actions.

The Pittsburgh club seems to be eager to make a swap of some kind, but unless Dreyfuss and Ruch negotiated with some success the chance for a significant deal is said by other officials to be slim.

PANKA GIVES MAX TUSSLE

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 8.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling, training here for his July 3 bout with W. L. (Young) Stribling, boxed four rounds yesterday, during which he knocked out Pedro Lopez, 215-pound sparring partner from Oklahoma City.

Lopez and Charley Wepner, New York heavyweight who sprained an ankle while boxing with Schmeling last week, left the camp last night for their homes. The remaining sparring partners are George Panka, Pittsburgh heavy, who made a good showing in his first workout yesterday against the champion; Tiny DeBolt, of Cleveland, and Tony Marullo, of New Orleans. Jack Pallat, Cleveland, will arrive later.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Giants' road trip out West would be just about as successful if they were peddling lighthouses instead of trying to snatch some ball games. The Cards are gently stretching out their lead like the A's in our league and it looks as if both circuits could cancel the schedule after Fourth of July and all go fishing. In Pittsburgh the fans have not only given up hope, but they gave up looking at the Pirates during Lent and then forgot Easter Sunday had come and gone. Business at Forbes Field is so poor it takes a doubleheader to even get the ushers to show up. If things don't pick up I hear Barney Dreyfuss is going to sue the Pittsburgh fans for non-support.

Not only the Pirates' baseball game with the Phillies, but also tonight's scheduled boxing bouts at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, were called off shortly after noon today.

Jackie Brady

The bouts will go on tomorrow night, weather permitting. The postponement was made because of cold and threatening weather.

Baby Joe Gans, of New York, one of the leading Negro welterweights in the sport, and Jackie Brady, of Syracuse, N. Y., are the main-bouters.

Marty Gornick and Al Ghan are to meet in the eight-round semi-final, Carl Montebano and Mickey Solomen in the second bout and Carl Cesko and Anson Green in the opener.

It was announced that the boxers on the card will not weigh in until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Between Rounds

Joe Walters, Springfield (O.) middleweight puncher, and K. O. Kelly, of Akron, Negroes, box the main event of a double windup show at Franklin, Pa., tonight, with Indian Tiger West and Billy Bruns in the other 10-rounder, and Freddie Boylestein, of Kittanning, meeting Young Lyle, and Johnny Pial, of Greenville, opposing Willie Barlow in the preliminaries.

Tug Phillips, formerly of Fayette City, takes the place of Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, against Relampego Saguero, the Cuban, in the main bout of an all-star card in the Mills Stadium, Chicago, next Thursday night. Fields is out with a broken hand.

Matchmaker Bill Dummer, of Hickey Park, Millvale, has rounded out an all-star card of four eight-round bouts to take the place of his Frankie Genaro-Jimmy Thomas show, Thursday night, the bantamweight feature having been set back one week at Genaro's request. Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Tiger Joe Randall, of the East End, welterweight rivals, will be in the top spot and, in the others, Meyer Frager, of Chicago, will meet Ray Collins, of Erie; Jimmy Taylor, of Cleveland, will oppose Jack Tracey, local Negro middleweight, and Ray Lyle, of Akron, will take on Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, in the opener.

Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., boxes Alex Simms, of Akron, in the main bout of a show at Zanesville, O., tonight.

The Ivan Vacturoff-Karl Pojello wrestling bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night is a return match, Vacturoff holding a judges' decision over the Lithuanian. Tiny Roebuck and Vanka Zelezniak are in the main bout in the Millvale arena.

Ray Kiser, who opened the Meyers Bowl this season against Jack (Kid) Berg, former junior-welterweight champion, since has lost a bout to Battling Shaw, a Mexican, from Laredo, Tex., who may come here under the management of Barnard Kelly, Jr., of McKeesport, who now is in Saginaw, Mich., where his light-heavyweight, Buddy McArthur, is recovering from a sick spell.

BAKER DRAWS SCOUTS

Eddie Baker, former Pitt football and basketball star, now playing baseball with North Side Civics in the City League, is attracting the attention of major league scouts, according to reports. The Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Browns are said to be interested in the popular Panther athlete. Baker is an outfielder, but also can play first base.

A big schedule of baseball games faces local followers of the sandlots this evening, provided the sun comes out and dries up the diamonds.

Whether some of the games can be played is a big problem, for it was the heavy rain of the weekend that put Sunday's games out of commission and played havoc with many fields.

One game is scheduled in the West Penn League. Gerry Americus and his Marty Griffin club, of the Hill, invade Swissvale to do battle with Ed Walsh's Community nine.

In the Commercial and Industrial loop the fans find the undefeated Reliance Life team hooking up with the Coalers at Library. Hale, former minor leaguer, will probably make another effort to stop the Insurance team. Gormley or Dutch Spencer will take the mound for Reliance.

Three games are listed in the City League. Art Rooney and his North Side Civics, who, by the way, have taken on a new lease of life, will go to Olympia Park to meet the Book Shoe nine. The Civics are flashing a sensational brand of ball, and are the most improved team in the district.

Homewood goes to Dormont. It is quite possible that Abe Martin and Bimmy Steele will tangle. The second game of the week between the club takes place tomorrow at Homewood.

At Bloomfield the North Side Buicks will try to get back into the win column by stopping the J. L. Thomas nine. Sammy Leon lost the last session with the Buicks, but may ask Manager Kennedy for another chance at the Dunsky entry.

The Homestead Grays play in Cadiz, O., and the Ingomar club entertains Linden at Ingomar in independent tussles.

RAIN CURTAILS M.-A. CARD

Rain did its level best to rub out yesterday's Middle Atlantic League schedule and did succeed in ruining completely two games, ending another with the score tied in the seventh inning, and another in the sixth.

At Clarksburg, the Generals were walloped, 15 to 3, by Charleroi, but Sam Langford, a rookie pitcher, made himself a hero, despite the defeat. He quelled the Guv bats after Urinsco had been shelled from the mound and in the seventh inning deserted the mound to take his place back of the bat, catching the remainder of the game.

Charleston slammed out 14 hits while Horn limited Hagerstown to six and the Generals won, 6 to 1. Hagerstown made three errors.

Beckley defeated Altoona, 7 to 5, in the only other game that went to a decision. The game was called in the sixth.

At Johnstown, the Johnnies and Huntington battled to a 6-6 tie in seven innings, rain forcing a halt in the action at that point.

YANKS SIGN FYFE

EVANSTON, Ill., June 8.—(AP.)—Malcolm (Bock) Fyfe, righthanded pitching star at Northwestern University for the last three years, has signed a contract with the New York Yankees.

IRISH TO PLAY NEW FOES

NOTRE DAME, Ind., June 8.—(AP.)—Signing of home-and-home football games with Kansas, Pittsburgh and the University of Southern California have been announced by Jesse C. Harper, director of athletics at Notre Dame.

The Ramblers will play Kansas at Lawrence next November 5 with a repeat performance here in 1933. They will meet Pittsburgh there in 1933 and here in 1934, while Southern California has been signed for 1932 and 1933 and Carnegie Tech from 1931 to 1935 inclusive.

Haskell Institute will meet the Notre Dame squad in the opening game of the 1931 season here on October 8. The Indians and Kansas replace Pennsylvania and Indiana on the Notre Dame schedule.

The card:

October 8—Haskell Institute at South Bend.
October 15—Drake at South Bend.
October 22—Carnegie Tech at South Bend.
October 29—Pittsburgh at South Bend.
November 6—Kansas at Lawrence.
November 12—Northwestern at South Bend.
November 19—Navy. Place to be decided.
November 26—Army at New York.
December 10—Southern California at Los Angeles.

O'Reilly Resigns At Georgetown

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP.)—The resignation of John D. O'Reilly, a member of the coaching staff of Georgetown University since 1914, has been accepted by Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the institution.

COAST STARS LEAD TRACK PARADE

By JESS CARVER

That crack about fame being fleeting and the popular belief that it is tough to stick at the top may go in a lot of cases but certainly not in track and field, especially where the Pacific Coast in general (Southern California's Trojans in particular) is concerned.

Eddie Tolan

The national collegiate track and field campaign was washed up Sat'day with the staging of the annual N. C. A. A. meet in Chicago. Today it is possible to compile a list of champions for 1931, the selections being based on the best efforts of the year.

EASTERNERS TRAIL

As usual, the East takes a licking, although the boys along the seaboard did somewhat better than they have for a few years past in that they crowned two undisputed champs and placed another in a spot where he shares a title with a middle westerner. California divides six championships among U. S. C., Stanford and California, with U. S. C. taking down the lion's share with three. The Middle West has the rest, Ohio State being the only school aside from Southern California to have full possession of two. Young Jack Keller, the sensational hurdler, has seen to that.

Following are the champions for 1931 and their marks:

TRACK EVENTS

100-yard dash—*Wyckoff, U. S. C., †0:09.4.
220-yard dash—Tolan, Michigan, 0:20.9.
440-yard run—Williams, U. S. C.; Eastman, Stanford, †0:47.4.
880-yard run—Letts, Chicago, †1:53.5.
Mile run—Hallowell, Harvard; Putman, Iowa State, 4:18.
Two-mile run—Chamberlain, Michigan State, 9:18.7.
High hurdles—Keller, O. S. U., †0:14.3.
Low hurdles—Keller, O. S. U., †0:23.5.

FIELD EVENTS

Pole vault—Graber, U. S. C., †14 ft. ½ in.
Discus—Jones, Stanford, 159 ft. 10½ in.
Shot—Rhea, Nebraska, 51 ft. 2⅛ in.
Javelin—*Churchill, California, †220 ft. 11½ in.
High jump—O'Connor, Columbia, †6 ft. 5 in.
Broad jump—Barber, U. S. C., †25 ft. 3½ in.
Hammer throw—Connor, Yale, 167 ft. 2 in.

DUKE ALUMNI PLANS SET

Widely varied program of sports will occupy attention of Dukes of other years tomorrow afternoon as scores of former Hilltoppers assemble on the Bluff for active participation in the annual Duquesne University Alumni Day celebration. General Chairman Joe McAteer, with the assistance of Athletic Director Elmer Layden and Joe Bach, has arranged a card of festivities calculated to appeal to all sorts of competitive tastes.

Following religious exercises in the morning and yearly meeting and election of officers of the alumni body at 1 p. m., special bill of sport pastiming to include baseball, tennis, handball, track and mushball will get under way. Outstanding feature of the tussleing will be a diamond battle involving a hand-picked crew of old-timers under the captaincy of Gil Trageser with a crack outfit of current graduates to be led by husky Jock Rosenberg. The annual varsity-alumni tennis duel is likewise on the books.

Schenley to Lose Sports Star in Mihm

Schenley High will lose one of its greatest athletes when Joe Mihm, four-letter ace, is graduated from the Bellefield school. Mihm has earned 11 varsity letters in baseball, football, basketball and track.

Mihm is undecided where he will go for his college education. He is considering Carnegie Tech and Colgate University.

RAIN HANDICAPS WOMEN'S PLAY

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 8.—(AP.)—A renewal of the heavy storms that have flooded the course for several days delayed the second qualifying round of the British women's golf championship, forcing the early competitors to combat extraordinary hazards.

Wanda Morgan, the Kent champion, who was second at the close of the first 18 holes of qualifying play Saturday with a score of 80, required 87 strokes through the rain today. Her total of 167 gave her an early lead nevertheless.

Maureen Orcutt, the New Jersey girl who represents the principal American threat and who posted an 82 Saturday, was among the late starters.

YANKS IN FRENCH OPEN

DEAUVILLE, France, June 8.—Five American golfers are to compete in the French open tournament, which opens here tomorrow. Horton Smith and Willie Hunter, pros, head the U. S. delegation, which also includes J. H. Forsman and Johnny Depaolo, amateurs.

ANNUAL EVENT TO BE HELD AT SCHENLEY

Boys throughout the district interested in the fourth annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Western Pennsylvania amateur junior golf tourney for the William Randolph Hearst trophy and other prizes, to be held at the Schenley Park municipal golf course on Tuesday, June 30, will be delighted to learn that John Jay Burke, now city office manager for the Allegheny County parks, who for years has been enthusiastic in encouraging golf among the members of the younger generation, again will be honorary director of the tournament.

John Jay Burke

Burke has been appointed, and graciously accepted, this responsible task for the last three years, and this year is eager to assist in putting over the Hearst tournament. Burke said, in accepting:

BURKE'S STATEMENT

"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's annual junior tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy beyond question is the greatest tournament in the world. No tournament in junior golf in the history of the United States has as large an entry, and few of them are superior to it in spirit. We need more really good golfers in our amateur ranks, and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in building these boys into gentlemanly, skillful golfers, with a natural competitive background, is hitting that object squarely. I am proud to again accept the duties as honorary director for the tournament, and shall do my utmost to assist in making it even a finer event than it has been in the past, if that is possible."

Right off the bat, Burke went before City Council and had the Schenley Park links set aside for the boys' big day of golf—and City Council also was glad of an opportunity to assist in the man-building, competition-creating spirit among the juniors of this district.

OPEN TO AMATEURS

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tournament is open to all amateur golfers 19 years of age and under, who are not attending an institution of learning above preparatory school grades, which also includes caddies now working who are 17 years of age or under. Caddies, of course, will have to participate in a preliminary qualifying test at their own club before advancing to the championship proper.

There is an entry blank in today's sports section—fill it in, have your parent or guardian sign it, and mail it immediately. Only a couple weeks remain for you to get it to the Golf Tournament Editor, for all entries close on June 25.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

MARKET RALLY CONTRARY TO OUTLOOK

Value Lies in Possibility Of Halting Unwarranted Pessimism, Observer Says

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 8.—The social value of a stock market rally at this stage, after the acute speculative weakness since February, should not be underestimated, but at this period of partly seasonal backsliding in business the economic setting is scarcely attuned to indiscriminate bullishness.

Mr. Rukeyser

The utility of a rally would lie in arresting the wave of nonsensical pessimism which has been paralysing the initiative of business men. Business has been suffering from perverted "new era" business philosophy in reverse. It has been retarded by temporary shriveling of the will to build constructively.

GERMAN FINANCES

With commodity prices continuing their drift to the 1913 level and with the immediate economic outlook clouded by the crisis in German finances and by the erecting of higher traiff barriers by Canada, the depressed state of world business should not be minimized. Domestic business in the large is still slightly above the December low point, but there has been some average recession since April.

Numerous investors are determined to withold stock purchases until there is evidence of improvement in business. By midsummer speculative attempts may be made to exploit expectations of better business in the autumn. Last week's rally, starting on Wednesday, was largely technical in character. Short selling had gone to extremes, and the banks and the stock exchange combined to discourage further destructive raiding. The stock exchange made its influence felt by requiring daily reports on the short position of member firms, and the banks, followed by brokers, adroitly reduced marginal requirements from 25 to 20 per cent.

SOUND BANKING

It is sound banking to reduce the proportion of the cover as securities and commodities become deflated, and conversely to heighten the ratio of margin when they become inflated. It is the essence of good banking to exercise wise discretion on this debatable question of when securities or commodities are comparatively cheap.

The short-lived mechanical and excited rally, which centered in stocks in which there was presumably a large short interest, was quickened by the coincidental withdrawal of federal objections to the Vacuum Oil-Standard Oil of New York merger and by the preparation of railroad executives to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for relief in the form of freight rate increases.

Southern Railroads Cut Motor Rates

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Railroads operating throughout southern territory have been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce rates on passenger automobiles moving from assembly and distribution points to destinations throughout the South in an effort to meet truck competition for this business.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 8.—Heavy rains in parts of the Canadian drought region carried wheat prices downward early today. Weakness of securities and reports of large yields of new winter wheat in Texas were influential also as bearish factors. Opening ½c to 1⅜c lower, wheat afterward held near to the initial range. Corn started ⅜c to ⅝c off and subsequently declined a little more.

Street Expects Steel Backlog to Reflect Seasonal Lull

From preliminary forecasts now making their appearance, it is indicated that the street is looking for a drop of somewhere around 250,000 to 300,000 tons in the volume of unfilled orders on the books when the Steel Corporation monthly figures appear at noon on Wednesday. These estimates probably accounted in part for the selling which came into the stock during Saturday's short trading session. For April a contraction of 97,000 tons was reported but May has invariably been a month of heavy shrinkage marking the slackening of demand with the approach of the summer months. In fact, this tendency has been so pronounced that if the forthcoming figures should reveal a drop of less than 250,000 tons, such a shrinkage would be smaller than the average for the month over the last eight years. The smallest drop in that period was 123,596 tons in 1923, while the largest ran to 580,358 in 1924.

The new week should bring a real test of the market's mettle. The turn in the situation that developed the middle of last week had its basis in an oversold condition and was not due as far as can be seen to any appreciable change for the better in underlying business conditions. The flare of short covering is now pretty well over judging by the action of the list, and for the next little while the market may be inclined to take cognizance again of the ebb and flow of outside news. Much will depend on the attitude of the investor, that is whether long swing traders, or bargain hunters as they are sometimes called, are disposed to begin picking up selected shares. In other words some real buying will be required now with much of the short interest having been driven out.

On several occasions in the past few weeks there has been talk of good buying in Commercial Solvents, but not until last week has accumulation come into the stock from important quarters. It is known that this quiet buying was encouraged by one of the leading banking institutions which has been the leader in many constructive moves in the past few months. The low selling price of the stock has made it attractive for outsiders.

Interests who accumulated a large position in Woolworth some weeks ago were not attracted into taking profits when the stock enjoyed its upturn early last month. Instead they have been adding to holdings during every favorable buying opportunity. The point is made that developments in the English subsidiary are likely to be of vast importance to the stockholders in the future, and if the general market moves ahead sharply, Woolworth will eventually assume its old leadership.

Most of the recent buying in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit has been credited to interests who should be informed on New York traction affairs. It is contended that if present plans carry through, and many believe they will, Brooklyn-Manhattan will be one of the chief beneficiaries.

Strong, well-financed employers can check the vicious circle of depression by announcing that there will be no layoffs and no wage reductions for the remainder of the year. A reader in the mill town of Donora, Pa., points out to Merryle S. Rukeyser, special writer for the Sun-Telegraph, the psychology of the average consumer, saying: "Personally speaking, I would purchase a car in a minute if I knew the end were near. The wardrobe of my family is depleted, new home furnishings need to be bought, but will I do it? No! I do not know what is coming or when it is coming. I may be included in the next layoff. I can take no chances. Unlike the foolish virgins, I am saving my oil, and, my friend, the oil which I and others are saving, taken collectively, would lubricate a great many wheels of industry."

Baltimore & Ohio Loadings Decline

BALTIMORE, June 8.—Baltimore and Ohio Railroad handled 184,074 revenue freight cars in the first 24 days of May, a decrease of 3,004 from the like period in April and 58,700 cars below the similar 1930 period.

Can's Sales Near Record Level Of 1930

CHICAGO, June 8.—Sales of American Can Company currently are running about 8 per cent under the record levels of a year ago, said H. W. Phelps at a meeting of the company's central division of salesmen. The company, however, expects to maintain the level of last year for the full year 1931.

American Can's stockholders to date total about 30,000, an increase of 6,000 during the past year, he said. Mr. Phelps urged the salesmen to invest in the company's stock.

APRIL EXPORTS TO RUSSIA OFF

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Canada and Soviet Russia, among others, reduced sharply their purchases in the United States during April as compared with the same month last year.

While Canada continued this nation's best customer, Commerce Department reports today showed she took only $44,850,629 worth of American goods in April as compared with $64,000,274 in April, 1930. Exports to Russia totaled only $6,786,831 compared with $10,225,488.

American imports from these two countries also fell off. Purchases from Canada totaled $23,756,856 against $36,364,727, and from Russia $926,292 against $2,376,363.

British India was the only country increasing her purchases in this country during April, the amount being $4,258,959 against $3,752,460.

Spectator

Copper Trade Outlook. Readjustments Needed. Steel Decline Checked.

—By Wall Street Spectator—

NEW YORK, June 8.

IN REVIEWING the current position of the copper industry, Standard Statistics points out that recent developments indicate that further readjustments are necessary before profitable operations again can be attained.

It holds the belief, however, that prevailing low prices will be influential in hastening a reduced output, probably through the elimination of marginal production. Even over the longer term, it is held the high cost mines will continue to experience difficulty in recouping their former positions in the industry.

EARNINGS FOR practically all copper companies during 1931 are expected to fall well below even the unsatisfactory levels of last year, and aggregate dividend payments will likewise experience some further downward readjustment.

Thus, despite the well deflated position of copper shares at this time, Standard Statistics find little justification for a sustained upward movement during the next few months. It does not advise the sacrifice of present long-term holdings of such sound issues as Anaconda and Kennecott, if able to disregard the immediate uncertainties still surrounding the industry.

New commitments, however, should await the appearance of basic improvement in the trade.

THE STEEL ingot figures of the American Iron and Steel Institute for May disclosed that although the output was smaller than for any month since January, the decline in production was less than in April and substantially less than in May, 1930.

The steel industry operated at 45.36 per cent of capacity last month, compared with 49.29 per cent in April, 54.20 in March and 73.68 per cent in May, 1930.

However, in May, 1930, the rate of production was 5.27 per cent less than in the preceding month, whereas last month the rate was only 3.93 per cent less than in April. Therefore the current seasonal decline in steel is much less precipitous than that of the spring of 1930.

TRADE EXPECTS OIL PRICE GAIN

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—The California Petroleum industry is in a more optimistic frame of mind than it has been in several months, with indication that an upward readjustment of crude prices will materialize within a few days. It is anticipated that crude prices will be restored to the March 10 level which would bring the average price for higher gravity California crudes to around 75 cents per barrel, or an advance of 40 cents a barrel.

Coincident with any readjustment of crude oil prices, it is understood that gasoline prices will be revised.

MARKET GAINS AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Losses Canceled and List Works Slowly to Higher Level—Trading Quiet

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP.)—After a general decline in the early hours, the stock market caught its second wind today, cancelled the losses and worked slowly above Saturday's closing prices.

Trading was quiet both on the decline and on the rally. Bonds were irregular, with the trend slightly downward.

Resumption of selling in the rails and the disposition of a week-end accumulation of offerings burdened the market for the first hour or so, but resistance increased when losses of a point or two had been developed in the pivotal industrials and utilities. Pressure against the rails was lifted and by afternoon the market had regained its courage.

Recessions running to nearly 5 points in carrier issues were sharply reduced and in many instances eliminated. United States Steel, which had dipped 2⅜, fully recovered.

Closing of a half dozen small banks in Chicago seemed to have little effect here, nor was there an appreciable reaction to week-end news on the German situation.

Weekly economic surveys took the view that last week's rally was primarily impelled by technical market conditions, pointing out that so far there was nothing in the business outlook to support a belief that an important upturn was at hand. In general, Wall street circles which warmly welcomed the halt in the three-month decline probably would be satisfied if the market went into an interval of dullness, characterized by narrow price changes.

Firmness of the oil stocks reflected a more optimistic attitude toward conditions in that industry.

Early weakness of the rail stocks seemed to be largely in sympathy with Pennsylvania's poor first quarter, which showed a net loss of $1,205,241 after taxes and charges, compared with net income of more than $11,000,000 a year ago.

Money was dull and rates unchanged, call loans renewing at the old 1½ per cent rate.

Applications for Life Insurance Up

Applications for new insurance received by the New York Life Insurance Company during May amounted to $90,900,000, an increase of 17½ per cent over the $77,341,000 total for May, 1930, President Thomas A. Buckner announced. This is the largest volume applied for in any month since August, 1930, and exceeds the monthly average of business for the last five months of 1930 by over 30 per cent.

Tire Shipments For April Higher

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Rubber Manufacturers' Association reports April shipments of tires as 4,931,936, an increase of 19.7 per cent over March, but a decrease of 3 per cent from April, 1930. Production totaled 4,944,363 casings, an increase of 3 per cent over March, but 12.4 per cent below April, 1930.

Macy Reports 42% Gain in Business

NEW YORK, June 8.—R. H. Macy & Co during the past week had a 42 per cent increase in transactions over the like 1930 week and a substantial increase in dollar volume, according to President Straus. Three affiliated stores also had a large increase in business.

British Rubber Stocks Decline

LONDON, June 8.—Stocks of crude rubber here on June 6 totaled 84,915 tons, a decrease of 417 tons from the preceding week. Liverpool stocks amounted to 54,258 tons, as against 53,890 tons last week.

Shanghai Bank Ships Gold to Vancouver

SHANGHAI, June 8.—The Central Bank of Shanghai shipped gold bars to the value of $5,100,000 to Vancouver today on the Empress of Asia.

LIGHT TRADING ON LOCAL MARKET

Prices Hold Near Levels Of Previous Session's Close; Fuels Unchanged

Trading was unusually light as the new week opened on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with only a few of the recently active issues appearing on the board and most of the transactions being in odd lots, or blocks of less than 100 shares each.

The early market here was influenced by some degree by the lower opening and subsequent irregularity on the New York exchange. Initial trading on the "big board" saw the entire list lower with a moderate volume of offerings in the leading rails and industrials. This selling was taken on a scale down after which there was a firming tendency noted in a few of the key stocks while numerous miscellaneous issues slipped a little lower. Inability of the trading element to decipher the foreign developments over the week-end contributed to the hesitancy.

The local list held to its narrow range throughout the greater part of the session. Fuel issues were unchanged as were most of the industrials. Pittsburgh Plate firmed up in the afternoon in response to the higher prices in New York where pivotal stocks advanced two to five points from the morning lows.

Curtailment Hope Of Penna. Oil Men

Continued curtailment of Pennsylvania crude oil production and an early meeting with bankers of Venango, Crawford, Forest and Clarion counties, in the hope of financial backing, are the immediate aims of Central Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association.

D. B. McCalmont, president of the producers' association, said its duty is to keep production down to 4,000 barrels a day. Mr. McCalmont said that with crude at $1.50 a barrel, the loss to producers in the Central Pennsylvania district alone on an annual basis is $4,188,000.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

GENERAL FOODS

Organization of a new subsidiary, Minute Tapioca Company, Ltd., with headquarters and factory at Montreal, was announced by General Foods, Ltd., Canadian affiliate of General Foods Corporation. The new unit, which will take of the company's tapioca requirements for the Dominion, will not affect production or employment at the main tapioca plant at Orange, Mass., the announcement said. General Foods, Ltd., also has opened new divisional headquarters at Winnipeg to direct distribution of all General Foods products in Western Canada.

1930 CARGO MOVEMENT

A study made by the bureau of research of the Shipping Board shows that more than 40,000,000 tons of freight were carried between American and foreign ports in American flag vessels during the fiscal year 1930. The report showed that nearly 60,000 entrances and clearances were made at United States ports during the period and of this number 41.4 per cent were American ships, while 104,670,487 tons of cargo carried to or from our ports by vessels of all flags, about 40.2 per cent were carried in American bottoms.

LEATHER DELIVERIES

Deliveries of sole leather by tanners for the first four months this year were slightly above those for the same period last year, amounting to the equivalent of 2,349,000 hides, compared with 2,334,000 last year, the New York Hide Exchange reports. Tanners' finished stocks of cut and uncut sole leather continued to decline and at the end of April were 5.9 per cent lower than December 31, when they were at the highest point in recent years.

LEAF TOBACCO EXPORTS OFF

Total leaf tobacco exports during the first four months of this year amounted to more than 184,000,000 pounds, a decrease of 8 per cent compared with the total of 201,000,000 pounds in the corresponding period of last year, but a gain of 12 per cent compared with the first four months of 1929, according to the Commerce Department.

Dean Langmuir has been elected a vice president in charge of research of Distributors Group, Inc., sponsors of North American Trust Shares and affiliated sponsors of Cumulative Trust Shares. Mr. Langmuir is a vice president of Cumulative Shares Corporation, depositor corporation of the latter investment trust.

Trust Rules Announced By Investment Bankers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE INVESTMENT BANKERS' Association of America today announced a definite stand on practices in the investment trust field. The report of the investment companies' committee, to be made public tomorrow in the June number of the association's official publication, will indorse the action recently taken by the New York Stock Exchange and will recommend that these rules be followed by investment houses whether they are members of the exchange or not.

The investment bankers' report insists that complete information be made available to the public on every phase of both management and fixed investment trusts. It favors the publication of all details regarding the holdings of management trusts and also lays down recommendations on accounting practices.

In discussing fixed trusts the report follows the lead of the New York Stock Exchange in insisting on a standardized method of publishing loading charges so that investors may have a clear idea of the actual cost of trust shares in excess of the value of the underlying securities. The report also condemns the practice of using retrospective analyses as a basis for predicting future earnings and demands changes in many of the advertising practices followed by fixed trust sponsors.

In Accord With Suggestions

RULES LAID DOWN by both the New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Bankers' Association in regard to loading charges and the use of statistical charts covering previous years are in exact accord with suggestions made in a series of articles on fixed trusts published in this column last February. At that time the injustice to the public of concealing the real costs for loads in forming fixed trusts was shown and it was said that sooner or later the sponsors of trusts would have to adopt standard practices which would make these expenses entirely clear.

The fallacy of basing estimates of future earnings of fixed trusts on charts showing the performance of the underlying stocks over the preceding 10 or 20 years was also shown in that series. Obviously a trust formed 20 years ago would not have included the same stocks as are being selected today.

Action Taken Too Late

THE STAND TAKEN by the New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Bankers' Association is without any doubt a constructive step from the standpoint of the public as well as from the standpoint of the investment banking profession. It is truly surprising that rules of this kind were not laid down a long time ago. While investment trusts are newcomers in this country, it has been common knowledge for over a year that the sponsors of some of the fixed trusts have been deriving large hidden profits and that their securities have been misrepresented.

During this period large amounts of fixed trust shares have been sold to investors who had no clear conception of exactly what they were buying and the sponsors of trusts which were operated on a fair basis were at the disadvantage of having to compete with improperly operated trusts.

The house cleaning through which sponsors of fixed investment trusts are now passing is commendable, but it is strangely reminiscent of the barn which was locked after the horse was stolen.

Mellon Calling Treasury Notes

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(INS.)—Taking advantage of easy money conditions, the Treasury is rapidly developing its program for rearrangement and consolidation of the public debt which at the end of the current fiscal year will exceed $16,500,000,000.

Today Secretary Mellon called the remaining outstanding 3½ per cent notes, issued in 1927 and 1928, amounting to $451,719,450 for December 15, a year earlier than the maturity date. In all probability there will be a bond issue of a billion dollars or more in December, and it was anticipated the Treasury would be able to float the long term securities at a rate of 3 or 3⅛ per cent.

Bank Debits Gained During Past Week

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Business, as measured by checks cashed on individual bank accounts, picked up appreciably during the week ended June 3. The Federal Reserve Board, reporting on 266 principal cities, indicated total debits of $11,469,000,000 for the week which included but five business days, or a gain of 15 per cent over the previous period. The total was swelled by monthly bill payments.

Sales of Copper Metal Slow Up

NEW YORK, June 8.—Copper metal buying here and abroad is quiet. Foreign sales in the forenoon today were 750,000 pounds, and on Saturday totaled 9,000,000 pounds. Total foreign sales so far in June are roughly 38,000,000 pounds. In the domestic market producers and custom smelters are asking 8¼ cents a pound delivered but fabricators and consumers are showing no interest.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS
Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County,
Room 108, Court House,
Pittsburgh,
Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an "Act relating to Allegheny County," approved the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendment to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1866, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several Wards of the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, Boroughs and Townships, will be open, and I will be prepared to receive the County, Road, Poor, Bond Interest, etc., Park and Personal Property Taxes for the year 1931 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July only at 5% discount, during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if furnished name, location by Ward in the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton, or Boroughs or Townships. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payment may be made in cash at Treasurer's Office, or through mail by Certified Check or Money Order (payable to John Francies, County Treasurer), and mailed to Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipts.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, nor will Taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1931.

Delay in delivery, by mail or messenger, will not be considered an excuse for non-payment before expiration of discount or face period for payment.

JOHN FRANCIES,
County Treasurer.

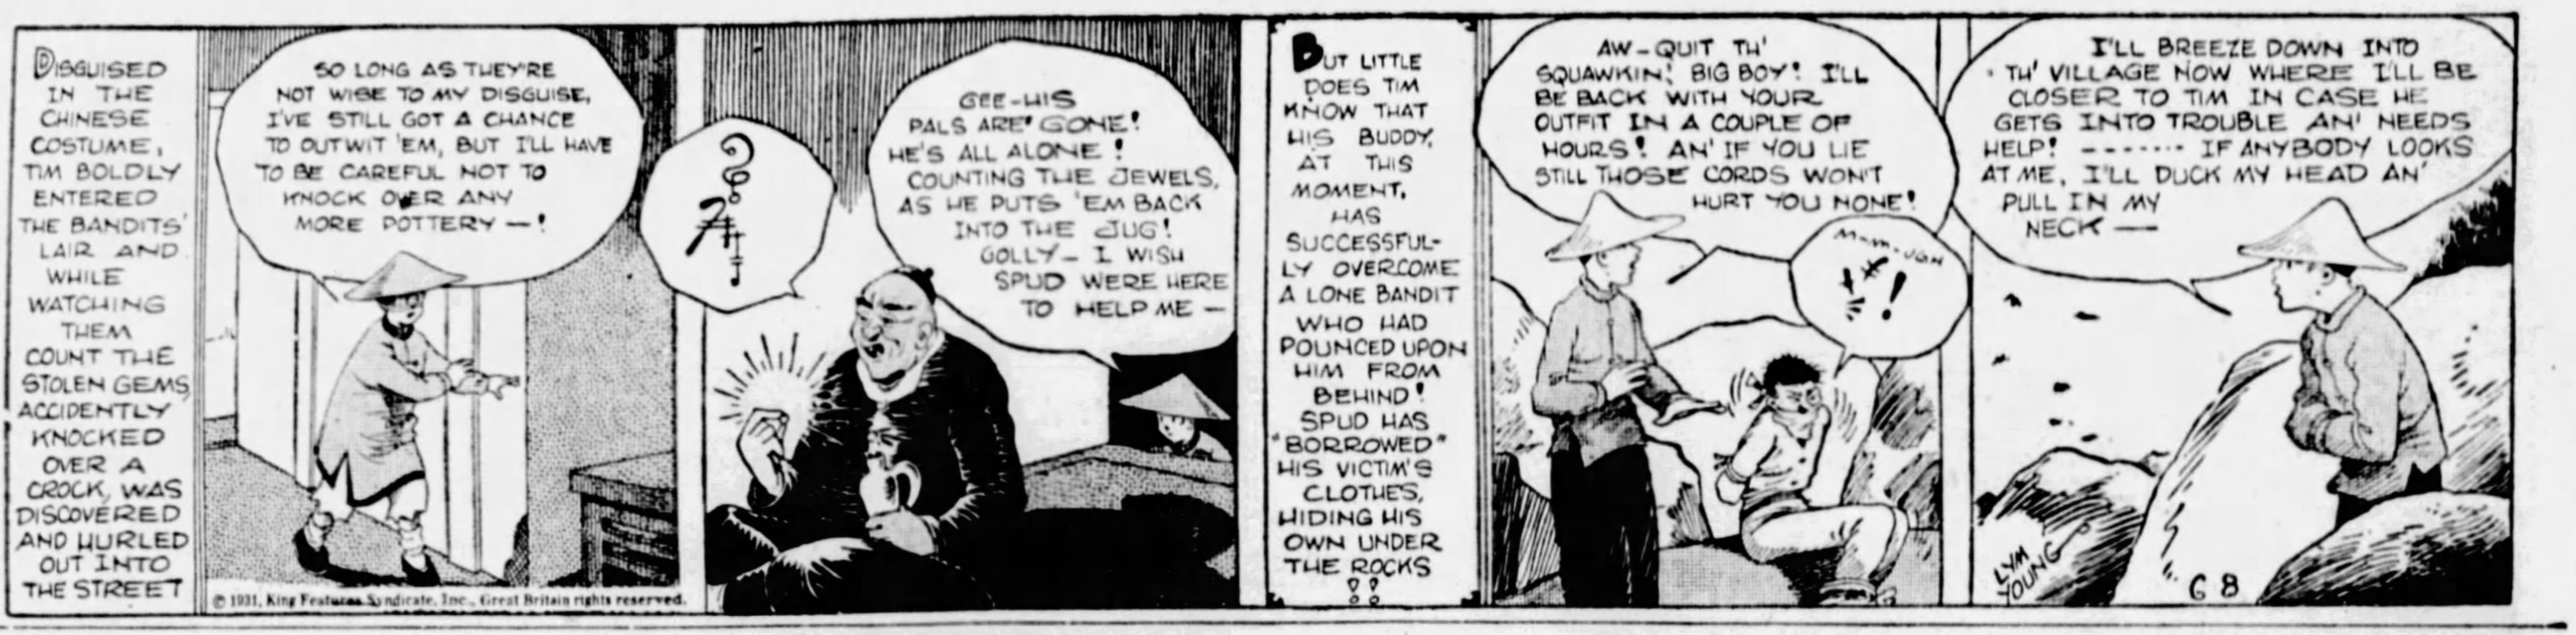
TIM TYLER'S LUCK
Spud Goes Native
By Lym Young



DISGUISED IN THE CHINESE COSTUME, TIM BOLDLY ENTERED THE BANDITS' LAIR AND WHILE WATCHING THEM COUNT THE STOLEN GEMS ACCIDENTLY KNOCKED OVER A CROCK, WAS DISCOVERED AND HURLED OUT INTO THE STREET
SO LONG AS THEY'RE NOT WISE TO MY DISGUISE, I'VE STILL GOT A CHANCE TO OUTWIT 'EM, BUT I'LL HAVE TO BE CAREFUL NOT TO KNOCK OVER ANY MORE POTTERY —!
GEE-HIS PALS ARE GONE! HE'S ALL ALONE! COUNTING THE JEWELS, AS HE PUTS 'EM BACK INTO THE JUG! GOLLY - I WISH SPUD WERE HERE TO HELP ME —
BUT LITTLE DOES TIM KNOW THAT HIS BUDDY, AT THIS MOMENT, HAS SUCCESSFULLY OVERCOME A LONE BANDIT WHO HAD POUNCED UPON HIM FROM BEHIND! SPUD HAS "BORROWED" HIS VICTIM'S CLOTHES, HIDING HIS OWN UNDER THE ROCKS ??
AW - QUIT TH' SQUAWKIN', BIG BOY! I'LL BE BACK WITH YOUR OUTFIT IN A COUPLE OF HOURS! AN' IF YOU LIE STILL THOSE CORDS WON'T HURT YOU NONE!
I'LL BREEZE DOWN INTO TH' VILLAGE NOW WHERE I'LL BE CLOSER TO TIM IN CASE HE GETS INTO TROUBLE AN' NEEDS HELP! ------ IF ANYBODY LOOKS AT ME, I'LL DUCK MY HEAD AN' PULL IN MY NECK —

Mournful, Jenny Turns to Ramon for Comfort

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XXVII.

What, what, in God's name, had prompted this death act of Avery's? asked Jenny. How could this darling of her indulgence, her adoration, have snipped the cord that bound his heart to hers, as casually as you would snip the cord of a candy box?

How could an offshoot of her own body-fiber have committed an act so outside the dimensions of her own comprehensions?

Slow, smoldering conviction became Jenny's that Rarick had been the stone wall before which Avery had found life meaningless.

Rarick had crossed him so constantly. Passively, rather more than by deed or stricture. That was what made it maddening to her and subtle.

She had been a good mother, neither Avery nor Jennifer nor even Rarick himself had denied her that. Wherein had she failed? Or had Avery failed? Her dear. Her beautiful. She had seen to it that his hands were crammed unto bursting with all her love and indulgence could give him.

SWEETENED BY GRIEF

Dears it was too much. . . . A.

What was too much, my darling? Avery, my darling, what, oh, what? Avery, am I in a dream? Are you dead?

It was to Ramon she turned.

"Oh, my darling," she told him over the small table of a smaller-than-ever tea-room in West Ninety-seventh street, where they were venturing to meet, "you must be everything to me now."

"You will not let me be."

She knew what he meant. Ramon was more and more restive. This furtive meeting here and there was degrading. To both Sure as fate, it would begin to attract notice. Cannot get away with this kind of thing indefinitely.

"Yes, yes, darling, but—"

"But why procrastination? This eternal procrastination. Two years of it now . . ."

"Darling, you are killing me. If ever I needed to mark time, it is now. Lightning has struck my life . . ."

His beautiful black eyes could fill with tears for her.

The death of Avery, whom he had never seen, had affected him in a manner strange to him. He, to whom sickness was an ugly misdemeanor, felt a strange beauty in Avery's kind of death. He thought of this boy nights, as he lay trying to sleep. He had died with the flower of his body in full bloom.

What a strange, a terrible, a revealing, a shameful note, "It was too much."

Too much when Ramon, who loved life, was starving. Well, anyway, starving for the good things of life. Perhaps this tragedy was writing on the wall. Good times ahead.

'Five and Ten' Synopsis

John G. Rarick, multi-millionaire chain store operator, buys a magnificent mansion after being urged by his wife, Jenny, and finds himself hating her. This is accentuated by his own inability to get close to Jennifer and Avery, his children. Jenny begins to be intrigued by Ramon Lopez, a gigolo. Avery, a college student, tires of school. Jennifer likes the handsome and rich Berry Rhodes, and Jenny urges her to try to win him. Berry kisses Jennifer while taking her to one of Leslie Edgerton's parties. Jennifer learns that Berry and Leslie had been married secretly. Ramon, saying that he has been neglecting his work to see Jenny, gets money from her. Rarick rushes to Jenny's boudoir after receiving a disturbing letter. The letter says that Jennifer is still seeing Berry. Jennifer says that she does not want to see him again. Jenny plans to go to Canada with her. Gerkes surprises Rarick by saying that he is going to marry an Eskimo and live in Alaska. Returning from Canada, Jenny and Jennifer are shocked when they learn Avery is dead. He had given up the struggle to adjust himself to his complex world and killed himself.

Now Go On

Curious, slim, greenish woman, sitting opposite him in the glamorless little tea-shop. Mother of a beatiful boy who had done a strange, wild thing. Her grief made her sweet.

"Sweetheart, when you cry, your eyes are like deep pools filled with sea water that cannot break into surf."

"What would I do without you, Ramon? I need things like that said to me. I'm frightened, Ramon. Life has showed a fang at me. Ramon, I was a good mother to him. You know that!"

"You were too good, Jenny."

"You mean I spoiled—"

"God has no use for protection. It leaves Him idle—"

CONSOLES HER

"You are perfection, Ramon."

"I am kissing you," he said, letting his eyes, that were velvet to her, lie along her narrow fretted face.

"Ramon," she said, giving words to a thought that had smitten and smitten her, "do you think it—possible—that some way—somehow—my boy—could have known—about us—"

That thought, too, had flashed through his brain.

"That, Jenny, you know is impossible."

In a way she did, only the thought would wedge in.

"He idealized me. He was sensitive. That could kill . . ."

"He was too much of a poet. He would have idealized our love."

"You dear! You would see it that way."

He laid hands over her small cold ones.

"Strange you," he said, confusing her with the strange aura of the strange death that hung over her.

"Am I strange to you, Ramon?"

"Only in the sense that the strange is beautiful and full of mystery, like a little sea-flower captured in a bottle."

"In that sense, Ramon, I think I was strange to my boy."

"Strange . . ."

"He must have found life too—too——"

"Too exquisite."

Too exquisite. They bandied words, prettily minted ones, across the table, their glances jeweled with points of excitement.

"Too exquisite on one hand, Jenny—too putrid on the other."

He meant Rarick. The strange, locked sense of her second-rate loyalty kept her silent. With his capacity for reticence at the right moment, he let the conversation end abruptly, as at a precipice, folding her once more in the cloak of his dark-velvet glance.

"It is easy to imagine a death for love of you, Jenny."

"You are all the strength I have, Ramon."

He put out his hand again, stroking hers, insinuating his palm beneath her palm.

JENNIFER SEES BERRY

"Ramon, dear, please! Those people at that table are glancing at us."

He drew back stiff, taut, flushing down into his collar; and suddenly she too flushed riotously.

"Dearest—of course. I have not forgotten what you asked in your note. Here—forgive——"

She felt out timidly for his offended hand, pressing it, leaving a small, folded $500-bill in it.

"The death of Jennifer Rarick's brother has played the dickens with her," people were saying in one way or another.

It had played this kind of a dickens with her, sobering her in a way that made her dull, most of all to herself.

"I've gone dry rot," she said one night to her mirror, propping her cheeks in her palms and gazing at herself through a sudden attack of inertia that had swooped down upon her in the midst of dressing for an early-dinner appointment that had kept her knees feeling like sand under her all day.

The dinner appointment was a clandestine one with Berry. They were to meet and dine at a businessmen's chop-house near Wall street. Afterward, Berry was to join his mother-in-law for another dinner and a benefit performance of "The Port of Salute."

Jennifer was also to dine with Hartley Slocum at the Ambassadeur Club and go on to that same occasion. It was not the first time that their respective appetities, blunted by the 6 o'clock clandestine meal near Wall street, were later to be commented upon in the course of a second and more formal meal.

WAITS ON HIM

It made it easier to eat as they met. Berry had discovered that it kept down Jennifer's late tendency to hysteria. Jennifer no longer made terms, but complied.

There had been only four such occasions. The death of Avery had been a crash into the apple-cart. Why couldn't life jell neatly the way it did in the copybooks?

Berry kept her waiting 20 minutes, so that she sat alone in the businessmen's restaurant, trying, behind her flaming discomfort, to look interested in the large menu proclaiming its specialties of grilled dishes. Fool to have come! Berry at last was probably going to stand her up.

He had begged her to leave off writing, not meaning it, of course. Perhaps his new dignity as father of his son! Strange, how curious that made her to see him, although to visualize him, even vicariously, in the role that was almost unbearable to her, was pain. Berry was the father of Leslie's child, and here was Jennifer waiting for him, the week after the birth, in a downtown restaurant, as she sat trying to hide her face behind the huge menu of grilled chops and planked steaks.

Sickness of spirit smote her. She was on the point of pushing back her chair and leaving the waiter an apologetic tip, when the revolving-door spun Berry into the room, and with his usual capacity to make any place he entered look busy, a hat girl, two waiters, and a maitre d'hotel bowed him to his place.

Editor Believes Daughter Victim of Shipwreck

Hal Green went into the Gladsboro Gazette office and asked to see Mr. Spurling.

Most people around Gladsboro called him "Eb Spurling."

Hal had called him that, in speaking of him, but this was different. He wanted a job on the Gazette. So he asked for Mr. Spurling and addressed him as such. They knew each other slightly.

Now and then Hal had taken Maude Spurling to a dance or a local party, for Maude and Hal had been through high school together.

Maude was Spurling's daughter and only child.

"Hello, young man," Spurling said, looking up from his desk, "what's on your mind?"

"Hello, Mr. Spurling, I came to see about getting a job here."

Eben Spurling put down the exchange paper and shears and looked at the young man rather curiously.

"I thought you were going to study law and go in your uncle's office—what's happened?"

"Why, nothing has happened, Mr. Spurling—only I don't feel any great yen for being a lawyer and I was always eager to get to be a newspaper man—I'm ready to work hard and study—and start with small wages."

FIRST ASSIGNMENT

"Starting with small wages goes with the newspaper game, son. Working hard is another part of the game. As for studying to learn it—that's different."

"How, different?"

"Either you're a newspaper man now, or you never will be. A tyro, of course, but a good newspaper man is born with a nose for news and trained."

Hal Green rubbed his nose and grinned. Spurling was genial and perhaps he was just kidding.

"Well, well, go down to the firehouse on Water street and see them try out the new Siamese coupling."

"Then, I'm hired! Great—and thanks, Mr. Spurling."

"The—er—emolument is $15 per week."

Hal Greene grinned.

"You can't stagger me with that one—what you mean is that I have a job and the wages are fifteen bucks per—I'm off to the firehouse."

Hal Greene was on his way.

Eben Spurling mused for a brief moment. He went back in thought to his cub days. His eyes fell on a small framed photograph amid the litter of his desk—a little picture of his daughter, Maude.

Maude's mother had been dead 10 years.

Well, he hadn't amassed a fortune, but he had educated his daughter and given her plenty of luxuries—it was all in a lifetime. Before long, he thought, Maude would be marrying some nice man and then he'd grow into just a crusty old small-town newspaper man.

Hal met Maude on the way down town.

"Hello there—what do you know?" was his greeting.

"Plenty," and Maude eyed him somewhat speculatively.

"I'm a reporter now on the Gazette!"

Maude stared at him.

"My Gawd, what a sap you are!" . . .

"What do you mean? Your dad's a newspaperman and he's one swell party."

"Oh, dad's all right in his way, Hal—but a newspaperman never gets anywhere, never makes anything—how do you expect you're going to sport around and get any fun out of life with a cheap job like that?"

"Oh, I'll soon be drifting to New York, where the money is."

"That's O. K. by me, Hal—only I'm looking for all the fun there is in life—and that takes boy friends with plenty of it, the long green 'it.'"

So Hal went on to the firehouse on Water street and worried just a little. Eben Spurling would be the last one to hear any talk about Maude. But the fact remained that Maude was being talked about considerably.

WRITES GOOD STORY

He got it pretty straight that Mrs. Dodge had gone to Maude and warned her to keep away from Fred Savage. Fred was married to Mrs. Dodge's sister, who was an invalid.

But Maude and Fred often sneaked up river to the camps. And there were other scandals.

Oh, well, Hal had other things to do now only it would be a crime for Spurling to find it out because his only love, aside from newspaper work, was his daughter, Maude. To him she was a paragon of beautiful and virtuous young womanhood.

Hal watched them try out the new Siamese coupling, something new to do with fire fighting apparatus. He chatted with Chief Murphy of the department, collected other oddments of "personals" and went back to the Gazette office.

His opening paragraph was:

"Twins were the order of the day in the Gladsboro fire department yesterday. While Chief Murphy was overseeing the testing of some new Siamese couplings for the hose, the stork brought twin boys to Chief Murphy's home."

He wrote considerably more. Spurling picked up the typewritten sheet and read it.

Hal, pretending to light a cigaret, eyed him. Mr. Spurling was smiling. Hal wondered if he was bad enough to be funny.

"Son," Spurling said, "you win. You've got a nose for news—you sure know news."

Hal was happy.

He worked for two years for Eben Spurling on the Gladsboro Gazette and through the most agonizing time of Spurling's life.

Fortunately, Spurling never knew anything about the Savage scandal, and when his daughter wanted to take a trip abroad, her father willingly financed her.

And this man Savage, not knowing that Maude had been financed by her father, willingly, eagerly, gave her a thousand to have her go away from there.

TO SAIL FOR EUROPE

Hal knew it. Mrs. Savage knew it. Dr. Thorpe knew it—and, of course, Maude knew why she had to get away.

She went to New York and wrote to her father that she was to sail on the little Dutch liner, Traage.

Eben proudly made a "Society Notes" item to the effect that Miss Maude Spurling had sailed on the S. S. Traage for Amsterdam and a tour of Europe.

And then came that awful day when the Associated Press told of the sinking of the Traage with only a handful of the passengers' saved.

There was a mixup in the passenger lists. It was weeks before it was straightened out, and even then there were some doubts.

Eben Spurling rushed to New York. It was as he feared, none of the survivors was his daughter.

Another year Eben Spurling slaved away on his little daily paper, the Gladsboro Gazette.

And then he had a chance to sell his paper. After that he drifted to New York. Within a month he was on the night desk of one of the morning papers. He couldn't keep away from what is called the "smell of printer's ink."

As soon as Hal Green learned about this he wrote to Spurling to let him know if there was an opening.

There was, and Hal went to the big city—the goal of every newspaper man.

His work didn't set the metropolitan newspaper world afire, but it was good, so good that after a while he was getting good assignments. This was due, in a measure, to Spurling's friendship, although no friendship would have permitted Spurling to give a poor reporter a good assignment.

Like a great many inland city men, the water front interested Hal Green more than all else. He used to be especially fond of assignments that took him down there. He substituted for their regular ship news man at times; he also covered some of the police stations.

Hal was looking for a certain stool-pigeon in a hangout where he was tipped to go and he saw a woman, drunk, at a table.

LOCATES MAUDE

It was Maude Spurling!

He sobered her somewhat. She recognized him.

"If you write to my old man, I'll kill you, b'gosh," she mumbled. "No, I never intended to sail for Europe—course I wasn't on that ship."

Hal didn't tell her that her father was in New York and he couldn't tell her father—after seeing her.

It was a year later on a night when Spurling was grumbling that there was no news and saying that he'd have to feature a meeting of the "Neighborhood Tatting Society" if something didn't break, that Hal Green, following up a routine report, went to the morgue.

"Floater—no identification," said the officer.

Hal took a look at the body taken from the river. He went back to the office.

"Well?" Spurling asked, eagerly.

"No news," Hay reported.

Spurling snorted in disgust. He didn't see Hal's finger tremble as he lit a cigaret.

The "floater" Hal recognized was Maude Spurling!

A Prosperity Loan

Nation's Credit Could Be Mobilized to Break Vicious Circle of Depression.

At this transitional period of ebbing faith in current business, American investors have undiminished faith in the value of the obligations of the United States Treasury.

The superlative credit of the federal government has been demonstrated anew in the oversubscription seven and one-half times of the new 18-year 3⅛ per cent $800,000,000 bond issue.

The clamorous demand from institutional and individual investors for these prime securities clearly shows the feasibility of raising $5,000,000,000 through a bond issue providing for public works as a cure for unemployment, as proposed by William Randolph Hearst over WABC and a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Good credit is an attribute of supreme value to governments and to individuals, but its ultimate worth depends on the uses to which it is put.

Instead of simply boasting about our fine credit, which is to a large extent unused in this economic emergency when more than 5,000,000 workers are unemployed, Mr. Hearst has stirred the country by proposing that the good credit be mobilized to break the vicious circle of depression.

The publisher sketched important public works, including the development of internal waterways, which are urgently needed.

He indicated that such material progress would be doubly desirable if it could be accomplished at a time when ordinary trade is slack and when human workers are in dire need.

No one could question the humane aspects of the proposal.

Skeptics raised the question of whether the government could raise the funds economically through a bond issue.

This query has been affirmatively answered by voluntary subscriptions exceeding $6,000,000,000 for a $800,000,000 loan.

While politicians have temporized at Washington, far-seeing economists have emphasized, as Mr. Hearst has done, the necessity of making the federal relief operation of sufficient magnitude to turn the economic scales toward prosperity.

The superb credit of the United States should not be frittered away at this time to meet deficits in current expenditures, which should be taken care of so far as possible through taxation.

The borrowing capacity of the federal government should be reserved for capital purposes in connection with the program to improve the national public works and to restore prosperity.

That the credit is available has been unmistakably demonstrated.

The country is crying aloud for courageous national leaders, who will formulate plans for using the nation's credit economically and effectively, instead of star gazing and wondering why prosperity disappeared.

The Coal Problem

Germany and Brazil Furnish Suggestions That Might Be of Value to the Industry.

For five years depression in the coal industry has been Pittsburgh's most pressing economic problem. There are too many mines, too many miners. The law of the jungle—"dog eat dog"—has prevailed, and has brought hardship on miners, operators, investors and, in communities like this, where coal mining is a major industry, the public generally.

The keenest minds in the country have been enlisted in the search for a remedy. All agree that the only way to cure the industry of its ills is to reduce production or increase consumption of coal.

Two reports just received from commercial attaches of the Department of Commerce stationed in Berlin and Rio de Janeiro have a bearing on this matter.

In the Ruhr district of Germany, we learn, mechanization has forced, since 1924, the permanent closing of 83 mines, with production capacity of 16,000,000 tons a year. In the last 18 months 94,000 miners have been let out.

This is drastic procedure, to be sure; yet it may be that some such operation is what our own coal industry needs. The United Mine Workers of America have always maintained that they did not oppose the introduction of machinery into mines, even though it meant the laying off of miners, if it produced increase in efficiency.

The report from Brazil is that because of the high price of coal the government is seeking to substitute wood as fuel for the Central Railway. This is a reminder of the proposal made several years ago that an effort be made to build up our export business in coal through a reduction in carrying charges.

Air Pollution

Although Dense Smoke Is Decreasing, Impurities in Atmosphere Still Give Cause for Concern.

Records of the Bureau of Smoke Regulation show steady reduction in the amount of dense smoke emitted from Pittsburgh smoke stacks. We may accordingly repudiate the old nickname of "Smoky City."

But Dr. H. B. Meller's report of the investigation he has made of air pollution for the Mellon Institute clearly shows that even if all visible smoke should be eliminated we might still have cause for concern.

Solid particles of matter continue to rain upon Pittsburgh, the precipitation averaging 986.5 tons per square mile between July, 1929, and June, 1930. There can be no question that this soot fall is harmful—harmful to health, harmful to buildings, harmful to clothing.

One of the impressive features of Dr. Meller's report is the brief comment on the part automobiles are playing in air pollution. He states that deposits of tarry matter were far heavier on the boulevards and near the foot of the ramp in a large parking garage than on signal bridges over railroad tracks.

It is evident, as he says, that the automobile as a source of pollution has not received proper attention; and it is to be hoped that the report will lead to efforts to correct the undesirable condition.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.

Why try to be ahead of time?
There's no occasion for the scram.
Why must you make a record now?
What's all the hurry, Uncle Sam?

There is no need for such a rush,
Or for unnecessary speed.
If you'll take time to look around,
You'll find a case of urgent need.

Putting Off Old Age

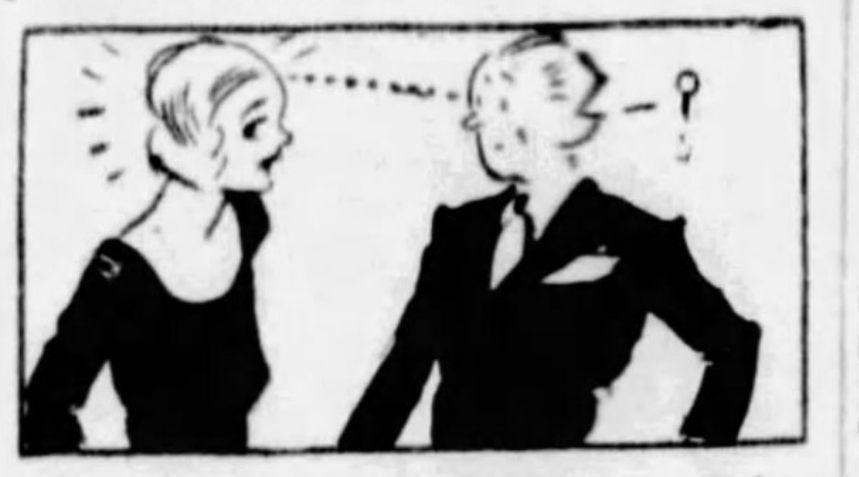
As long as there is a spark of youth in a man's heart—or a woman's either—June means love and adventure, and the revival of all the young hopes and enthusiasms.

* * *

The cautious and wary bachelor who goes around with his finger on his pulse at this time of the year is deliberately courting old age. For there is no YOUTHIFIER equal to falling in love, and no Spring tonic like a brand new romance!

* * *

No doctor, no serums, no iron hypodermics, no osteopathy can stimulate the circulation and stir up the sluggish system like a fresh love-affair or sentimental interest, with even only one-half of one per cent love in it!



It peps up one's vanity, makes one take a special interest in one's looking-glass again. Many a tired business man has forgotten what his own face looked like, until the admiring "April glance" from a girl's eyes inspired him to take a second look in his mirror.

* * *

It puts vitality in a man's step, a polish on his finger-nails, a new light in his eye, and a lot of sweet nothings and graceful compliments in his mouth.

* * *

It has been known to put a brand new tint in a woman's hair, a new sparkle in her smile, and a new faith in her charms and attractions.

* * *

There is no "daily dozen" like a few fresh compliments to "set up" a woman and keep her from feeling passe and run-down.

Oh, yes, a fresh romance, now and then, is the only sure cure for low blood pressure and emotional anaemia. It rouses one's interest in something besides ONESELF, stirs up the pulse, awakens the astrophied emotions and starts the imagination working! It does what no new pair of glasses can do—for it transforms the whole world!

* * *

It jacks up the jaded spirit, gives one a fresh impetus to GO ON—and puts off Old Age another notch.

* * *

A brand new love cheats old Father Time. Alas, for the Tired Soul, whose heart is so covered with ashes of cynicism and disillusionment that it cannot respond to the "rapture and roses" of June!

* * *

He is on his way to the wheel-chair!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 8.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early up and almost out of myself with rapture at Edna Ferber's description of a call upon the then ailing Jed Harris, who among his pillows, she said, suggested a fly in a pan of milk. And a note from Percy Hammond that he, also, rode to his Newport (Ky.) wedding in a rubber tired hack.

Breakfasting on hot corn bread and a mackeral which I shall taste for days. And weeding out my desk came upon notes from the late Arnold Bennett and Charles G. Norris. Also a postcard from the lecturer, W. A. Porter, in far away South Africa and put them aside for my scrap book.

Laboring until 5 and to a farewell tea to Vicki Baum, the Viennese author of "Grand Hotel." Then walking with my wife and to Dinty Moore's and fell to talking to Lou Holz, Jack Yellen and Dinty Moore's son. Home early and how merrie and God blessed an evening en famille.

* * *

Vicki Baum's name is oddly descriptive. One imagines her somewhat as radiant—a happy fusion of brilliance and activity. The sort who might express a sudden emotion with a Pavlowa kick. In private life she is Frau Richard Lert, blonde and impulsively good humored. She does not mangle the English language, but she breaks it up a bit. In speaking of the ship on which she arrived several weeks ago being 50 hours late she explained: "We sticked in the mud."

* * *

Those who know—and I'm not one of them—say the most important bid for Rudy Vallee's radio popularity is the chubby coloraturo tenor Morton Downey. Downey for years crooned around night clubs and was only a mild favorite. But with the song "Wabash Moon" he caught what press agents term "the vast unseen audience." He now receives $5,000 a week for his personal appearances at movie houses. The chief reason, they say, he has not surpassed the Vallee fame is that he is happily married. Thus he loses the flapper love interest.

* * *

My attitude toward both Downey and Vallee is impersonal. I wish them high luck and a happy landing. Also the millions I hope they acquire warbling. But if I get either on the radio I give the dial a quick spin. Yet it is but fair to say I have heard only two others express the same indifference. Nor is it at all possible we three are right and the others wrong. Both Downey and Vallee have a quality in their voices the majority of people want and no one can laugh it off.

* * *

Personal nomination for the most personable of the new talkie stars—Dorothy Jordan.

* * *

There is a touch comique to those little cordial shops that have popped up like toadstools all over the city. They feature kickless Cointreau, vermouth, curaco and kummel. And many on their windows display a sign: "Deliveries until 4 a. m." It is, of course, possible people call up in the early morning hours for a bottle of non-alcoholic syrup. But it is not imagined any of the shops are besieged with such orders. The trick is that in a large number of such places a dollar will buy a bottle of gin to touch up the concoctions.

Paris has a running mate for the gigolo. He is a resquilleur. And returning Americans are using the word frequently. A resquilleur is what we know on this side of the Atlantic as a gate crasher. He goes everywhere in France, sees everything without forking over a franc. A human sponge.

* * *

The most accomplished resquilleur I know is at the moment occupying a deluxe bachelor pent house in the hoity East Sixty's while the owner is abroad. He is seen in Paris, Palm Beach and New York with the seasons. To my certain knowledge he has not worked in 18 years. He of all men I know lives literally by his wits. His sole asset is charm—the charm of soap-sudsy conversation that floats a bubble sheen in every gathering. No one appears to resent him. In a theater lobby one night he borrowed my cigaret lighter, lighted his cigaret and slipped the briquet into a vest pocket. Throughout the rest of the play I was fomenting an uncontrollable rage, sought him out as the curtain fell and curtly demanded my lighter. He returned it with such gracious apologies that I asked him to keep it as a souvenir. And the son of a gun did.

* * *

Come to think of it I've picked up a silver pencil that way myself. And perhaps a knife or so. Who knows?

COSMIC EVOLUTION

By Archibald Henderson

Although we are separated by eons—by billions of years, at the very least—from the period of planetary evolution, scientists contrive to interest themselves profoundly in the question of the origin of the universe as we know it today. Something, or indeed a number of things, have to be postulated or assumed. Today, on the basis of the quantum theory, by which atoms multiply like the cells of a cancer, and of the expansive theory of the universe, Le Maitre puts forward the hypothesis that the universe has evolved from a single original atom. Thus we have to postulate space of some sort and the existence therein of at least one atom.

This seems something like the De Sitter theory of the universe, finite but unbounded. In that theory, the universe was originally in stable equilibrium; but free of matter. If, however, we insert just one atom of matter in this empty universe, we shall have systematic motion, which the universe, as we understand it today, seems to possess. We have to assume, you see, that the one original atom is "inserted"—how and by whom we have no means of knowing or even guessing, aside from a question of religious belief and faith. There must, of course, be some Prime Mover.

Go back to the time of Kant, and we find ourselves faced with a similar initial difficulty. Kant was not a mathematician or an astronomer but a philosopher. He assumed the existence of a vast original mass; and imagined, of course, that this mass was in rotation. He argued chiefly on the basis of the established facts that the sun and the planets all spin on their axes, and that the orbits of the planets are very nearly in the same plane.

Kant advanced his theory, in 1775, in published form; and it attracted considerable attention, chiefly among philosophical thinkers. It is an interesting confirmation of the trend of thinking, during that period, that 21 years later, Laplace, the brilliant mathematician and astronomer, presented his conclusions, but "with the distrust that anything not the result of observation or calculation ought to inspire." Laplace had to make certain initial assumptions, of course. He assumed that we had a sun to begin with, surrounded by a glowing "atmosphere" reaching far into space, beyond the present bounds of the outermost planet.

Furthermore, he had to assume that this sun together with its vast attendant atmosphere had an initial rotation or spin. Just how, when and where this rotating sun and atmosphere came from, Laplace did not pretend to explain. These were his given data, the fixed assumptions with which he started.

From this vast atmosphere or nebula was derived the name given to Laplace's theory, namely the nebular hypothesis. It held sway, virtually unquestioned, for more than a century. The argument was that as this nebula cooled and shrank, it threw off rings of matter; and these rings, one by one, broke up into fragments, which united to form the individual planets. Eventually it was shown, early in the present century, that the nebular hypothesis was unsound. Many reasons were advanced to show this; but one alone was sufficient to discredit it, namely the established physical principle of angular momentum.

Text For Today If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—I. John, i:9.

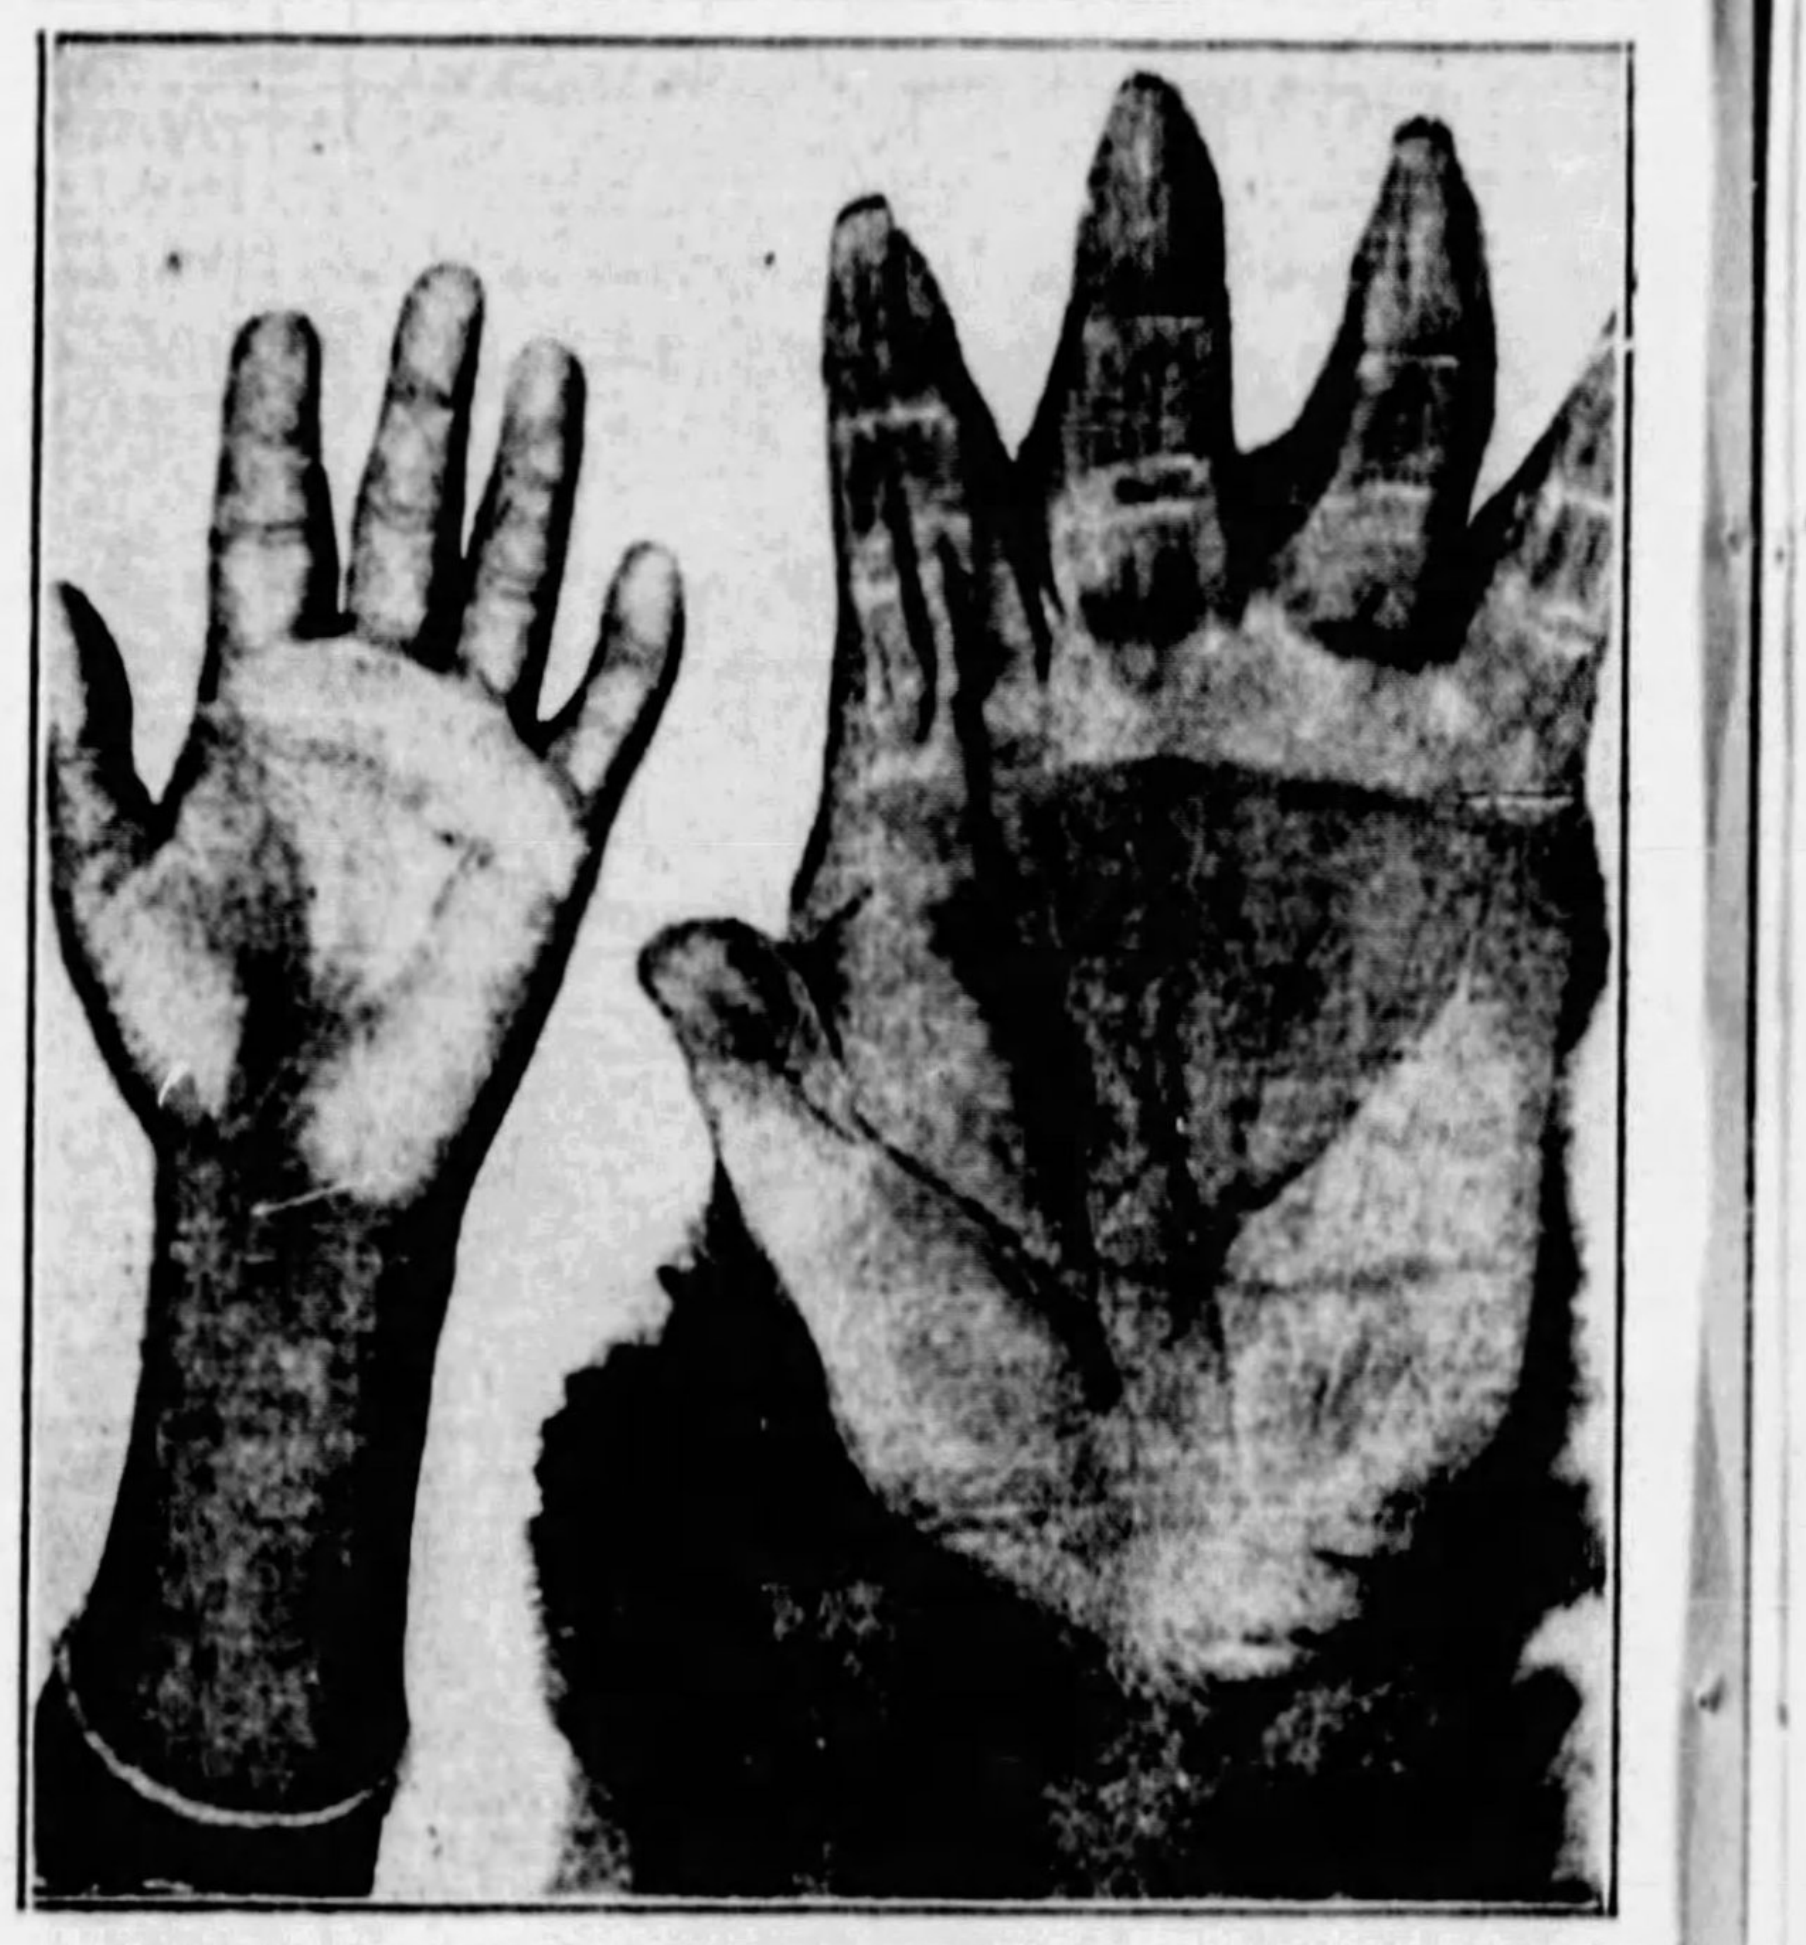
The Hand and the Man

The Thumb Tells What the Brain Has Been Doing.



TWO HANDS, TWO THUMBS

The picture above, published in the magazine Natural History and illustrating admirably what science calls "evolution," shows on the right the hand of a huge gorilla. Beside it is the hand of an adult African native.

The lower picture in this column shows the gorilla to which that strangely shaped hand belonged. The gorilla, dead, is seen with three white men, Mr. Raven, Dr. McGregor and Dr. Gregory, holding him up for the photographer.

The hand on the left is that of a man who has been thinking, at least in a primitive way. The hand on the right, infinitely more powerful, is that of a gorilla that has NOT done any thinking. The difference between thinking and NOT thinking is shown in THE THUMB of the two hands.

All that the gorilla requires of fingers and thumbs is that they provide him with a "hook" to hang around the branch of a tree, or to grasp a club in walking.

The little stump of a thumb on the gorilla's hand is satisfactory so far as he is concerned. While the gorilla has retained the low forehead that you see in this picture, the undeveloped, though powerful hand, and the microscopic thumb, his human so-called "cousins" have developed a bigger thumb, able to work with each of the four fingers.

That development is due to the fact that the owner of the human thumb is a THINKING being.

And as his thinking has increased, the necessity of a more highly developed thumb has increased. The thumb, its flexibility, capacity for work and usefulness, have all grown with the owner's mental processes.

THE GORILLA WHOSE HAND IS SHOWN ABOVE.

Men first fastened sharp flints to the ends of sticks. They needed skill with the hand, and the thumb must work with the fingers for that.

They threw heavy, clumsy lances, and needed a long thumb to put on one side of the lance to counterbalance the four fingers on the other side.

They invented a bow and arrow, and needed a strong, flexible thumb to hold the arrow against the bowstring and pull it back with great force for shooting and killing.

Music and the innumerable instruments came, and a better thumb was needed for playing on those instruments.

All this scientists call "evolution." They tell you that your ancestors of three million years ago had a forehead not much better than that of this gorilla, and an expression about as ugly.

They tell you that the thumb on your small hand, far bigger than that of any gorilla, with his huge paw, is the result of thought.

You do not have to believe that, but you will look at these pictures with interest, you will THINK about them, and, possibly, as you think, your thumb will grow. There is no doubt that thinking influences the size of the nose as a strong will influences the chin.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You wonder why so many men are so deeply interested in their lodges.

The enthusiasm they manifest each year surprises you.

To you the lodge has become tiresome and uninteresting.

Perhaps you have avoided taking a part which necessitated study of the lines and practice.

You never fully comprehended the ritual.

You have not studied it enough to have it mean more than so many sentences—in fact you often wonder what it is all about.

The fine lessons taught have not impressed you deeply.

They have had no part in making you a better, more sympathetic and understanding person.

You have not permitted yourself to be influenced by the advice and suggestions presented.

It seems sort of perfunctory to you, put together as something necessary for degree work, but meaningless.

If you would give serious attention to the lessons which your lodge ritual advances and permit them to become influential in your life you would get more out of your lodge membership.
